

ONE DIES, FIVE HURT IN BRIDGE CRASH

SCHOOLS OF CITY CLOSE ON TUESDAY

Commencement Exercises to Be Held at Memorial Hall Friday

PROGRAM READY

Graduating Classes of Both High Schools Not Yet Determined

City schools will close Tuesday noon, promotions will be made, grades recorded and results of the year's work presented to the pupils Friday at 1 p. m. at the separate buildings, J. E. Collins, superintendent of the city schools, announced Saturday.

Commencement exercises for Central and South high schools and the city and county normal graduates will be held Friday at 8 p. m. at Memorial hall.

Dr. Henry Turner Bailey, director of the Cleveland School of Arts, will deliver the commencement address.

Members of the graduating classes of South and Central highs have not been finally determined at this time, but completed records will go forward from the principals the first of the week, Collins said.

32 NORMAL GRADUATES
Included in the city and county normal school graduates are 32 students who have completed the year's normal training course. The city normal graduates number 19 seniors and the county normal, 13.

Each of the 19 city graduates will attend school this summer at various state normal schools. Green draws announced that the county normal graduates number 13.

Members of the city normal school graduating class are: Zara Annis, Christine Baker, Rowena Bennett, Louise Blank, Marvel Boesel, Leah Carlton, Erna Dempster, Helen Edwards, Mildred Evans, Ruth Finkle, Mildred Fisher, Mary Hersch, Emma Irwin, Elsie Lyman, Mary Marshall, Iona Price, Mildred Stants, Wilma Tinkham and Lucile Webb.

Graduates of the county normal school are: Hazel Armentrout, John Brennenman, Roy Critch, Ruth Hemes, Russell McDorman, Gladys Mayer, Eva Miller, Erma Moller, Donald Roeder, Charles Rusler, Agnes Stockler, Mary Vore and Thomas Williams.

EX-BANKER MAY BE RELEASED

Parole of Youngstown Institution Wrecker Considered.

COLUMBUS. — (United Press). — Bruce R. Campbell, Youngstown, who, as cashier-treasurer of the Struthers Savings Bank, wrecked the institution, is about to regain his freedom, altho he has served less than three years in the penitentiary.

The bank was closed by the state banking department early in 1920, as result of Campbell's embezzlements and misappropriation of funds.

The total loss was around $500,000. Campbell pleaded guilty to falsifying reports and was sentenced to one 30 years.

Governor Donahay has been persuaded that Campbell, if released, will be able to clear up certain of his questionable and tangled "loans" to the benefit of former depositors and stockholders.

The appeal to Donahay was made recently by municipal Judge Heferna, Youngstown, who proposed that Campbell be given some kind of a "conditional" parole, in order that he might go back to Youngstown and go thru the records and books of the wrecked bank in an effort to recover part of the missing funds.

Convinced that such a move would be in the interests of those who lost by Campbell's crime, Donahay said he would recommend to the pardon and parole board that the convict-cashier be released, at least temporarily.

SPRIT MEDIUM FINED $100, SENTENCED TO JAIL

COVINGTON, Ky. — Mrs. Mary Langley, "spirit medium," was fined $100 and sentenced to 50 days in jail Saturday by Police Judge Mason after the exposure of a "seance."

LAWYER AND HIS MOTHER-IN-LAW KILLED IN HOME

Wife of Prominent Denver Attorney Discovers Tragedy When She Returns to Her Apartment—Police Without Clue In Attempt to Solve Mystery

DENVER, Colo. — (United Press). — The bodies of Frederick G. Dewitt, prominent Denver attorney, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Louise Loudon, were found Saturday night in the former's apartment, their throats cut and a knife protruding from Dewitt's neck.

Mrs. Dewitt discovered the bodies of her husband and mother on her return from down town. She is in the county hospital suffering from shock.

Police were undecided whether the two were victims of a murderer or a suicide pact. Both had been dead since morning.

As soon as Mrs. Dewitt recovers sufficiently, she will be questioned by police in the hope she may throw some light on the tragedy.

According to friends, Dewitt recently lost a large sum of money in an oil deal.

He had been in ill health for some time.

SHRINERS MOVING ON WASHINGTON

300,000 Visitors Expected At Meeting This Week

WASHINGTON. — (United Press). — All roads to Washington Saturday night were reported choked with Shriners trekking to mecca.

With the arrival here Sunday morning of Imperial Potentate James S. McCandless of Aloha Temple, Honolulu, and his escort and party numbering nearly a thousand, the convention will be fairly under way.

Final preparations for caring for the host which is converging on the capital by automobile and special train, were Saturday night announced complete by the Almas Temple committee, handling the arrangements.

Fully 300,000 visitors are expected. Elaborate programs of parades, aerial demonstrations, military maneuvers, aquatic performances, and other entertainments have been provided.

The city is in gala attire with Pennsylvania-av converted into a brilliantly illuminated "road to Mecca" with thousands of garlands of red, yellow and green lights.

Before the White House stands the "Garden of Allah" grotesquely hedged in with Egyptian columns copied from the Karnak originals. In the garden is President Harding's reviewing stand from which he will watch the miles and miles of Shriners troop past and where he will wave fraternal greetings.

CHILD IS SCALDED TO DEATH

Charlotte Lipp, 3, Dies in St. Marys Auto Accident.

Scalding water from the radiator of an overturned auto blotted out the life of Charlotte Lipp, 3, daughter of Dolan Lipp, Ft. Loramie garage proprietor, in an accident on the Minister-d south of St. Marys, Saturday night.

Mother of the child and a five-year-old sister were severely injured when the steering wheel locked and the machine swerved into a ditch, turning completely over.

Frantic efforts of Mrs. Lipp and daughter to extricate the child from beneath the radiator, belching clouds of steam, were not successful until she had been scalded from head to foot. She died before medical assistance could be summoned from St. Marys.

The family was on the way to St. Marys to consult a physician concerning the youngest daughter's illness.

Funeral services for the child will be held Tuesday in St. Marys.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY OHIO RAINBOW DIVISION

CINCINNATI. — Don L. Caldwell, Cincinnati, Saturday was elected president of the Ohio Rainbow Division Veterans at their annual convention here. Orville Carson, Greenfield, was chosen vice president and Rev. J. J. Halliday, Detroit, life chaplain.

NAME ELKS' FLAG DAY SPEAKER

Ralph Cole Will Deliver Annual Address Here.

PATRIOTIC BODIES TO AID

Films of Last Year's Ceremony to be Distributed.

Ralph Cole, Findlay, former congressman, will be the principal speaker at the annual Elks' club Flag Day ceremonies Sunday, June 17, Walt DeWeese, chairman of the Flag Day committee, announced Saturday.

Preparations are being made for the most elaborate celebration of the national event yet conducted by the Elks' lodge, and present plans contemplate a military parade, with review; ceremonies at Fairport park, including guard mount, the address of the day, presentation of small flags to every child present; band concert and fire works in the evening.

At least half and probably more of the 14th regiment will be in the city to take part in a military parade and will be accompanied by the regimental band. DeWeese stated.

SOCIETIES INVITED

Invitations have gone out to all patriotic societies of the city to take part in the day's ceremonies and to cooperate with the Elks club in the effort to make the observance of the national flag day one of distinction.

Films of last year's ceremonies were sent to Columbus Saturday, where they will be passed upon by the state board of censors, preparatory to releasing them to theatres in neighboring towns. Included with the films will be an invitation to the park will be given an American flag 5x9 inches in dimensions, and large flags for each of the city parks will be presented by the lodge.

CAPITAL AND LABOR ALLIANCE PLANNED

WASHINGTON. — An alliance of organized labor, big business and the government to insure the permanence of American prosperity is being worked out under plans discussed at a preliminary conference here of representatives of the three groups.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover is behind the movement, the main purpose of which is to establish a working basis for cooperation among American interests that will enable capital and labor to pull together for the common good, and will give the United States a firm hold on foreign markets. By this means the continuance of the present prosperity is to be assured. The preliminary conference, held at Secretary Hoover's home here, was attended by Hoover, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and other labor leaders and by Julius Barnes, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce and other officials of that organization.

WEATHER

WASHINGTON — Weather outlook for the week beginning Monday:
Ohio Valley—Generally fair and moderately warm.
Region of the Great Lakes—Generally fair, normal temperature.

WISCONSIN PICKED AS WET CAMP

Pro-Liquor Forces Heartened By Victory for Repealer In New York

FORCES MOBILIZED

Campaign to Wipe Out State Enforcement Laws Is Launched

MADISON, Wis. — (United Press). — Pro-liquor forces, heartened by Governor Al Smith's signature on the New York state enforcement repealer, Saturday night mobilized forces for a supreme test of prohibition in the west.

Wisconsin was picked for the battleground. Anti-dry forces, led by 13 Milwaukee Socialists, forced a motion thru the assembly, making the Tucker bill to repeal the Wisconsin enforcement a special order of business next Thursday.

The repealer is practically a duplicate of the one signed by Smith. "Wet" and "dry" forces of the state will throw their strength into the proceedings when debate starts.

The Wisconsin legislature has already memorialized congress to amend the Volstead act to legalize beer.

Congressman H. B. Tucker, author of the proposed repealer, started the new wet offensive with a motion that his bill be taken from the table and put on the calendar for vote Thursday.

Assemblyman A. E. Matheson, dry leader, was absent and the motion passed without roll call. The drys didn't know what it was about until they read the newspapers.

CAUCUS CALLED

Assemblyman Lindahl, Superior, leader of the wets, and Thomas Duncan, Socialist chief, Saturday night called a caucus of the wets and plans will be made to push the measure thru at once.

The drys will attempt a policy of delay as the session has but a few weeks to run.

The repealer movement is a final attempt on the part of Wisconsin advocates of booze. Four measures to repeal the essential parts of the 1921 Sevenson enforcement act, have been killed in the senate, which has 18 drys out of 33 members.

BATTLE REOPENED

The lower house some time ago tabled Tucker's measure, after it had been killed 56 to 33, then reconsidered 50 to 33. It was laid aside for fear it would endanger a more moderate wet measure, the Sechtien bill to require dry agents to have positive proof before they get search warrants for homes.

The Sechtien bill recommended by Governor Blaine in a special message, was passed by the assembly 55 to 33, but was killed by the senate. Senator Benney, wet, declared the booze fight of the session was ended, but the success of the wets in New York reopened the battle. The Wisconsin law is so strict that federal dry agents swear out their warrants under it rather than under the Volstead act.

Assemblyman Lindahl predicts that the lower house will pass the bill. Several of the moderate wets, however, announced they would not support it, so the division will be close.

The senate, divided evenly pro-Blaine and anti-Blaine, on other questions, is split crossways on liquor. Senators from the industrial districts of the Fox River Valley and Milwaukee are wet, but the senators from the south and west are dry. Most of 18 senators elected last fall are wet.

FIGHT IN ILLINOIS

CHICAGO. — (United Press). — Repeal of the state prohibition enforcement law will be a major issue in the Illinois 1924 primary and election. F. Scott McBride, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League declared Saturday night.

McBride declared the league is being mobilized to fight a campaign by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment to obtain sufficient "wet" legislators to put a repealer thru the legislature similar to the one signed by Governor Al Smith.

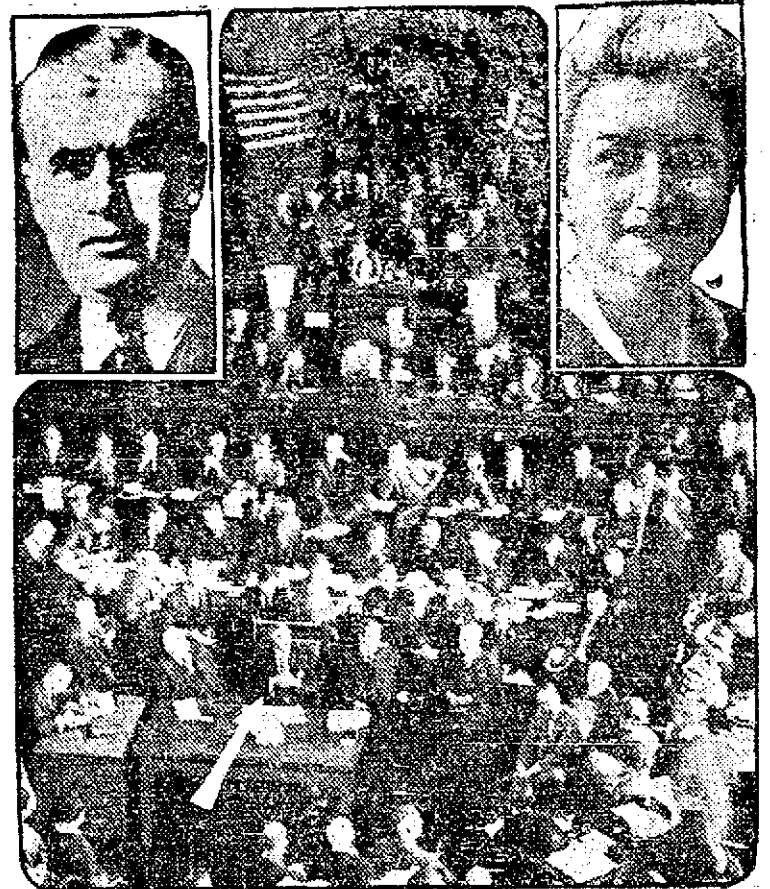

The anti-prohibition association plans to place speakers in the field in every Illinois county during the 1924 campaign. McBride asserted.

ALBANY. — (United Press). — A boy from Oliver-st Saturday night stood in the limelight of the country. And the glare of the spotlight never made him wince a bit.

He was again the same old jovial, affable "Al" that his friends have known for years.

HAMMER MURDERESS IS NOW BEHIND WALLS OF CALIFORNIA PENITENTIARY

PLEA FOR NEW TRIAL DENIED

Husband's Appeal in Clara's Behalf Also Refused.

SAN QUENTIN PENITENTIARY, Calif. — (United Press). — Clara Phillips stepped the end of the trail Saturday night.

The great gray building which had loomed before the convicted "hammer murderess" since the afternoon of July 12, 1922, when Mrs. Alberta Meadows, 13-year-old widow, fell dead under a rain of hammer blows on a hillside near Los Angeles, has at last claimed the woman whose name has been linked with notorious escapees for nearly a year.

Mrs. Phillips was known to the prison authorities here Saturday night as convict 37944, and so she will be known for an indeterminate number of years to come.

It was shortly after noon Saturday that the end of the trail was reached by Clara. Boat, train and automobile had hurried her from Tegucigalpa, Honduras, where she had fled with Jesse Carson, following her escape from the Los Angeles jail, and shortly afterward, the "little door" in the big gate opened, admitting her and escorting officers.

MATE'S PLEA DENIED

LOS ANGELES. — (United Press). — "I will tell everything of my relations with the dead girl, Alberta Meadows. I will bare my entire life to save Clara."

That was the anguished cry Saturday of Armour Phillips, as Clara, his wife, her last hope gone, sped toward San Quentin after a half hour with him here Friday night. Only an hour before her arrival, the "hammer murderess" learned that she had been committed to San Quentin and that the appellate court had denied habeas corpus proceedings for an appeal. It was a hard blow and she seemed about to collapse, but she rallied and regained her composure.

Etta Mae Jackson, Clara's sister, who took part in the Honduras adventure, went on with the party to San Quentin, saying she wished to remain with Clara even in the penitentiary.

Phillips asked that he be permitted to accompany the party, but his request was refused by the sheriff. Phillips then offered to bare his whole life and alleged relations with Alberta Meadows, if the sheriff would keep Clara here and give him a chance to tell his story in court.

That also was refused. Armour petted, kissed and hugged his wife who tottered him with what appeared to be indifference.

"Goodbye, dear, be sure and write often," was his final patting as the train pulled out. Clara did not answer him.

"I'm glad to be back. I'm all in," was Clara's only comment. Since escaping from the county jail here several months ago while awaiting transfer to San Quentin, to serve her sentence, she has traveled over most of Mexico and Central America, finally being recaptured in Honduras.

TOURING CAR PLUNGES TO CREEK BED

Dewey Nelson, Former Lima Man, Killed by Heavy Steel Work

WEST OF WAPAK

Two Lima Men Injured In Wreck—Brought To Hospital Here

Dewey Nelson, 22, of Wapakoneta, former resident of Lima, was instantly killed and five others seriously injured when a large Cadillac touring car in which they were riding, crashed with full force into the side of a massive steel bridge a mile west of Wapakoneta about 10:30 p. m. Saturday.

The impact of the collision caused the bridge to collapse.

The bridge and auto fell into Pusheta creek, 20 feet below.

Nelson's father, is employed on the E. & O. railroad at Wapakoneta as car inspector.

FIVE INJURED

The injured are: Allen F. Clapper, 29, of 407 W. Wayne-st, Lima, employe of the Lima Locomotive Works, who suffered injuries to one of his legs and cuts about the head and body.

Ralph "Red" McPherson, 27, of 211 E. Vine-st, Lima, chest crushed, arm lacerated and body bruised.

John Shawan, 23, Wapakoneta, possible internal injuries.

George Walls, 20, St. Johns, slightly injured about the body.

Other autoists discovered the injured men when they approached the wrecked bridge while enroute to Wapakoneta.

Clapper, who was the owner and driver of the automobile, was conscious when found by the passing autoists. Other aid soon arrived and the injured men were extricated from the ruins of the automobile and demolished bridge.

Nelson was found to be dead and the task of rescuing the body from the wreckage was extremely difficult, owing to the fact that the body was pinned down across the bridge by a large iron beam, a part of the overcast structure.

MEN BROUGHT HERE

McPherson, Shawan and Clapper were removed to St. Rita's hospital here, the former in the Heiml & Swonger ambulance and the latter two in the ambulance of D. A. Siferd.

Siferd, Fred Loescher and Ed Seltz, who brought the injured men to Lima, were among the first to arrive at the scene.

"Many of the early arrivals were hesitant about venturing into the twisted mass of metal because of the fact that huge slabs of concrete, part of the bridge floor, overhung Nelson's body. I finally persuaded them, however, and with 15 or 20 others succeeded in extricating the body," Siferd said.

Nelson's body was removed to the Siferd mortuary in Wapakoneta. His head was crushed to a pulp. The others besides the three brought to Lima were taken to the office of Drs. H. B. and G. E. Faudler in Wapakoneta for medical attention. They are only slightly injured.

CLAPPER'S STORY

Clapper, who has only one leg, said he left Lima early Saturday evening, accompanied by McPherson and drove to Wapakoneta where they had supper. Clapper then said he picked up Emrick and Walls at Wapakoneta and then drove to New Bremen, southwest of Wapakoneta, where they patronized a dance.

2nd and TOURING CAR
About 9 p. m. Clapper told McPherson he would like to go to St. Marys to visit the skating rink there. Clapper invited Shawan and Nelson, boys from Wapakoneta, to get into the car and ride to St. Marys.

Clapper said that later in the evening they started from St. Marys to Wapakoneta and he was driving the car at about 25 miles per hour. At the time the automobile was approaching Pusheta creek bridge the car was said to have been traveling about 40 miles per hour.

There is a slight curve just at the west approach to the bridge and it is believed that Clapper was unable to slow down quickly enough to avoid striking the side of the structure.

The car sideswiped the left side of the bridge, and the structure collapsed, falling a distance of 20 feet. A heavy iron beam fell on top of the car, which resulted in direct injuries to several of those in the machine.

WAS OLD STRUCTURE

The bridge, an old style iron structure of one span about 100 feet long, was constructed in 1883. It adjoins a trestle used by the Western Ohio Railway.

Understructure of the bridge collapsed in the middle, pulling the ends in from the abutments. Practically the entire bridge was resting in the creek bed when rescue parties

UNITED STATES RITES IN PLACE OF WEDDING

CAMDEN, N. J. — (United Press). — After having postponed her wedding six months, in order to care for her widowed and aged mother, Miss Clara Dexton, 55, died Saturday, a few hours before she was to have been married to John Schwarz of Audubon. The minister, arriving by appointment to perform the ceremony, will officiate at the funeral.

COUNTY FAIR IS NOW HISTORY

Meeting in Two Weeks to Disband Agricultural Society.

Raucous call of the peanut vendor, ballyhoo of the sideshow man, persistent hurdy-gurdy of the merry-go-round, thrilling neck-and-neck harness races and all the other familiar sights and sounds at county fairs have passed down the dim vistas of history, so far as Allen-co is concerned.

After nearly 75 years of agricultural and progress exhibitions, the Allen-co Agricultural society will be disbanded.

Following last desperate measures to hold the organization intact, G. Dale Creman, secretary, announced Saturday that a meeting of the society's board of directors will be held in two weeks to dissolve the organization.

Impossibility of renewing a lease on the Lima driving park and other conditions has made this action imperative, Creman said. He has made arrangements to transfer a fund of $1,200 remaining in the society's treasury to the county auditor.

"Even tho we had leased the park and made other arrangements it would have been too late for us to undertake a fair this year," Creman declared.

Passing of the annual Allen-co exhibit leaves only one fair in the county—the tri-county event at Delphos. An association to promote this fair is composed of Allen, Putnam and Van Wert residents.

WORKMEN KILLED

Two Detroit Laborers Scalded to Death in Boiler.

DETROIT. — (United Press). — Ernest Irvine, 24, and Lawrence Sauder, 38, were scalded to death here late Saturday when steam was accidentally let into the boiler inside of which they were working.

The men were workmen in the employ of the Continental Motor company and were clearing the inside of a gigantic boiler. A valve opened mysteriously, scalding the men to death before they could climb out of the boiler.

PREPARE PLANS FOR PAVING

Lincoln Highway and Grove-st Road Will Be Improved.

COUNTY OUTLINES WORK

Proposed Improvements Will Cost $50,000, Estimates Show.

Plans for the paving one mile of the Lincoln Highway thru Gomen and one mile on Grove-st road in Bluffton, authorized by the county commissioners recently are being drawn by county engineers in the county surveyor's office.

Cost of improving the two streets will total $50,000, according to estimates prepared by County Surveyor Walter R. Toy.

The plans outlined by the county contemplate building a water-bound macadam base on the two roads, with a top surface of asphaltic material.

Width of the road will be 18 feet, according to present plans. It residents along the two roads desire to undertake the extra cost, the width may be increased to 30 feet.

If a concrete base is used instead of macadam, the cost of the roads will be proportionately greater, Toy declared.

Commissioners hope to let the two roads early in the summer, so that the contractors can rush them to completion before fall.

Paving work on other county projects is proceeding rapidly. It was announced Saturday. A four inch stone base is being added to the waterbound course laid on St. Johns-nd, and the whole section extending from the end of the present paving in Center-st. two and a half miles south will be surfaced with Willite. Willite is a form of asphalt, with copper sulphate added to increase the wearing qualities.

FEWER VOLUMES CIRCULATE

Librarian's Figures Show Slight Circulation Decrease

Patrons of the Lima Public Library read less in May than they did in April, according to statistics compiled by Miss Martha Gamble, librarian.

Both children and adults have drawn fewer volumes, circulation figures show. Total juvenile circulation for May was 1404 volumes. For April the total was 1621. Total adult circulation for the past month was 4050. In April they took 4571 volumes home. Average daily circulation for May was 44 juvenile books and 156 adult books.

Fiction received the greater patronage by both children and adults. Juveniles read 1075 yarns and adults dipped into 3117 romances. Works classified as real literature were most in favor by both juveniles and adults. But comparison with the amount of adult fiction in circulation indicates that Lima readers left the classics to shift for themselves. Only 139 volumes of "literature" were taken home.

Books on natural science were next in demand by adults, with a total circulation of 65. Following natural science, works on useful arts were popular.

Total average daily circulation of juvenile books was 54 and adult daily circulation was 156.

WIFE IS ACQUITTED

Kentucky Woman Freed in Murder of Husband

HENDERSON, Ky. — (United Press) — Olga Gibbons alone must pay the penalty of a life sentence for the murder of her husband, Gus Noffsinger, prominent coal mine manager.

Mrs. Lullie Noffsinger, the victim's wife, late Saturday was acquitted of the murder, with which she was charged, following allegations that she and Gibbons had plotted to dispose of Noffsinger and elope with his insurance money.

Gibbons, on the witness stand, admitted a love affair with Mrs. Noffsinger and charged she struck the blow which killed her husband. Gibbons is under life sentence for the murder.

According to the testimony of Mrs. Noffsinger, she was asleep in her bedroom just outside of which her husband's body, his head battered in with a hammer, was found.

GERMANS JAILED

Criticism and Espionage Charged By Belgian Court Martial

DUSSELDORF — (United Press) — A Belgian court martial Saturday night, sentenced the mayor of Dusseeldorf to nine months in prison for writing a letter criticizing the occupation of the city.

Four other Germans, charged with espionage, were sentenced as follows:

Herr Samdors—ten years imprisonment and 1,000,000 marks fine.

Herr Jamecot—five years and 1,000,000 marks.

Herr Magrat—two years and 1,000,000 marks.

Herr Vallant—six months.

arrived. More than 20 men were required to move some of the huge steel girders before the body of the dead man could be moved.

One of several curves thruout the length of the St. Marys pike leads from the Johnson farm, about 400 yards west of the bridge. The highway slopes gradually from a point an eighth of a mile west to the bridge. The curve, sharp grade and the fact that the highway is of concrete construction, makes the point difficult to negotiate, motorists declare. Numerous accidents have occurred there since the highway was improved about five years ago.

The bridge had been repaired a short time ago by county commissioners. A new floor was laid and it was improved generally. Heavy traffic had made it necessary to keep a close watch on the structure, officials declare.

The St. Marys road is the most important artery leading from the western part of the county into Wapakoneta.

GREAT AVIATION MEET PLANNED

Flying Contest to be Held at St. Louis

ST. LOUIS. — (Associated Press) — "A free-for-all" air race, from all parts of the country with St. Louis its objective, is on the tentative program of the international air race to be held here October 1-3. The contests would be open to flying events of all kinds, and the participants will be handicapped as to type and weight of machine, fuel consumed, and distance covered.

The contest is to be called the "On-to-St. Louis" race, and it is hoped to have a number of entries from Canada, should the National Aeronautic Association approve.

The tentative program also includes a dirigible race, in which the army, and possibly the navy, would be represented; exhibitions of the helicopter and glider, the radio-controlled plane, the reversible propeller; glider launched from a dirigible; aerial combats and bombing of a dummy fort; and a race between a fast dirigible and an airplane.

There also would be a contest of airplane models, built by Boy Scouts, the winner of which would receive a $5,000 silver trophy. The miniature planes would be driven by motors, operated by compressed air.

Other proposed features include races for army training planes by civilians, for army and navy fighters, for light commercial planes, and for larger planes.

The Pulitzer Trophy race, which will be held in conjunction with the meet, is expected to take on an international character as under way to induce some of the noted European flyers to enter.

AUBURN CONVICTS USE COVE PLAN

Woman Prisoner is Responsible for Adoption in Jail

AUBURN, N. Y. — (Special) — Convicts in Auburn prison are counseling themselves.

It is the newest pastime of the cells. A woman serving a sentence for murder started the "Cove method" of healing herself of a long illness by conscious auto-suggestion.

And immediately some hard-boiled prisoners seized upon the idea—hoping that its reputed magic might dissolve the bars!

Poor fellows, they have the wrong idea," says Mrs. Mary Murphy, chief disciple of Cove in Auburn prison. "Somebody heard me say I thought Coveism would show me a 'way out'—and they thought I meant a way out of jail."

"I had been sick for a long time. At my trial I collapsed several times, and my illness continued in prison. But I've been working hard to apply Cove's principles and I feel I have had a lot of benefit."

Meanwhile the cell block over in the men's section vibrates with a nightly whisper:

"Every day in every way I'm getting closer and closer!"

"To what?" asks a doubting pessimist.

"To freedom, you poor boob!" says the optimist, blissfully ignorant of a twisted idea of Emilie Cove's health doctrine.

NATION FIGHTING WHITE SLAVERY

Woman Official Tells Of Efforts To Wipe Out Traffic

WITH CHILDREN'S BUREAU

International Commission Named By League of Nations

WASHINGTON. — (United Press) — "The decision by the council of the League of Nations to appoint an international commission to investigate actual status of the international traffic in women and children will give a basis for formulating a definite plan for controlling and suppressing this vice."

This is the declaration in an exclusive interview to the United Press of Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the Children's bureau of the United States Department of Labor and American representative at the second session of the League of Nations' Permanent Advisory Committee on Traffic in Women and Children.

Miss Abbott is thus the first American official from Washington to participate in a League of Nations organization. Only on two other League organizations is the United States represented.

That Miss Abbott has no intention of playing a merely passive and "unofficial observer" role in the League's campaign for the suppression of the white slave traffic is indicated by the fact that it was she, herself, who proposed the plan for the investigation which was recommended to the Council and has just been adopted by that body.

In combating this traffic Miss Abbott is being backed not only by the United States government, but by a number of the leading private organizations in the United States for the suppression of the white slave traffic.

Miss Abbott hopes that the investigation will be made in half a dozen or more of the leading "exportation ports" of Europe and the Orient and also in various "importation ports" of North and South America and other countries to which it is reported some victims are being sent. The precise object of the investigation is to determine definitely if such an organized traffic actually exists at the present time and to what extent.

ALIEN WOMEN IMPORTED

"In an investigation made in the United States in 1908-1909 by the immigration commission, it was found that a large number of alien women and girls were at that time being imported into the United States and distributed through the several states for purposes of prostitution; that some of these were unwilling but a larger number, willing victims, and that they were purchased by letters or through agents sent to Europe and Asia from time to time. Following this investigation our immigration law was amended and the Mann White Slave act passed. It is believed that these measures have, to a very large extent, broken up the organized commercial traffic between our states and the United States and other countries. No more national or international inquiry has, however, been made since 1910 and it may be that it has developed in new forms and from new sources.

"The investigation which the League Council is undertaking ought not only to establish this, but if it develops that the traffic has been resumed, it will give us the necessary information on which to base a definite plan and campaign for wiping out the evil.

"The permanent advisory committee to the League of Nations, which I attended in a consultative capacity, is composed not only of official representatives of governments but unofficial representatives of all leading private international organizations for the suppression of the traffic in women and girls. None of the members of the committee have any authority to bind their own governments, nor has the committee as a whole any authority to commit the League to any program. All members of the committee are chosen as experts in similar and recommend measures to the Council of the League of Nations. The suppression of the white slave traffic was one of the specific tasks assigned to the League by the treaty of Versailles.

"To date the League has confined its efforts largely to securing the signatures of as many nations as possible to a new international white slave convention which it drew up and recommended to its member states. This goes somewhat farther than those drawn up by the International White Slave Conference of 1904 and 1910 at both of which the United States was represented. The advisory committee now, however, is to get down to more fundamental facts and causes.

MANY NATIONS INTERESTED

"The committee at the present time is composed of government representatives of England, Denmark, France, Italy, Japan, Poland, Roumania, Spain, Uruguay and the United States, and unofficial representatives of the International Women's Organizations; of the White Slave Traffic; the National Bureau for the Suppression of the International Catholic Organization for the Protection of Girls; the Federation of National Unions for the Protection of Young Girls and the Jewish Association for the Protection of Women and Girls," said Miss Abbott.

LEGION MEMBERS WILL ENTERTAIN COMMANDER

Arrangements for the reception of Gilbert Beftman, state commander of the American Legion, when he visits Lima on Tuesday, June 5, are completed. It was announced Saturday by John P. Corcoran, commander of William Paul Gallagher post.

Beftman will be entertained at dinner at the Barr hotel. About 50 Legion members and citizens are to be present.

From the hotel he will go direct to the Orpheum theatre, where he will deliver an address on Americanism and Legion ideals.

FAIR AND WARM; RAIN IS NEEDED

Same old story—generally fair and continued warm Sunday and Monday. No rain in sight, more's the pity, because it's needed mighty bad, to save the crops. Hay must have rain soon, or 'twill be a short crop, growers state.

Since the sun is throwing off heat rays in a manner in keeping with the season, interest in swimming is reviving and the water is more inviting since the chill has been taken off. There is always danger of cramps attacking the bather when the water is chilly.

The weather forecast augurs well for the right sort of conditions when the Lima Independents meet the Cincinnati Weidemanns at Murphy's lot this afternoon. If the Weidemanns are as good as they need to be, there'll be somewhat of a task cut out for Bernie Halloran's boys in keeping on the long end of the score.

The Weidemanns used to stack up against the Wapak Reds regularly, giving the Auglaize-co ball tossers a run for their money, always.

WAR ON DRY ACT OPENS IN WEST

repealer, the governor has disposed of the most serious question that has ever confronted him in his twenty-odd years of public life. He seemed like a new man Saturday, laughing and joking and willing to talk about anything from the Mulan-Gagean reporter to matters.

Hundreds of telegrams of congratulation poured in on him Saturday and not one word of censure. The governor came to his office at 12:30 Saturday and immediately settled down to clean up the remaining 30-day bills awaiting his action. Shortly before 3 o'clock, he sent for several newspaper men who were personal friends and discussed his action with them.

He did not seem at all concerned as to what the people would think of his approval, but wanted to know what all the reaction would have been if he had vetoed it.

He was obviously pleased that no word of criticism had been received in his office. He read the telegrams when they were received, sometimes grabbing the envelope from his secretary's hands before the latter had time to open it.

"Well," he said, when the last batch was delivered to him, at 5 o'clock. "There ought to be a kick in this bunch."

But there wasn't. The governor's action on the repealer was the chief topic of conversation at the capital Saturday. Few could be found who would venture to predict the consequences of his approval on any political ambitions the governor might have.

But all observers agreed that by placing the stamp of approval on the repealer, he has opened the way for an agitation that will probably sweep the country, and may eventually result in the modification of the Volstead act.

SWITZERLAND VOTING

GENEVA — (United Press) — A nation-wide referendum on "dry" legislation, started in Switzerland Saturday and will continue thruout Sunday.

Voters are considering the question of extending the Swiss government's monopoly of control of alcohol, increasing taxation of spirits and instituting a fight against "alcoholism."

If the proposed measure passes, the government will receive an increase of $5,000,000 in revenue of which two-fifths will be used for old age relief and insurance with exception of 5 per cent of this share which goes for the fight against drink. The other three-fifths goes to the various cantons of Switzerland, which are obliged to use 15 per cent of their share to fight alcoholism.

The measure is expected to pass by a heavy majority.

Buffalo Auto Party Is Struck By Erie Train

GOWANDA, N. Y. — (United Press) — Four persons were instantly killed late Saturday when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by an Erie west-bound express.

The dead are:

Mrs. Helen Smith, 32; her daughters Victoria, 4, and Margaret, 6; Mrs. O. B. Hurd, 55, mother of Mrs. Smith.

All are residents of Buffalo. John Smith, who was driving the car at the time was injured badly and is not expected to live.

Mrs. Richard Neumobia, another passenger, escaped injury.

APPEALS COURT SUSTAINS COMMON PLEAS DECISION

Florence G. Essinger, Westminster, was confirmed as the holder of two school bonds valued at $1,061.50, by a decision of appeals court Saturday affirming a similar verdict obtained in common pleas court.

The Westminster school board had refused to redeem the bonds, on the ground that they were not properly issued.

The opinion of the court was that the bonds had been issued to the plaintiff, and that she was the holder, and was entitled to collect at maturity.

Adams Refuses To Resign As National Chairman

DECLARES FIGHT TO FINISH

Breach Over Harding's World Court Plan Widens

WASHINGTON. — (United Press) — John T. Adams, chairman of the Republican national committee, has again refused to entertain a suggestion that he resign as a means of restoring harmony in the Republican organization on the world court issue.

Instead of resigning, Adams will continue a campaign of vigorous attack upon the Democrats and will not modify his attitude towards the world court proposal sponsored by President Harding.

The suggestion that he resign was conveyed to Adams this week on behalf of that group of Republicans most ardently supporting the administration's international program. Adams backed up by Senator James Watson, and the other anti-world court group, sent back word he was standing pat and that he would not resign.

THIS DEVELOPMENT indicates how bitter and deep-seated the internal warfare in Republican ranks has become. Watson and those who stand with him in this opposition, have told Adams they will fight to a finish to prevent him being ousted from his position by the Hughes-Hoover-Roosevelt group.

President Harding long ago vetoed a suggestion that Adams be asked to step out on his return from a European trip he took last winter. The president, who believes much of the opposition within his party to the world court is based on misapprehension and misunderstanding does not wish an open split. He believes time and further elucidation of the court proposal will show that Republicans can all unite on it. The president has been annoyed by some of the attacks from Republicans, which were obviously directed at Hughes and Hoover, rather than at the president, he was counseled patience and forbearance and it is believed is wholly out of sympathy with those who want to force Adams out now.

CONTINUE WAR ON BUCKET SHOPS

Many Chicago Houses Close As Investigation Progresses

CHICAGO. — (United Press) — A dozen bucket shops in and near the LaSalle-st financial district were closed and proprietors left the city Saturday as State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe's forces began a series of raids on "questionable" brokerage houses.

Warrants charging operation of a confidence game were issued by Crowe's office for P. W. Friedlander and Henry Salther, officials of Arthur and Company.

Boes of eight firms were seized Saturday, following raids on four houses Friday. Subpoenas for 21 additional firms have been issued and the state securities commission recommended a total of 34 be investigated.

The raids were instigated by Crowe on petition of bankers and stock exchange members who became alarmed at a series of brokerage house failures.

One of the failures was caused by a bankruptcy of Jones and Baker, a New York house with mid-western offices.

"We are going to drive every bucket shop and blue sky violator out of Chicago and this action by the state is to permit firms to show that their business is legitimate," George E. Gorman, assistant state's attorney, directing the raid and investigation, declared Saturday night.

PROFESSIONAL WOMEN WILL MEET ON COAST

PORTLAND, Ore. — Senator Borah and Judge Florence Allen of Cleveland, O., will be the chief speakers at the Fifth Annual convention of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, here, July 9-14. Delegates from these cities have already made reservations: Cincinnati, Columbus and Warren, Ohio; Detroit, Mich.; Indianapolis, Ind.; Minneapolis, Minn.; Kansas City, Miss.; Henderson, Ky.; Reno, Nev.; Salt Lake City and Junction City, Kan.; Richmond, Va.; Fairmont, W. Va.; Raleigh, Fayetteville, N. C.; Charleston, S. C.; Savannah, Ga.; Washington, D. C.; Newark, N. J.; Chattanooga, Tenn.; Colorado Springs, Colo.; New York City; Seattle, Tacoma, Olympia, Port Angeles, Hoquiam, Wash.; Weiser, Pocatello, Boise and Caldwell, Idaho.

On July 9, Mayor Baker of Portland, will present Lena Lake Forest, president of the federation, keys to the city and from that time on a program which will last the entire week will keep the delegates engaged, with entertainments over the week-end.

OVERSEAS ROMANCE ENDS IN LIMA WEDDING BELLS

An overseas romance beginning in the valley of the Rhine, when a staid American doughboy met and wooed a pretty frauline in a village in the Coblenz area, culminated Saturday when Justice E. M. Botkin sealed the nuptial tie.

The groom was John Wicks, 33, a soldier, just discharged after seven years' service in many parts of the world, and a native of Dalmatia. The bride was Anne Mary Adams, 28, who came overseas to join her future husband. The couple will remain at 129 E. Fourth-st.

Bonus Paid To 204,004 Ohioans

COLUMBUS. — (United Press) — The state soldier bonus has been paid to 204,004 Ohio veterans of the World war, according to report made Saturday by Bonus Director Roberts to State Auditor Tracy.

Bonus payments up to June 1 totaled $27,419,404.83. The average bonus paid was $134.40. Administrative expenses of the bonus department have amounted to $171,183.

Several months more will be required to complete paying the bonus, Roberts said.

6 PASS IN LIFE SAVING EXAMS

Rescue Measures to Be Sponsored in Swimming Campaign.

LIMA IS CENTER OF EFFORTS

Drive to Make Every Y. M. C. A. Member a Swimmer Opens Soon.

Installation of a Red Cross life-saving corps in Lima will be an outcome of the safe swimming campaign being sponsored by civic organizations of the city. R. T. Veal, local boys' secretary of the Y. M. C. A., predicted Saturday.

With the successful examination of six local men as life-saving examiners, Lima will be the center of efforts to reduce swimming fatalities thruout the county to a minimum.

Local men who passed the examination Friday conducted by Captain William Robb of the Red Cross, are: Chief of Police T. A. Lankford, R. T. Veal, secretary of the Y. M. C. A.; boys' department; C. L. Conrad, Scout executive; I. G. Maxwell, physical director of the Y. M. C. A.; W. A. Pluam, boy scout swimming director, and Roy Armstrong, assistant physical director of the Y. M. C. A.

CAMPAIN PLANNED

A campaign under direction of I. G. Maxwell, to make every member of the Y. M. C. A. a swimmer, will be launched shortly, Veal said Saturday. It is the hope of civic organizations eventually to extend the campaign to every boy in Lima.

Resolutions signed by a committee of citizens representing the boy scouts, the Y. M. C. A., police department, fire department, the American Red Cross and others, requesting that life guards be stationed at McBeth park, went to the county commissioners Saturday, C. L. Conrad, boy scout executive, stated.

If the petition is favorably considered by the commissioners, it is possible that local boy scouts who are expert swimmers, may act as life guards at the park, Conrad asserted.

Local scouts who have passed merit badge tests for swimming and are eligible to take life-saving examinations are: Ralph Pugh, William Evans, Stephen Churchill, James Steiner, Harold Stalsmith, Bernard Blattner, Morris Hughes, Lester Cohn, Myron Patterson, Victor Badertscher and Null Schroeder.

RAINS CHECKING FOREST FIRE

Northern Minnesota and Michigan Believed Saved

ST. PAUL, Minn. — (United Press) — A steady rain falling in the Iron Range district Saturday night relieved the fear of further damage from forest fires that have swept northern Minnesota and Michigan the last week.

The rain was believed general over the fire swept region and to have checked the blaze across the Canadian line where parts of Ontario were threatened.

The downpour seemed in answer to the reports of hundreds of forest rangers and farmers who have been fighting the blaze.

"If it rains the blaze can be stopped," they said. But while the raging forest fires were believed checked, danger of huge property damage by flood continued along the northern border of Lake Superior and points farther west. Most serious floods were reported from Saskatchewan and Alberta, where railroads lines were washed out in many places.

YOUNG MAN DIES FROM INJURY IN BALL GAME

MORGANTON, W. Va. — Cassel W. Mowrey, 21, Clarksburg, W. Va., died in the City hospital here Saturday afternoon, as a result of injuries suffered when struck on the head by a pitched ball in the University of Pittsburgh-West Virginia University baseball game last Wednesday.

Mowrey was a sophomore in the college of law and was playing his second season as first baseman on the varsity nine.

The Present and The Future

YOUR MONEY SHOULD BE SO PLACED THAT IT WILL BE SAFE BOTH TODAY AND TOMORROW.

In the present period of unusual business activity and high prices in all lines, it is more necessary than ever to be careful in investing money. Five per cent interest is a liberal return where safety is absolute.

Among the financial institutions of Lima we are known as conducting a conservative business and paying five per cent on deposits. We place the additional profits into an adequate reserve, now more than $92,000.00, as a further protection for our depositors.

We propose to continue these policies and upon the basis of safety we seek your account.

War on a new kind of bootlegging was declared by Sheriff Harvey E. Crosson Saturday, as announced. It is not the purveyors of spirituous beverages who are to be run to earth this time, but salesmen who are surreptitiously conducting the sale of baseball pools, banned by Governor Donahay, Crosson said.

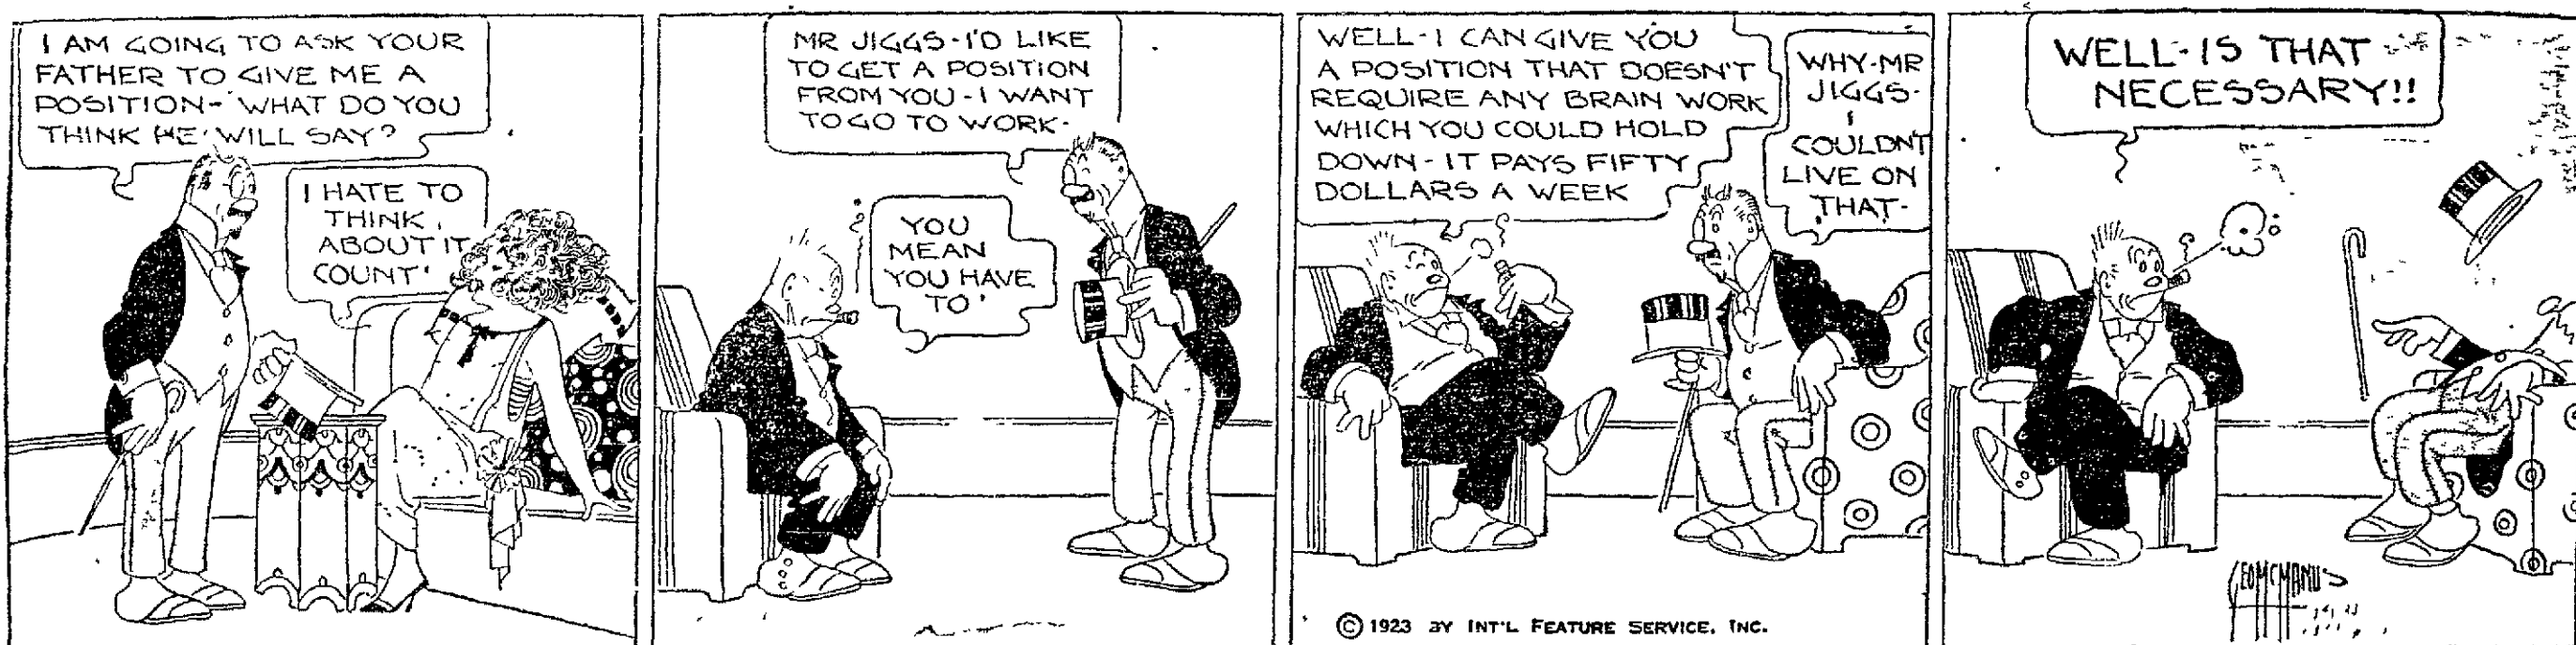

Crosson declared Saturday it has come to his attention that pool tickets are being hawked secretly in Allen-co, particularly in Lima.

Miss Gertrude Miller, clerk in Justice of the Peace Butler's office reports the sad experience of a friend who owns a bowl of pet goldfish.

"She mistook some soap chips for fish food and fed them to the fish," says Miss Miller.

She realized the mistake later, however.

"That was when all the fish died."

Fred Gillham, meat market manager, was carrying home a bag of eggs from the grocery. A large and able dog attached to a leather string, held by a small boy, ran between his legs.

His feet shot out from under him and he sat down with a bump. The bag of eggs flew from his hand as he fell and landed three yards behind him on the pavement. "Turn around and look at your eggs," laughed a bystander. "I don't like to," said Gillham. "I'm afraid they broke."

Dr. Frank Smith thinks it is a mistake for a woman to cross a country road wearing a sunbonnet. It so limits her view and hearing. One crossed the road unexpectedly, in front of his auto. He turned into the ditch to avoid her and swerved back onto the road. "and so far as we could see," he says, "she didn't even notice that we passed."

Seth Calvin tells about a flivver driver who had exhausted his credit at the garage at Hillsdale.

He couldn't get trusted for any more gas. But his credit at the grocery was still good. So he bought six dozen eggs and charged them sold the eggs at another grocery and used the money to buy gas for his automobile.

Mayor W. A. Butler of Ottawa tells about a family that moved into a new neighborhood. A few days later their neighbors, an elderly couple whose son was a clergyman called in the evening. This was on Sunday.

The had scarcely removed their wraps and were comfortably seated when the small boy of the family, anxious to be helpful, and hospitable, said "Shall I get out the poker chips daddy?"

Rare Values In Baby Carriages

The Lloyd Loom Carriages which we are now showing offer exceptional values in fine baby carriages. They are flawlessly woven of finest wicker. The remarkable loom which weaves them, around and around, in a graceful bowl shape, is so swift in its operation that the work is done in one-thirtieth of the time a man would require for the same work.

Naturally, this economy of labor cuts the cost of the carriage materially, and enables us to offer a carriage with every desirable feature; for a very modest price.

Pat. Process LLOYD Products Lloyd Baby Carriages & Furniture

The Lloyd Loom Carriages in our stock have a number of unusual refinements, such as resilient, oil-tempered springs, fifth-wheel reversible gear, automatic hood adjustment, special wheels and continuous pusher. They are handsomely finished in one-or-two-tone enamel, with harmonizing upholstery of corduroy. The price range, as well as the style range, is very considerable.

CRABBE FIRST AID TO LEGISLATURE

GOVERNOR TIEUP COMPLETE

Hough Appointment Biggest Surprise of Week.

THE LIMA NEWS BUREAU, Columbus, June 2. COLUMBUS — (Special)—While it generally was expected Attorney General Crabbe would find a way to lift from the shoulders of the senate the odium of tying the governor's hands in matters of appointments, few, if any, expected him to go to the length of ruling the governor could not make recess appointments regardless of whether or not the senate is in session.

It long has been an established rule the governor may not make recess appointments during a session of the senate, but the howl that went up from the Republican press over the state, when the general assembly recessed and George Kryder and other Republican leaders in the upper house chortled in fiendish glee over the way the senate had tied the hands of "Veto" Vic, caused party leaders no little concern and Crabbe was expected to help out.

He did, but at the same time, if his ruling holds good, he has so tied up the governor that he makes the senators look like a bunch of pikers.

Back in 1880 governors began making recess appointments after the senate had adjourned, and despite the fact the attorney general's office has boasted such eminent lawyers as Timothy S. Hogan and U. G. Denman, there never has been a kick at the practice. It might be pointed out that Judson Harmon, recognized as one of the ablest lawyers in the state, made many such appointments while governor. Democrats in Columbus are getting no little amusement in comparing Crabbe with some of his eminent predecessors and wondering whether or not Judson Harmon knew no law or was crooked enough politically to usurp to himself powers of appointment expressly denied him by the constitution.

The governor, however, did make one appointment this week and while he remarked he guessed the senate had nothing to do with it, it came as a bigger surprise than did the ruling of the attorney general which, incidentally, may be tested in the supreme court.

The surprise appointment was that of Colonel Benson W. Hough, former judge of the supreme court, as major general commanding Ohio National Guard.

Former Governor Davis, before returning recommended former Adjutant General George M. Florence for the job and the war department after holding up the appointment for nearly six months, returned the recommendation to Adjutant General Henderson, "disapproved."

Governor Donahay made a special fight on Judge Hough last fall and stumped the state with the stock statement "I admire the record of Colonel Hough as a soldier, but I abhor the record of Judge Hough as a judge." Hough's defeat, no doubt, was contributed to by the fight waged by the governor, but when the Florence recommendation was returned he lost no time making up his mind and within an hour had called Colonel Hough into his office to notify him of his appointment.

The governor said he considered Colonel Hough the "outstanding soldier of Ohio," and made the appointment regardless of the soldier's politics.

It was plainly evident, however, the appointment, which is the greatest military honor the governor may confer, did not heal the breach between the two political enemies.

In accepting, Colonel Hough set his jaw squarely, looked the governor in the eye and said, "I will uphold your administration so far as the military is concerned," but he said it in a manner that intimated "look out for me on the stump next fall." The governor gravely answered, "That's all I expect."

A. C. Baxter, chief of the state fish and game division, this week tendered his resignation to Governor Donahay and while he quit voluntarily, it is said the governor had intimated he would not be displeased with such action.

The fish and game division has had a peculiar history in that the heads of the department generally have been Republicans appointed by Democrat governors. General John C. Speaks, now congressman from the twelfth district, was appointed by Governor Harmon, and Baxter, a Republican, was appointed by Governor Cox. It is said Governor Donahay was just as desirous as his predecessors to keep the department out of politics, but the lack of patronage due to the recent ruling of Attorney General Crabbe and the insistent demands of Democrats that some appointments be made, is said to have forced the governor to ask for Baxter's resignation. James W. Stuber, assistant chief, a civil service appointee, will retire with Baxter.

Rumors that Leon C. Herrick might be able to hold on as head of the state highway department were quieted by the much objected to ruling of Attorney General Crabbe, which held the highway directorship is not a position requiring confirmation by the senate, which has set tongues wagging as to who will be Herrick's successor.

Up until a week ago A. V. Taylor, former highway commissioner, generally was regarded as having the inside track, but the report of John Bliss, special examiner, relative to the state fair grounds fire, is conceded to have killed whatever chance Taylor might have had.

While the report makes no charge of misconduct or fraud on the part of either Herrick or Taylor, it does charge both with carelessness in handling the state's property, several thousand dollars of which is said to have disappeared before the fire, and it is a pretty sure bet Governor Donahay will not put Taylor on the job following such a finding.

A peculiar situation exists in Columbus relative to what may look like a serious break between the American Legion and the chamber of commerce.

The Legion has not felt any too warmly toward the chamber since the national organization went on record as opposing the soldier's honor and now the chamber has flaunted another red flag in the face of the Legionaires, if one may believe an announcement made last week by a representative of Eugene V. Debs.

According to the announcement, the chamber of commerce has rented its auditorium to Debs for a socialist speech which, coming on top of a campaign just wound up by the Legion to teach respect for the flag, has made the ex-soldiers see red.

When the Republican party was compelled last fall to select one candidate for governor and turn down eight others, there was no little speculation as to what attitude the defeated candidates would take.

Most of them decided to be good after the primaries and altho Arthur H. Day, Cleveland, was the only one to take an active part in the campaign, the others at least kept still, but some of them have been raising merry hob since.

Of course it was expected that Charles L. Knight, Akron, would find fault with his conqueror if elected, and it was no surprise to find him lined up against the Republican general assembly, when Thompson fell before the attack of Donahay.

Daniel Webster Williams, however, who also ran, was expected to support the Republican legislature, despite the fact he once went off with the Bull Moose. Daniel, however, fooled the party leaders and has started a systematic attack on the work of the general assembly and, thru the columns of his paper, the Jackson Standard Journal, is boosting Donahay for his unprecedented wading of the veto axe.

Williams says the only fault to be found with Donahay is the fact that he did not veto more of the bills.

The attack of the Standard Journal has filled Democrats of Jackson-co with more than their usual share of pre-election jubilation. They always are confident of carrying the county before elections, but the returns always blight their hopes with the exception that about once every 30 years they do squeeze a county official thru Donahay, however, lost the county by only eight votes and they are now asserting their ancient hallucination of a Democrat carrying the county for governor is about to become a reality.

Roy Haynes, President Harding's federal prohibition director, doubtless is champing at the bit because he permitted the Republican official organ down in Hillsboro to pass from his control without first more thoroughly investigating the Republicanism of his successor, for the old exponent of Republican doctrine has fallen in line with the Mansfield News and a lot of other Republican papers and is panning the general assembly to a finish.

Governor Donahay's proclamation against gambling issued a couple of weeks ago brought some unexpected results last week, in the shape of a badly battered slot machine, which occupies a conspicuous place in the executive chamber.

As the governor sat in state a few days ago and listened to a bunch of newspaper men tell him what a forgiving fellow he was and how big a man it took to appoint a political enemy like Judge Hough to the highest military office in the state, a husky taxicab driver walked in with a battered slot machine on his shoulder and asked for the governor.

Vic pleaded guilty to the charge and the driver dumped the machine on the floor with the remark, "Here's your slot machine."

"Not mine," said the governor, but the driver insisted he must accept it. "I put $22 in it yesterday and got out six quarters," said the taxi driver. "The indicator stopped several times on my color, but the machine didn't pay. I thought it was crooked, so I kicked a hole in it and got out my $22."

"The owner refused to keep the machine after I got thru with it, so I brought it down from Akron to you," he said.

He told the governor that Akron and surrounding villages are running slot machines in practically every confectionery and soft drink establishment. Donahay referred the matter to John Bliss, special examiner, who turned up the fair grounds scandal, and if the driver's story is true, it would not be surprising if several more mayors are in for unpleasant sessions with the governor.

DRUG TRAFFIC IS GREAT EVIL

Congressman Says Narcotic Vender Worse Than Bootlegger.

NEED REFORM AT HOME

Opium Advisory Committee of League Is Criticized.

(BY EDWARD THIERRY)

WEST HOBOKEN, N. J. (Special)—A protest is to be made to the State Department by former Congressman Archibald E. Olpp against the use of the official name of the United States in plans being discussed by the Opium Advisory Committee of the League of Nations at Geneva to curb narcotic drugs by limiting production.

"Reform should begin at home," where the chief fault of the narcotic evil lies," said Dr. Olpp, one of two physicians who were most active in the last Congress in demanding a congressional investigation of the drug situation.

Dr. Olpp was the chief aid of Dr. Lester D. Volk, former congressman from Brooklyn, in demanding a nationwide inquiry. He declares the Volk resolution, buried in committee in spite of endorsement by most medical and scientific societies in the country, will be reintroduced by another physician at the next session of Congress.

"The United States is not a member of the League of Nations and our participation in its opium committee cannot be official," he said. "It is merely a gesture and can do no good whatever."

WORLD WIDE PRODUCTION

"The so-called American proposal to control narcotics by limiting world production of opium and cocaine leaves to the quantity required for medicinal and scientific purposes is bound to fail. No man or group of men in the world can tell how much narcotics are legitimately necessary.

"We might as well demand that every foreign country cease the production of liquor because its use is prohibited in this country. It has been shown impossible to determine even the amount of whisky necessary for medicinal purposes. And narcotics are a much greater and more valuable medical necessity."

Dr. Olpp declares greater fortunes are being made in illicit narcotics than in booze.

"We have the bootlegger in narcotics the same as in liquor," he said. "Take away the bootlegger's revenue and he will quit."

"Solution of the problem is in America, not in the poppy field of foreign countries. The blame rests with improper regulations laid down by laymen in the prohibition enforcement bureau, who know nothing about narcotics. These regulations have nullified the Harrison law."

NEED REFORM HERE

"Reform should be started here at home. Enforce the Harrison law as it was intended. Put the control of narcotics in the hands of physicians and scientific societies."

Prior to the enactment of the Harrison law in 1914 drug smuggling was practically unheard of because the revenue was nil, physicians legitimately treated the cases, and consumption was much less than it is now. The drug addict is a sick man and needs every possible aid medical science can give him. The greater proportion are not criminals in any sense of the word, but are suffering from changes in the blood which require medical attention only.

Limiting the production of opium and cocaine leaves will never stamp out the narcotic evil in America. The only thing that will is a real investigation and the killing of the narcotic bootlegging industry by taking these drugs out of politics."

DISCUSS IMPROVEMENT OF COUNTY CHILDREN'S HOME

Tentative plans for improvement and enlargement of the Allen county children's home will come up for discussion when county commissioners and trustees of the home meet in annual conference at the home in Shawnee-tp Tuesday, June 12.

New buildings authorized by the county board have recently been completed. They include a new dormitory and school.

Rapid increase in the number of children being sent to the home necessitates provision for future expansion, commissioners declare.

Furniture to Make the Home

Furnishing the home has such an important bearing on the future happiness of every young couple that this store feels under obligation to render every assistance possible. Not only are our stocks unusually well selected, but every new and good design, wood and finish, is represented. As for values, we are sure that comparison will prove that it will be greatly to the advantage of every young couple to buy here! The entire amount of your purchases is not necessarily required in cash, as we are always glad to help the groom finance the furnishing of the new home. Come in and learn what attractive arrangements you can make with us.

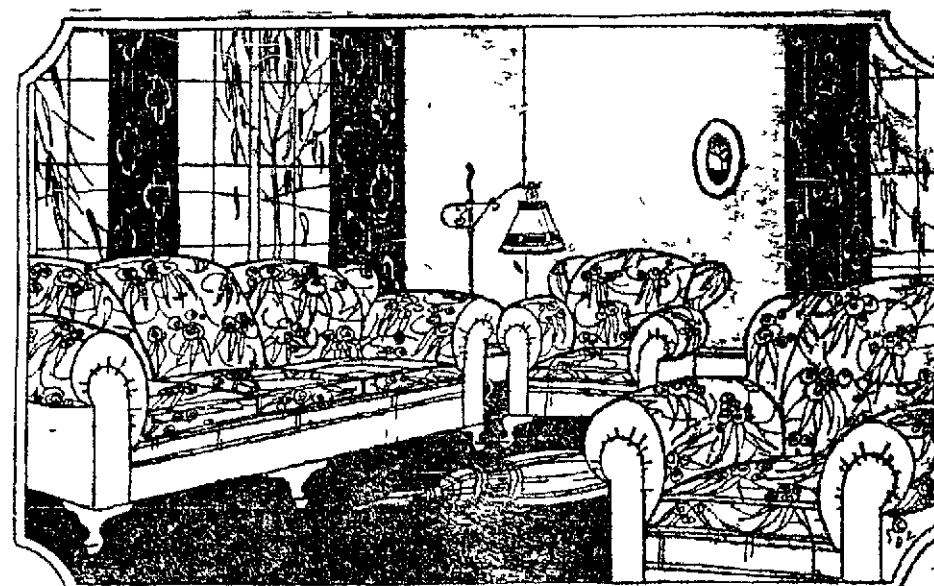

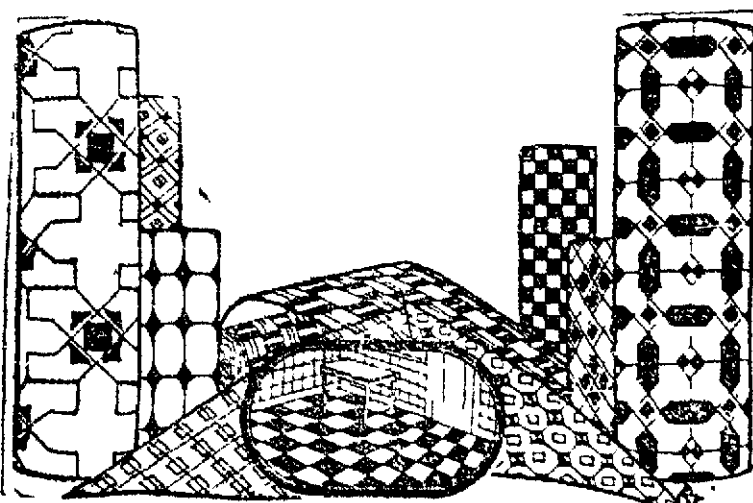

Charming 2-Tone Walnut Bedroom Suite--all 4 Pieces for - - - $197⁵⁰

For the one room which a bride takes unusual pleasure in showing her friends, a bedroom suite like this is most fascinating. This is a wonderfully well made suite and to be able to get all four pieces at such a low price is an economy well worth while.

The Largest Display of Linoleum and Congoleum To Be Found In The City

12 ft. Linoleum	$1.15
9 ft. Congoleum	.95
6 ft. Congoleum	.79
5 ft. Linoleum	.85

3-Piece Overstuffed Suites at $197.50

Here are three wonderful pieces that would go a long ways toward making yours a better furnished home. Note the graceful roll arm design, special high back wing chair and the fact that all three pieces have luxurious, loose, spring filled cushions. This is an exceptionally well made suite and is a most remarkable value at this low price.

A COMPLETE OUTFIT $549⁸⁵

All that the name implies! A complete outfit of furniture and rugs and dishes which we place in your home already for use. You simply open the door and "step in" and find your home entirely furnished with everything attractively arranged, etc. Note detailed description below, showing how wonderfully complete this outfit is at such an extremely low price.

THE LIVING ROOM

In the Living Room we will place an attractive three piece velvet suite, a handsome dining room table, a roomy dining chair, a beautiful lamp, a bride's lamp and two pictures.

THE DINING ROOM

will be furnished complete with matched period suite consisting of oblong table, buffet and six chairs, a room size rug, a 10 piece set of dinner ware and an artistic fruit bowl to place on the buffet.

THE BED ROOM

This room will contain a full size bow end bed, a roomy chiffonier, dressing table and bench to match, a comfortable spring and mattress and a pair of pillows.

THE KITCHEN

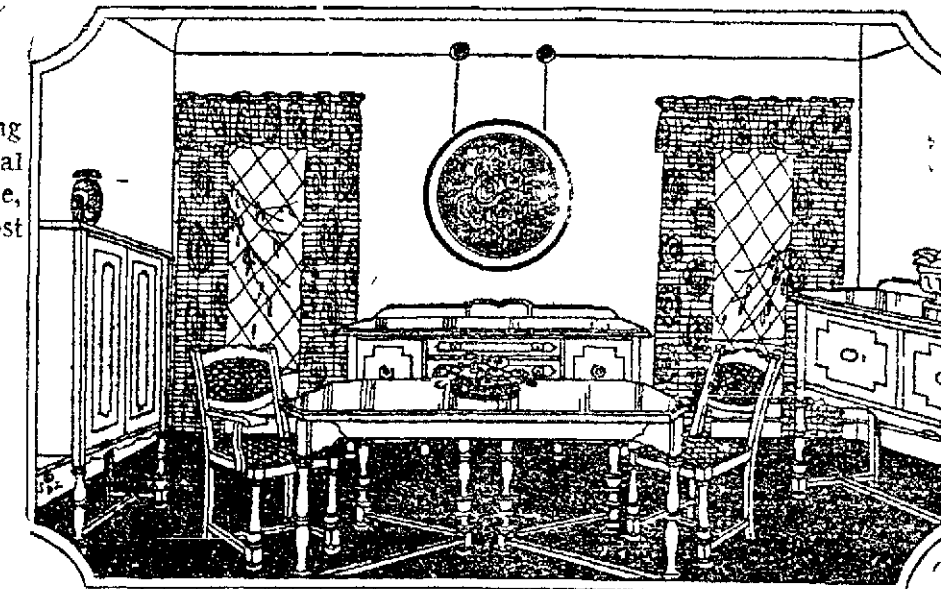

This will be complete with gas stove, kitchen table, two bow back chairs, refrigerator, six yards of linoleum, a set of kitchen utensils, two frying pans and 3 pieces of aluminum.

$50 Down Secures Delivery

Not content with making this the greatest home outfit value ever offered, we are quoting unusually convenient credit terms on it so that the greatest possible numbers of young couples will be able to profit by it.

Rugs Are Very Important

Leading interior decorators point out that the rug is the very first thing to consider in furnishing a room attractively. Its colors should not only harmonize with the colors on the walls, whether papered or painted, but it should also be in harmony with the draperies and type of furniture to be used in the particular room. In our vast stocks you will find all the new designs and colorings in rugs of every variety, enabling you to find exactly the right rug for each room you have to furnish. Quality considered, you will find our prices lower.

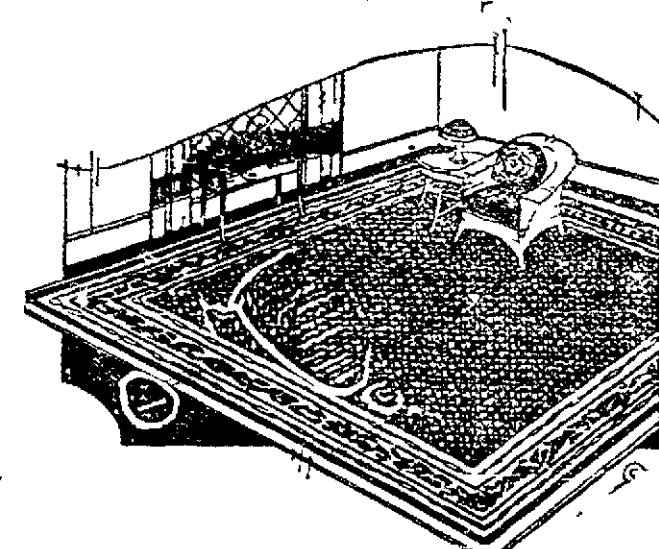

Rich Walnut Dining Suite Of Nine Pieces, special at - - - $218⁷⁵

Nothing is quite so desirable for the dining room as the matched suite. While these may be had here in all the beautiful period designs and in every wood and finish, this one is a particularly good value and we are sure it will be taken on sight by the first young couple who sees it! Come in and let us show you the construction features which emphasize the low price.

RUGS

9x12 Axminster at - - - $37⁵⁰

This is just one of many extra specials we are offering in rugs tomorrow. All the newest patterns and colorings are here in Axminsters, Brussels, Velvets, etc., and the value are most extraordinary.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS

CURRENT business for the past week was good all over the country, warmer weather bringing a better and stronger tone to the retail situation. Reviews of the larger department stores carry announcements that, owing to the backward spring, many merchants will start clearing in June this year, rather than July. Light summer wears will be handled more on the short-order style, and a play made in August for advance fall business.

Locally, retail trade was snappy and manufacturing industries at full capacity. There is employment for everybody, the building trades will probably see a let up except for finishers, before the end of June. This will play no part in unemployment in the Lima district as there are openings for almost every craft at the various shops.

Real estate is dull, deals being confined largely to housing property. There are two or three big lease proposals under consideration in the downtown district, and an option on one business block, which if closed, will mean another eight-story building.

Money is tighter, and in strong demand. Building and loans are eating for all legitimate loans, but doing little financing for contractors. Housing increase in Lima for the year will probably reach a new capacity for six hundred families. This is the estimate of the best posted realtors.

More activity is being shown in vacant lots, especially in the West Wayne-st development, and on the North Side. Lima never looked better, although nationally, the economists and forecasters are predicting a slow-down which will be noticed within forty-five days. The securities markets are very heavy, and reactionary.

CLEANLINESS DEMANDED

CLOTHED with authority by the laws of Ohio and the provisions of the city charter to adopt the most drastic measures in making assured that only pure and sanitary foodstuffs are distributed among the people, Lima's board of health is taking such action as will tend to safeguard the public's interests.

Without going into the details of the local situation, this newspaper believes that the health board should be commended for its action in threatening to invoke the rigors of the law in cases where there is evidence of uncleanliness in the handling of foodstuffs for public consumption, or where sanitary measures are not observed.

In most cases where wrong handling of foodstuffs constitutes a menace to the consuming public, conditions that develop are probably due more to carelessness than a desire to evade the requirements of the law. Too much care cannot be exercised in this respect, for the things the human family introduce into the stomach must be clean, wholesome and prepared under sanitary conditions. The health department of the city has the right to interfere if they are not.

Going still further, the board of health, with the aid of its authorized representatives, has authority to and should, without fear or favor, stop the production of foodstuffs if prepared under any other than the most rigidly sanitary conditions. Health is too precious to be endangered thru carelessness of others.

Public sentiment is back of health authorities to the fullest measure in any move they may make to safeguard the health and lives of the people. Impure food is a menace. Only conscientious persons would knowingly distribute foodstuffs known to be dangerous to those using them. It is the duty of the health-ers to stand between unscrupulous or careless persons and the consuming public, engaged with its own problems and not being afforded the opportunity to make assured that everything it purchases is pure, unadulterated, sanitary—safe.

DANGER SEASON HERE

WITH the coming of warm weather and outdoor activities increasing, there is added danger for all citizens, old and young.

The number of automobiles in use is growing daily and with carelessness riding in the same seat with inexperienced and reckless drivers, danger to human life and limb is augmented.

Lima has already had its first lesson of the season in the danger of persons going swimming in deep water, without having the advantage of life saving guards near at hand in case of accident. After a life has been snuffed out, it is too late. The best that can be done is to adopt precautions that will prevent a recurrence of fatalities.

Providing life guards at all local lakes frequented by swimmers is a move in the right direction. And everybody should have a general knowledge of what should be done in an effort to start respiration after victims have been removed from water, apparently dead. Quite often, if prompt measures are applied, life can be saved. One never knows when he or she will be called upon to help in reviving others overcome by water, gas, smoke or electric shock. It is well to be posted on these things, for one's own safety as well as that of others.

This is also the season of the year when foolish bravado asserts itself in a mania for rocking a boat. The guilty party, lacking in appreciation of the danger of such a procedure, not only endangers his own life, but also the lives of others. Experience is a dear teacher. For the most part, people profit by the mistakes of others. Many do not and must acquire the lesson by personal contact.

Times have changed. The world is progressing. New dangers confront the people almost every day. In the old days the "Stop, Look and Listen" injunction applied only to railroad crossings. Now it must be borne in mind at street crossings as well and even on country highways, since motor traffic is increasing by leaps and bounds.

The "danger season" is here. Do your part to prevent accident tolls from mounting.

FINGERPRINTING OLD ART

WHEN the fingerprints of crooks are taken by Lima police officials, it must not be supposed by the public that this branch of aiding in the detection of crime is something new. It isn't.

Sending fingerprints of international crooks all over the world by telegraph is magic, but radio works just as well, for the message simply gives numbers corresponding to certain distinctive whorls (the egg shaped lines you see when you look at your own fingerprints).

Altho we Caucasians have been using fingerprints for identification purposes only a few years, the Chinese used them 2,000 years ago. Mothers, fingerprinting babies at birth, can avoid getting someone else's child in a mixup.

VALUABLE BOOKS

A LIMA man tells us he has a Bible, printed in Nuremberg, Germany, almost 200 years ago. Has about concluded he will present it to the Allen County Historical society.

He cannot read German and therefore has an English edition of the Bible.

This recalls that the most valuable book in the world is a first edition of Virgil in the Princeton University library, claims George M. Peck, expert on rare volumes. This copy of Virgil was printed in Rome in 1469.

Peck is a Princeton employee, so his viewpoint is natural. But to our way of thinking, the most valuable book in the world is any copy of the Bible. It is still the best seller.

VANISHING INSTITUTION

THE wooden Indian who used to stand in front of nearly every tobacco shop in Lima, holding a bundle of cigars, is vanishing as an institution—largely because of ordinances against obstructing sidewalks.

John Cotton Dana, seeking a wooden Indian for the Newark Museum, finds there are only five of them left in New York City.

Another vanishing institution is the barber's pole, whose red stripes are inherited from days when barbers were "blood letters," ancient form of surgery.

ABE MARTIN

Have you ever noticed that Bryan never suggests anybody for the Democratic presidential nomination but could beat him if it? This must be the high old three we allus heard so much about.

Today was that the breakfast the best since they left their happy homes. In the party two brides. And of course, two grooms. On the train three days. And yet another night to ride. Before reaching Washington and the Willard. A fearful ordeal. Thence, away to the shoppe, so early the janitor all but lost his balance.

Thru the morning, hard at my stint. Until Nick King noted the growth of my Dunkards. Thence over to the Alexander Institute, where Prof. William himself gave me trim. There, too, was Ole Davis, the last act expert, taking everything. Costing him near two dollar bill. If I were rich, I'd buy one of those plaster youth restorers. Like Ole takes in his massage. Viva-dou or Boncilla they call 'em, tho never closer to one than the next chair. Into a money to cash my weekly chit, most of which they retained as a deposit against the red.

Lunched with a hyper-valetudinarian. Who complained of his stomach, albeit called for pork and apple sauce. Took a pill with his first bite. And a pill thereafter, between the various courses. Felt h's pulse, but it was Old Set that was causing the fever. And by the way, murders seem as plentiful as in the old days. But it doesn't take as long to get down to shopping on hooh. Just a few drinks and the killing starts. Where, as before the reformation they drank all day and laundred 'em at midnight. What wonderful vigueres the Southwest must be making.

In the afternoon, cast up the accounts, everybody in but M'sieur Abrams and the Heel 'Em While you Wait shoppe on Lizzy-st. Came Sam Blattner the mercantile genius, and we chatted on Ibsen and Conrad. Howbeit, he prefers Lord Byron, Dumas and Walter Scott. Out, to meet Judges A. D. Miller and William Klinger, co-partners in the days when they owned the democratic party hereabouts.

Dined on familie, with chopped steak on foot, new potatoes in paprika, and a salad of green flowers, with Requefort dressing. The sweet a new recipe on drop cake invented by M'selle Francell, the best I ever ate. With rest watering the verdant spots, and pulling the verdant spots from the driveway.

Came Jack Beall, Jr., with the overdrapes, but when he looked, the overdrapes weren't there. Sent a Dec a tarnished parrot of white shoes, and left it with her to untarnish them. Reads a little in the Ladies' Home Journal, and I do want a beige shirt. Visited with my wife, poor wretch, over a beaker of milk and cucumber sandwich. And again, late to bed.

—BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY— AUTODETOXICATION

Almost every person thinks he or she knows what autointoxication means. He or she knows it means poisoning of the system by the absorption of waste matter, which has been too long retained in the bowel, or something like that. What could be simpler than "removing the cause," with some physic or an enema.

The notion that any poisoning of the system occurs from the absorption of waste matter from the intestine is purely fanciful; as a matter of fact, such an occurrence is as rare as complete intestinal obstruction. Even in complete obstruction of the bowel, as in strangulated hernia or in certain cases of peritonitis, it is questionable whether the poisoning of the system is attributable to anything absorbed from the intestinal contents, or, what is more likely, due to septic matter produced by putrefaction in the gangrenous tissues. At any rate, the evils generally ascribed to a fanciful autointoxication in ordinary constipation do not materialize in the case of an individual who has not become obsessed with the autointoxication notion; the protean symptoms alleged to depend on such poisoning cannot be experimentally produced.

The scientific conception of autointoxication is a very different thing. It has no particular bearing on the "unction of the bowel, and certainly does not depend upon any deficiency in that respect. When one looks into this question closely, it becomes clear that the popular misapprehension is founded upon nothing else than misleading "literature."

The scientific conception of autointoxication is nobody's pet theory, and does not lend itself to the exploitation of any particular line of treatment nor fit in fortuitously with any new fangled system or "school" of healing. For that reason, it has not been "explained" to the laity so painstakingly as has the fishological conception.

The only kind of self poisoning which may be scientifically recognized and actually measured with instruments of precision is that which occurs when there is some fault of metabolism, such as the state of acidosis or acid intoxication which develops in various diseases or illnesses. The simplest example of such a definitely measurable autointoxication is perhaps the coma which occurs in some advanced cases of diabetes; this is directly caused by the accumulation of butyric and acetic acids in the blood; sometimes the patient may be quickly brought out of coma to full consciousness by an injection of a solution of sodium bicarbonate into the veins.

In all instances of demonstrable autointoxication, there is one important feature apparent, namely, under-oxygenation. Be it a question of too much uric acid in the blood (as is found in various diseases) or of uremia or of a diabetic coma or of that tired feeling, at bottom there is a shortage of oxygen.

Now please don't get angry. Honestly, I try not to harp on the same old string, but the truth will bob up. If you want keep your arteries nice and soft, get your two miles of oxygen on the hoof three times a day in all weathers.

JUST FOLKS

—BY EDGAR A. GUEST—
LINES TO OUR HUMAN ALARM CLOCK

Oh, you roughish little tyke, Ruling us just as you like! Do you hear the old clock strike At the dawn? Why are you so wide awake? Do you hear the morning break, Or the sound the sunbeams make On the lawn?

Now the east is scarcely red And you're crowing in your bed. And you're shouting to be fed Right away; And the kicking of your heels Most instantly reveals All the joy your spirit feels With the day.

Tho you haven't learned to speak, There is language in your shriek, And your mother turns to peek Where you lie; Then she sees your roughish grin And the dimple in your chin, And she promptly takes you in With a sigh.

What tho I would slumber on Till the night be fairly gone? You, plump, laughing, lovely one, Rule the place. And you drive all sleep away By the manner of your play As your tiny fingers stray Round my face.

Little tyke, I'd like to know Do you see the east aglow? Does a fairy whisper low Night has fled? Do you hear a sunbeam fall Very lightly on the wall, Or do angels came to call At your bed?

Not more punctual is the clock, Or the twittering birds that flock, Or the crowing of the cock, Than your tricks. And I wonder how you've got To discover in your cot So precisely to the dot When it's six.

Washington Set for Big Inflow of Mystic Shriners.

ORIENTAL BABEL PROSPECT

Splendors of Ancient Mecca, Medina and Bagdad.

THE LIMA NEWS BUREAU, Washington, June 2. WASHINGTON, (Special.)—

Washington is an American city no longer.

From the dignified and sedate capital of the world's greatest democracy, it has been transformed into a giddily dizzy oriental Babel, outdoing in gaudy trappings and rioting colors the brilliance and splendors of ancient Mecca, Medina and Bagdad.

For the week of June 3 the White House ceases to be the executive mansion, residence of the president Warren Gamaliel Harding. It becomes instead the royal seraglio, palace of Noble Gamaliel Harding, high potentate of Aladdin Temple, Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

Pennsylvania avenue, historic thoroughfare down which our presidents ride to their inaugurations, is Pennsylvania avenue no longer. It has become the "Road to Mecca," along which will trudge some hundreds of thousands of Shrine pilgrims.

Lafayette Park, fronting the White House, becomes the "Garden of Allah," outdoor Maxfield Parvish's widest imagination in its medley of colors and with its quiet atmosphere shrouded by the syncope of pulsing music.

The whole city and all its normal life has been turned topsy-turvy to make a gala week for the national shriners' convention, which is expected to bring at least 500,000 visitors to town.

Maybe there is something more than mere Shriner loyalty in this decking out Washington as the modern Mecca this year. Possibly they're trying to make up to Fellow Noble Warren the pomp and pageantry that was withheld at the time he was inaugurated president back in 1921. Maybe you remember how Congress, feeling that the country would not approve large expenditures at that time for an inaugural pageant, voted down the appropriations for display and ceremonies.

But whatever was withheld at that time is to be made up now, with interest. Never was the city so "lit up" for any inaugural as it is for the Shriners' conclave. Never were such elaborate stands erected in front of the White House, never such brilliant and costly effects staged. The whole picture is costing somebody well up to $500,000.

But think of what 500,000 Shriners will spend when they get to town!

And the prestige of having Fellow Shriner Noble Harding, with his red and gold fez, in the reviewing stand!

Thousands of multi-colored electric lights. Electric-jeweled semicircles, crescents and stars everywhere. Red, green, yellow and blue banners and bunting by the mile. Music blaring from amplifier horns on high posts every hundred feet from the Capitol to Washington Circle, two miles away. Gilded towers and minarets cornering the Garden of Allah. Turkish trousers and Arabian fezzes.

Oriental? Well, that's what Washington ain't nothing else but!

Speaking of fezzes naturally makes one think of fizzes.

Roy Haynes, prohibition commissioner, who is NOT a Shriner, has volunteered to save visitors during Shrine week from annoyance by bootleggers. He is bringing in a bunch of his best agents to help make the capital safe for Shriners. However, it is whispered that the best brains of the fix-slippers' federation also are on the job and that a number of cases are being established for drought-parched desert pilgrims.

After Shriners' week, Washington will return to normalcy. Praise be to Allah!

ABE MARTIN

On "Home, Sweet Home"

This year marks the one hundredth anniversary of the song, "Home, Sweet Home." The song was written by John Howard Payne and was first sung in London in 1823. There hasn't no records to show whether Payne made twenty-eight or thirty dollars out of the song, but it is known that he died homeless and an actor. While ever singer worthy of the name has rendered "Home, Sweet Home," time and again during the last hundred years the song's greatest popularity has alius been amongst the French harp, or mouth organ players. Even in these hard-fisted, cold-nosed days, the beautiful song, when even half way put over, never fails to raise a lump in the throats of people who own as many as three cars. Even apartment bred people and members of large, scolding families are softened by the touchin' dear old song, but the most touchin' up is done by tired, disappointed and unhappy consumers. The song wafts their memories 'way back thro' the mist o' years 'till the time when they really had a home. But we guess most ever-buddy has some sort of a leanto they call home—at least it seems home after they git 't sleep an' fergit all th' torments an' vicissitudes o' life. Some people are gittin' too great fer homes, some have two or three homes, an' some folks believe there's more profitable ways o' spendin' money than tyn' it up in a home. Another peculiar thing about "Home, Sweet Home" is that it appeals to most people that are never at home. Even folks that have only got their homes half paid fer shiver with emotion when a planner strikes up "Home, Sweet Home." Th' word "home" is th'

"BE IT EVER SO HUMBLE, THERE'S NO PLACE LIKE HOME." Sweetest in the English language, wanderin'—then comes home. In all the world there's no substitute for home—nothin' jest as good.

SKELETONS MAKE FINE LIVING

Joseph Schollick Well Known as "Bone Expert."

EMPLOYED BY UNCLE SAM

Wierd Profession No Longer Holds Horrors for Him.

(BY HARRY B. HUNT)

WASHINGTON — (Special) — "Bone-dry" to Joseph W. Schollick, doesn't signify strict enforcement of the Volstead act. Neither does "boner" signify a faux pas.

The first, in his vocabulary, denotes a state of perfection in no wise allied to prohibition. The second, an instrument with which one earns his daily bread.

For bones, one might say, have been meat and drink to Schollick. By them he has lived, and with them he has built up a reputation that hails him as the foremost osteologist, or bone expert, in the world.

For 52 years Schollick has been among bones—preparing skeletons and skeletal specimens for anatomical and scientific exhibits. For 25 years he has been on the job for Uncle Sam, preparing skeletons for the national museum of the Smithsonian Institution.

MUST BE BONE-DRY
In this time he has handled the skeletons of virtually every known bird, beast, fish and reptile, from the hair-spring-sized bones of shad and hummingbirds to the saw-log structure of a T-ton whale.

"Patience, perseverance and a strong stomach," these Schollick says are the chief requirements for an osteologist.

"It takes about two years properly to prepare the skeleton of a whale," he explains. "For animals of the deer and bear size, from six months to a year."

The big problem in preparing a bone for study is preservation. It is only after every bit of animal matter has been removed from the exterior, but all the moisture and oil in the bone tissue and in the marrow must be eliminated. Otherwise, disintegration will set in.

After months of soaking in kerosene and careful cleaning outside, bones are drilled in the ends of the larger bones and they are subjected to a bath of live steam under low pressure. The steam, entering the holes, penetrates the interior porous structure and cooks out any remaining oils.

HE REMEMBERS THIS ONE
Few chemicals are used in preparing bones for preservation, for while they assist in quick cleansing they are injurious to the bone structure itself.

"What was your most memorable experience in your half-century of work?" I asked Schollick, as he sat at his desk, cutting his lunch, the half-finished skeleton of a bird on a dissecting tray in front of him.

"Well," he said, reminiscently, his nostrils twitching a trifle at the memory—"the skeleton of a skunk that has been in the rotting vat a month can't be altogether forgotten. Still, I guess my whole experience topped that."

"We'd had the head-bone of a big sulphur-bottom whale in a rotting vat for about six months and it was getting pretty heavy, so we wanted to get them out for scrap."

He put a plank across the vat to stand on as we hoisted them out. I was on this plank, leaning away on a big jaw-bone, when the board slipped and in I went. Phew!

"I never liked collecting. I never liked to kill things. I couldn't do that. But preparing the specimens for preservation—well, that's something else. Anyway, I'm still at it after 52 years."

And that he has been diligent at it anyone who has been thru the great national museum can testify.

INSURANCE MEN MEET IN LAST LUNCHEON SESSION

Plans for next year's program were formulated at the luncheon meeting of the local Underwriters' association at the Elks club Saturday.

The luncheon Saturday was the final meeting for the summer. The next meeting will be held some time in September.

Camera's Click Startles Lima Men; Usually Brings A Simper

Local Photographers Say Males Are Art Gallery Shy

WOMEN POSE LIKE VETERANS

Coaxing an Infant to Look Human Calls for Diplomacy

That most Lima men are content to slip thru life without calling special attention to their facial tendencies, is the testimony of Lima photographers.

Women and children make up the greater portion of candidates for photographic attention, a studio manager states. In fact, it is admitted, photographers would see many a hard winter if it were not for the women and children.

Altho the local man shies at exposure to the camera, he is fussier than woman when it comes to having a picture of his first born made, photographers say. His anxiety that the baby's picture proclaim the best mannered infant in town exceeds that of the mother, they declare.

EMBARRASSING TO MAN
But when the average man sits for immortalization, he becomes embarrassed at his own insignificance, it is said. Or if he is complacent about his own importance, he is not quite sure of his Adonis specifications and his Apollo proportions.

The youthful patron of the art studios often wrecks himself spiritually in the effort to resemble a popular collar ad, statistics prove and there have even been instances of near re-juvenation by elderly bachelors who have keyed themselves to a pith of youthful innocence before the recording lens.

Commercial and business demands cause many men to seek the camera. At least that is the explanation offered by many of them for posing.

A man is invariably apologetic when he poses for a photograph. Local photographers declare. Women are matter-of-fact and children are frankly incredulous or rabidly opposed.

Men are inclined to glare sternly at the camera and upon the request to modify the intensity, to supplant the glare with a sickly grin, approaching a well rounded simper, it was said. They tend to become startled at the click of the camera and if an acquaintance happens in they blush suitably as in embarrassment.

Women, photographers state, pose for pictures more calmly, and are consequently less trouble. Aside from a slightly apparent effort to reduce the pictorial age to a minimum, posing before the camera does not particularly bother them.

POSE CAREFULLY
Young girls with ambitions toward the movies sometimes endeavor to resemble their favorite star and to register a surplus of soul, but otherwise they take their posing casually.

It is the infant who neither knows or cares what the shooting is all about, who calls forth the utmost from the photographer in the way of cunning and ingenuity.

To call attention to a bird in the distance, to become funny enough personally to elicit the infant's personal approval, to keep a proud father's head out of the picture; to assure a fond mother that said infant's face is clean and to snap the lens the instant the child looks human are some of the photographer's duties when the baby has his picture taken.

FIVE BUILDING PERMITS
Five building permits representing $15,500 were issued by the city Saturday.

They are: To E. H. Dorsey and R. W. Parmenter, to build filling station at W. Market and N. Main; to cost $10,000; Mike Killeen, residence at 301 N. Main; $1,500; Andy A. Miller, 501 S. Elizabeth; garage, $500; Dr. T. M. Johnson, Johnson, 513 W. Market; remodel residence, $500; and R. C. Swen, 1015 W. Market; remodel residence $100.

HARRY G. ESHLIMAN AND RUTH SHAW MARRIED AT MICHIGAN GRETNAGREEN

Miss Ruth G. Shaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Shaw, 819 Madison-av., was married Friday in Monroe, Mich., to Harry G. Eshliman, residing at the Central hotel, by Rev. Knowles, Presbyterian pastor. Announcement of the marriage was made upon return of Mr. and Mrs. Eshliman to this city Saturday night.

They will receive their friends after June 10 in a new residence on Fairview-av. The bride has been for some time a packer at the south side plant of the Deitz-Wiemer company. Her husband is a foreman in the plant.

WARNING ISSUED BY SUTTER

Vacation Days Bring Caution From Health Officer

Admonition to Allen-co residents to get out into the open for their vacation, but to observe due caution in the selection of the vacation site, is contained in a bulletin issued Saturday by Dr. J. J. Sutter, county health commissioner.

Highly important, Dr. Sutter says, is protective inoculations for the vacationist who is not sure of the purity of the milk and water supply of the resort. Typhoid from water or milk are frequently encountered on vacation outings, he declares.

In the selection of a vacation resort, favorable answers to several questions are highly important. Among the questions listed are:

Is the water and milk supply safe? Are there a sewerage system or is there a safe disposal of excreta? Is all the food protected against flies? Are eating and drinking utensils properly cleaned and sterilized? Are all food handlers free from communicable disease? Is the bathing water free from contamination? Are there individual drinking cups and towels? Are there swamps, ponds, or other mosquito breeding places near by?

Having found a suitable place, Dr. Sutter urges that the vacationist be spent sensibly. Included in his list of recommendations is the keeping of good hours and spending much time outdoors.

Unless the vacationist knows positively that the water is pure, it is best to boil it. First aid kits should be carried and the pleasure seeker should be prepared to deal intelligently with accidents.

The usual vacation accidents or sicknesses, Dr. Sutter observes, are insect bites and stings, splinters, snake bites, cuts, bruises, sprains, fish hook wounds, dysentery, headache, sunburn, drowning, typhoid fever, poison ivy and other poisons.

The well equipped vacationist is prepared to meet these emergencies, Dr. Sutter declares.

Unwary Ones Get Duckings From Lawn Sprinklers

The not in the least rainy, this is the season of ducks and duckings, and the family garden hose, as familiar as anything in the average family storehouse, is the cause of it all.

The hose does woman duty in keeping lawns saturated with moisture and thereby hangs the tale of the duckings, for the average world becomes promiscuous and includes the unwary pedestrian in the area to be watered.

Besides the ordinary hose, there are numerous thing-a-ma-jigs which rotate, oscillate and otherwise perform to the discomfort oftentimes of the innocent passerby. Some are placed so that the spray just reaches the inner edge of the sidewalk. A swerve to one side will save the pedestrian, but one to summer finery if he or she doesn't keep an eye on the irrigators.

All of which reminds that the annual battle to save the lawn from Sol's fierce rays is on in earnest. Some already look scanty and parched.

OUTSIDE AID FOR LIMA CHORUS

Best of Vocalists of This Section to Be Heard Here.

Extension of the Kiwanis Harmonic club to include the best singers in neighboring towns, was announced Saturday by Don John, business manager of the local concert group.

Indications point to the return of Lima as a musical center of northwest Ohio and the acquisition of the best singers from surrounding towns will guarantee for the community an organization that will be a real power in state musical circles, it is believed.

The local club makes its first appearance before Lima music lovers at Memorial hall the evening of June 12.

Two large male choruses and two mixed choruses will sing competitive numbers to be used at the Mansfield Elsteddoff, June 16.

Rehearsals of the entire chorus will be held Monday and Wednesday evenings at Trinity M. E. church. Don John announced, Fred Calvert has been made assistant director. Additional individual entries for the Mansfield Elsteddoff have been received during the past week, John stated. Among the entries are tenor solo numbers by Arthur Cass and Fred Welty, of Lima and Thomas Williams, of Gomer.

Assisting the local club in its first public appearance will be two artists of international experience, Blanche Da Costa, Irish soprano and Marguerite Volvay, Bohemian pianist. Proceeds of the concert will go to defray expenses of the local club at the Mansfield Elsteddoff.

Surrounding towns which have furnished their best singers for the Kiwanis Harmonic club are: Bellefontaine, Bluffton, Delphos, Gomer, Vaughnsville, Ada, Pandora, Wapakoneta and Kenton.

WORST HENPECKED HUBBY IS GYPSY

Louise Rice, Authoress, Tells of History of Race.

NEW YORK—(Special) — The worst henpecked husband in the world—is the carefree gypsy!

So says Louise Rice, authoress, who is known as the "kosko gorgio"—the good stranger—of the many gypsy tribes that restlessly roam the country.

Studying the Romany race has been a hobby of Miss Rice. After many years she learned to talk the gypsy tongue.

"Finally," she says, "I gained their confidence. But it was a long time before I went thru the strange ceremony which permitted me to be a 'skirt and knife' member of the tribe. Then I was able to get behind the scenes and see the real life of the gypsy tribe.

"The gypsy woman is the real boss in tribal life. The man has no money except that which his wife allows him. He has no authority over the children. He is a pauper."

"But he is a whopping liar. He loves a good lie and will tell it with the greatest conviction. It is his pastime, his hobby, and no one who knows anything about the real Romany will ever believe what a man of the race tells him.

"Most gypsies in America are part Hungarian, Rumanian, Russian or Spanish. Yet all of them adhere to the same ideas, superstitions and secret religion. They worship Isis, goddess of Egyptian mythology.

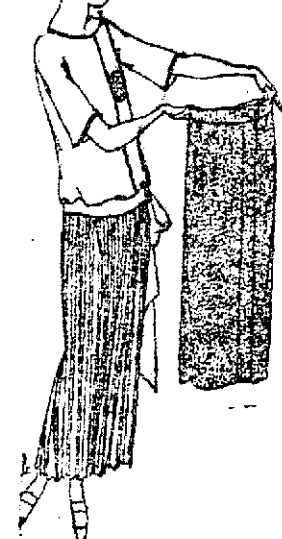

"The gypsies of today cover the same routes their ancestors have driven over for the past 200 years, but so secretive are they, unless they want to make some money fortune-telling, or selling horses, the inhabitants of towns and villages seldom realize gypsies are in the vicinity."

REVISED LICENSE ORDINANCE

City Commission to Consider Changes on Monday.

10 REVISIONS PLANNED

Ordinance Will Affect Majority of Business Houses.

An ordinance to license and regulate certain trades and occupations in Lima will be presented to the city commission Monday by City Manager C. A. Bingham. Since the original ordinance was introduced a year ago, 10 revisions have been made, including virtual elimination of provisions requiring licenses from certain businesses. The revisions are the result of a number of protests made when the original measure was introduced.

Providing the ordinance is passed by the city commission, it will become effective July 1, 1923. Provision is made that persons violating the ordinance shall be fined $25.

THOSE AFFECTED

The revised measure contains 16 sections. Trades, firms or individuals required to take out licenses under its terms, together with the license fee required, are as follows: Persons operating baggage and express wagons, trucks and drays, $7.50; bill posting, $25; detective agencies, $25; dancing halls, $25; dealing in explosives, $5; electrician, $25; garbage collecting, $1; operating milk wagons, $2; moving picture operators, $10; soft drink parlors, $25; street peddlers, $25; taxicabs, $30 and $5 for each additional taxicab; taxi drivers, $3; theatres, $15 for every 100 seats; transient retail salesmen, $5 for 60 days permit; solicitors, $10.

FEE BY REQUEST

The $50 license fee for taxicab owners was set at that figure following a request by them. Mayor Harold Cunningham said.

Among the changes in the revised ordinance are: Elimination of the license tax on barber shops, chiropractors, beauty parlors, lunch wagons. The revision also affects plumbing contractors, second hand stores, special policemen and pool rooms. Ordinance covering these trades and occupations are now in force.

Trucks and other vehicles owned and operated by manufacturers and other concerns do not come under the proposed license ordinance.

URGES FIGHT BE WAGED ON REDS

Judge James Johnson Talks Before Bar Association.

Members of the legal profession were urged to take the lead in combating the spread of radicalism and disregard for law, in an address by Judge James G. Johnson, of Springfield, before the Allen-co Bar association at the Shawnee Country club Saturday.

Judge Johnson urged his hearers to use their influence in the community in molding public opinion to respect and uphold the constitution.

He pointed out that with 510 Red and foreign language papers in the country daily launching attacks on our system of government, the situation is alarming.

Attorneys, he said, must use their influence to halt the spread of this insidious propaganda, calculated to undermine the foundations of the nation built by our forefathers. Members of the bar, he said, should stand together in the battle, and save our heritage for future generations.

Judge Johnson, in dwelling on the development of the constitution, divided its history into three periods:

The formative period; the pioneer period, where it was tried and stood the test; and lastly, its modern development.

Judge Johnson is a former associate justice of the supreme court of Ohio and was runner-up in the Democratic gubernatorial primary in 1922.

DISLIKE HARDING, HATE PEPPER

Pennsylvania Progressives May Aid President.

FORECAST OF FIREWORKS

Keystone Delegates Will Season G. O. P. Convention.

(BY HARRY B. H. NT)

WASHINGTON (Special) — Rock-ribbed Pennsylvania, the good old Glibbulator of the G. O. P., is the first state off the reservation in the movement for renomination and re-election of Warren G. Harding as president!

At a conference of the Pennsylvania members of Congress, held in Atlantic City decision was reached to support the selection of an unimpaired delegation to the 1924 Republican convention.

This, in the face of diplomatic suggestions from Harding henchmen that it would be timely and significant—also helpful—if the Keystone state senators and representatives should sponsor a delegation pledged to support Harding for a second term.

Back of the decision reached lies a double motive. The first and most moving one is of revenge.

THEY ARE PEEVED

Harding has disregarded many of the pet recommendations of the Pennsylvania boys in placing patronage. The slice at the pie counter has been neither luscious nor large. And considering the fact that Pennsylvania felt it nominated Harding, and therefore should have had fat pickings, they feel they have been "done dirt."

Next to the desire to register a dig at Harding, the Pennsylvania action was due to their desire to boost early and late for a favorite son candidate of their own—Senator

George Wharton Pepper.

In view of this situation, Pepper played, to all appearances a passive part in the Atlantic City conclave. Senator Reed, who is particularly sore at Harding over patronage refusal, led the band of hate. This Pennsylvania situation bids fair to be a really serious obstacle in the way of a harmonious renomination for Harding. If the Congressional delegation, controlling as they do in most cases the local organization machinery, can put across their ticket of unimpaired delegates, that sets over into the debit column—either for purposes of trading or of active opposition—a block of 86 votes. Which is no small handicap.

On the other hand, there seems some likelihood that the Congressional crowd, presuming to assume direction of Pennsylvania's presidential program, may be brought up with a bump by the Finches, who live group within the state, which while not defying its position with respect to Harding does not look kindly on the kindling of a presidential Pepper pot.

RISKY TO PARK CARS AT CONSTRUCTION WORK

Mayor Harold Cunningham Saturday said that automobile owners who park their cars near to where construction work is going on in the streets, do so at their own risk. The mayor, with Manager C. A. Bingham, made a trip of inspection along streets where new sewer pipes are being laid, and stated it is not only dangerous to park cars near the work, but causes delay at times.

REDS WIN SIXTH STRAIGHT; CLEVELAND LOSES

In Fourth Place Now

CINCINNATI — The Reds Saturday won their sixth straight victory and moved past the idle Cards into the first division by beating Alexander and the Cubs 2 to 1, in a game lasting only 13 minutes over an hour. Alexander allowed only three hits, one a triple, by Bohne, which was lunched with a single by Burns, an error by Friberg and a sacrifice fly by Roush in the seventh, inning for Cincinnati's only run.

Alexander retired the Reds in order in every other frame, while Pete Donohue set the Cubs down, one, two, three in six of the nine frames. No Reds were left on bases and only four Cubs were stranded. The score:

MICHIGAN LAD REPEATS SARAZEN'S STUNT

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — From caddy boy to world's champion is quite a leap in the golfing world.

And it isn't very often accomplished. But this little college town nevertheless, believes it has a youngster who bids fair to emulate the rapid climb of Gene Sarazen and others on the links.

John Malloy is this lad's name. Although not yet 16, and only 5 foot 2 inches in height, many critics are already predicting great things for him as a golfer.

John is a caddy at the Ann Arbor Golf Club. Last summer, in one of the caddy tournaments, he made the first nine holes in 33, which is and was low score in all of them, stretch in 33.

His average for the 18 holes is continually right around 40. In 1922 he was in five caddy meets and was low score in all of them.

As has been the case with other golf exponents who have developed into championship caliber, Young Malloy started on his golfing career accidentally.

One day, five years ago, he ran across an old golf club in the basement of his uncle's cellar. After driving the cans and stones around the yard for a while he took the happy step of buying a golf ball. Since then he has displayed marked improvement.

In the three years that he has been caddying John has obtained a wealth of experience and has surprised even his most ardent followers, who are a real future on the links for him.

Incidentally, John comes from a golfing family, his father being an enthusiast of the game, while two younger brothers also play remarkably well for youngsters.

MUSKINGUM'S NINE WINS IN SLUGFEST

NEW CONCORD, Ohio. — Three Kenton pitchers failed to stop Muskingum's slugfest here Saturday and the latter's team won 12 to 1.

The game opened with Johnson, Muskingum, slugging out a three-base hit and from then on, Henderson's men hammered the ball constantly, scoring at least once in every inning. Kenton got only four hits as against 16 for Muskingum.

PARIS CELEBRATES WIN OF CRIQUI OVER KILBANE

PARIS. — Word that Eugene Criqui had knocked out Johnny Kilbane and became world's featherweight champion was flashed to boulevard crowds here Saturday evening and riotous scenes of rejoicing ensued. The result was a surprise to the sporting world of Paris, and was hailed with enthusiasm by the huge crowds that had massed before the offices of sporting papers.

LOCO AND LAKE ERIE WIN ONE-SIDED CONTESTS

CHIC WISE

Chic Wise, short stop of the home team, is living up to the advance dope that was handed out to the bugs before the season commenced. Not since the days of Chic Long performing in a Lima uniform have the fans hereabouts seen any short field work such as Wise is contributing in the defensive work of the home team. By exceptionally brilliant plays the local short fielder has been the biggest factor in the last two well-earned victories of the home squad. Along with having plenty of baseball brains, Wise has an exceptionally strong throwing arm, emitting him to play his position 15 feet deeper than the average short stop which accounts for his making plays on batted balls that seemingly are going for safe hits. Wise has had several chances in the major leagues but his weakness to hit curve ball pitching has been his misfortune. Contrary to rumors, Chic will play the entire season with Lima, having definitely turned down the several minor league contracts tendered him.

Wiedemanns nine here Sunday afternoon. Get out and give the locals a boost to win their sixth straight victory.

The father of all useless hits in baseball is pop flies.

Tom Pearman lets out a real golf ball when it rains on tournament day.

How much longer will Everett Scott, who still is going after play, last more than 1,000 consecutive games, continue to play major league ball?

Last year Scott appeared to be slowing up badly. His play on the Polo Grounds was ordinary all season and in the world series he dropped way below the high standard that usually characterizes his play.

Playing horseshoes with a blacksmith is like to beat a man at his own game.

A jockey will tell you that it isn't always wise for a man to sit tight.

Babe Ruth is nothing if not original. Babe's specialty is hitting home runs. When the home-run business isn't very good he seeks other methods of publicity.

Sometimes, you, rather often, Babe breaks into print for exceeding the speed limit in his high-powered motor car. Recently however the Babe pulled something entirely new for him as a publicity stunt. While it isn't something which can be recommended, it got Babe plenty of space in the Gotham papers.

What did Ruth do? Listen while we whisper it to you. Babe is now in the John Anderson class. In a recent game with Philadelphia he stole third base with Joe Dugan of the Yanks occupying that bag. Babe pulled the stunt at a time when the Yanks had a chance to go over. Dugan, much surprised, was almost run down as the Babe slid into the base. By doing some fancy footwork Dugan managed to escape being spiked and dashed for the plate where he was an easy out. That broke up the rally.

A top just gets to going when it reaches the end of its string.

A ball player doesn't get very far by striking out for himself.

This Speaker's rigid training rules require, for one thing, that the players on the Cleveland club must not smoke cigars or drink anything stronger than one half of one per cent.

Roy Elsch, recruit outfielder, who came to the Chicago White Sox practically unheralded, gives promise of developing into one of the sensations of the year. Elsch has every asset, including brains, yet the wisest of ball players pull "bones." The Sox recruit pulled one the other day that will soon be forgotten because it didn't prove costly. Yet it might have gone down in history with other famous "bones" had it lost the old ball game.

The slip on the part of Elsch was somewhat similar to the stunt that "Doc" Gessler pulled many years ago as a member of the Chicago Cubs. Believing that two were out, when in reality only one man was retired, Gessler on catching a fly ball that he believed ended the game, ran to the club house with the ball. A couple of runners on the bases scored before his teammates could turn him around.

Elsch, a big favorite with the White Sox bleacher fans, has a habit of throwing the ball to the fans to scramble for, if he makes the last out of the game. In a recent contest at Chicago, believing two were out instead of one, Elsch on catching the ball for what he thought was the final out of the game tossed it to the fans and started for the club house. Then he came to.

Fortunately no runners were on bases at the time. If two had been on and two runs needed by the opposition to win, that toss would have made a real "Merlie" of Elsch.

Industrial League Games

(By RICHARD THORNBURG.)

In two poorly contested games Saturday afternoon at Murphy-st park, the Lima Locomotive Works and Lake Erie Industrial league nines walked away with victory.

The Ohio Power boys were mauled by the Engine-makers 15 to 7, while the Railroaders hopped on to the Crane Co. outfit for a 19 to 6 celebration.

Among other things done during the afternoon, worth mentioning, was the strange feat of Bill Halberath, left fielder of the L. E. & V. outfit, who was at bat three times and scored five runs. Twice he was walked by Hurley Duff, whose famous spit ball didn't slip across the plate very effectively and when it did it did some team-mate behind him managed to slip it out of his hands.

Many hits. Keller, Jhoske, Smiley, J. Galberach, Michael and Lels connected for triples, the latter getting two of them. Hits totaled seventy-one bases during the afternoon's two games.

One of the many Merks pulled at the ball for was the failure of the second baseman or shortstop to cover the key stone sack when Keller elammed the ball down there to get Bill Galberach out stealing. However if anyone had covered the base Keller would have received an error behind his name because the ball was 15 feet above the base when it passed that corner of the diamond.

In the first game between the Loco and Ohio Power teams, Jhoske slammed out the first ball pitched into left center field for a double. Three more balls were pitched to Shroeder and he beat out an infield bunt. Coon hit the seventh ball pitched in the game by Murrah for two more bases. Seven runs were piled up by the Loco aggregation that frame, one more in the second, five in the third and two in the fourth.

Worse and worse. The first contest was poor enough, but the second was even worse. The Crane Co., hopelessly beaten, staged a rally in the seventh and last chapter when John Galberach carelessly batted a couple, along with an error by Canaugh and single by Keller.

Only a small crowd witnessed the contest which was officiated over by Dietrick and Buidette. Fans loudly protested several of the decisions.

Youthful Associations Keep Vets Young

TWO "COME-BACKS" IN ACTION AND REPOSE; JESS WILLARD, BOXER (LEFT), AND BABE ADAMS, BASEBALL PITCHER.

(By JOSEPHINE VAN DE GRIFT)

NEW YORK—"They never come back," say the sages, pointing to the first great failure in American history—Mr. Ponce de Leon.

Boxing and baseball are different. Look at Jess Willard and Babe Adams. I looked at them, and asked information.

"Where," I said, "did you find the fountain of youth? How did you come back?"

"I never went away!" said Jess, staring down indignantly from six feet six of upper air.

"I never went away!" said Babe, lowering his bushy eyebrows angrily.

"Excuse me," I said twice.

Mr. Willard is 39. Mr. Adams is 41. I found this out by telling them they looked 27. That cleared the situation enormously. They let me ask them again how they came back.

Only I put the question more diplomatically.

"How do you keep young?" I asked them.

They were as pleased as a couple of grandmas trying out new lip-sticks.

"Playing with my kids," said Mr. Willard, his massive blue eyes sparkling.

"Associating with young people," my child," Mr. Adams said hand-somely, showing gleaming white teeth.

I told Mr. Willard that I understood he had managed to come back—excuse me!—because he put himself thru a grueling training before he tackled and licked Floyd Johnson the other day, thus wiping out the unpleasant memory of his encounter with Mr. Dempsey four years ago.

"Shucks," said Mr. Willard, "I tell you it's a man's family that keeps him young and puts real heart into him."

"And you're going to lick Mr. Firpo and Mr. Dempsey? Are you?"

"Well, if I do it'll be because I'm thinking of those kids of mine. I don't want any of them to become prize fighters. I don't want to leave them a legacy of defeat that they might want to wipe out later."

Mr. Adams confided that he began playing ball in 1904.

"This come-back stuff is all wrong," he said. "People expected too much after I pitched and won three games for Pittsburgh in the 1909 world series. They sent me to Kansas City in 1916, but in 1918 they asked me to return."

"Call that a come-back if you want to, that trip back from Kansas City to Pittsburgh."

Mr. Adams admitted that the average life of a baseball pitcher is about five years. And he has been going 19 years!

"Just chance," he said. "None of this fountain of youth stuff!"

Michigan Wins Big Ten Meet

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—The Maize and Blue of Michigan University won in the record-breaking 23rd annual western conference field and track meet here Saturday.

The victory was taken by one-half of one point, after the teams of the two schools had run neck and neck all afternoon.

The official score was:
Michigan, 57 1-2; Illinois, 57; Wisconsin, 25; Iowa, 26; Notre Dame, 11-2; Northwestern, 7; Washington, 4; Ohio State, 3-1-2; Missouri, 2; Drake, 2; Purdue, 1.

The one-mile relay race was the deciding factor between Michigan and Illinois. Illinois took first place for five points and Michigan, leading the meet thus far by 2-1-2 points, took the third place for three points, and kept the lead by one-half of one point.

RECORDS FALL
Brookings, Iowa, led the performers and hung his picture in the hall of athletics fame by breaking the world's amateur record for 220 yard low hurdles. He sailed over the timbers in 23 1-2 seconds, against the old record of 23 2-5.

In the pole-vault, Brownell, Illinois, set up a new inter-collegiate record by clearing the bar at 13 feet two inches. The old record was 13 feet 1 inch. The bar was raised to give him a chance at the world height of 13 feet 6 inches but he couldn't make it.

Summer Sport Season Opens Next Monday

Lima's younger athletes will bust into a season of ultra activity a week from Monday when the South High and College playgrounds are opened with H. C. Robertson in charge of the South activities and R. J. Thibet superintending the College work.

Baseball leagues, tennis tournaments and track meets will be dashed out to local enthusiasts in great portions and any local youngster that doesn't get his fill of sports should blame himself only.

Last year the Vacation league, as the baseball loop is known, was the talk of baseball circles and the good work done by the boys was commented upon and praised by a Lima's older generation of fans. A 20 game schedule was played and the South Side Triangle came out in front with the Trebels but one game behind them for second position.

Smith of the Triangles took league hitting honors with an average of .550 for the season.

This year according to Thibet, who will be general superintendent of the whole works, all precedent will be shattered with the sporting lineup. Three leagues will be formed with the younger boys playing in the morning and the older ones in the afternoon. Employed boys would play in a sort of twilight loop.

Last year the track work was rather neglected but Thibet plans to have at least one meet a week and teach those interested correct form in each event. Tennis tournaments will be carried on at all times.

First work in this activity was done Saturday afternoon when two picked track teams engaged in a dual meet. Heffner and McLaughlin starred.

A game was played between the two teams last year and the Indiana outfit has requested a return contest.

Next Tuesday afternoon the police will play the printers at Murphy-st park.

MARSHALLS NOT TO PLAY THIS AFTERNOON

Marshalls players will not engage in the national pastime Sunday because of a lack of classy opponents. No games have been booked until June 17 when they will travel to St. Marys for a game there.

JAVELIN THROW

A new conference record was established by Angier, Illinois, in the javelin throw, when he sent the missile thru the air for 158 feet 10 3/4 inches. The old record was 156 feet 11 inches.

Failure Of Collins Is Blow

DETROIT—"Boss trading" has nothing on baseball shift when it comes to the gamble involved.

Baseball trading in a majority of cases is the biggest lottery in the world, because very often the players fail to run true to form.

When Ty Cobb made the trade with Boston that brought Rip Collins and Derrill Pratt of the Red Sox to the Tigers for Pitcher Ehmke, it was hailed as a trade that would make the Detroit club.

"Rip" Collins, pitching for the tailend Boston club, won nine of his last ten starts in 1922. His pitching at the close of the season was the sensation of the American League.

Backed up by the hard-hitting Detroit club, Collins was figured to make the Tigers a strong pennant contender. Experts doped him to win at least 20 games, possibly 25. So far Collins has double-crossed everybody.

NO WINS
In his first eight starts with the Detroit club, Collins, the pitcher who with a tail-end team won nine of his last ten starts, had failed to register a single victory. Collins won his first game May 26, by whitewashing Chicago 6 to 0.

Six defeats have been charged against him. In his first start after he was relieved with the Tigers trailing, Cobb's man came from behind and won. In the other game another pitcher was charged with the defeat.

The failure of Collins to win is a severe blow to the hopes of the Tigers. The pitcher figured to put the team in the running, failed to win a single game in the first six weeks of play.

In addition to the failure of Collins to show, Pratt, expected to star at second, appears to have slowed up badly, and preference has been given the veteran George Cuthaw. Pratt, figured to round out the infield, has not shown enough to justify being played regularly.

On the other hand Howard Ehmke, former Detroit pitcher, sent to Boston in the deal for Collins, is pitching the best ball of his career. He is the Red Sox's winning pitcher and is regarded by Manager Chance as one of the best twirlers in the American League.

STOPS STREAK

It was Ehmke who stopped the winning streak of Pitcher George Dauss at six straight. Dauss held Boston scoreless until the ninth, being out in front with a two-run margin. The Red Sox tied it up in the ninth and made four more in the tenth, winning 6 to 2.

Present indications make it seem the Tigers got all the worst of the deal that was expected to make the club a pennant winner.

Recently "Rip" Collins was fined $100 by Cobb for breaking training rules.

ELIDA ALL-STAR BEAT LIMA CUBS IN CONTEST

Mrs. Ira Wagner, W. Spring-st., entertained the women of Circle No. 10 of the Trinity M. E. church at her home, Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Wallace Landis and Mrs. G. E. Price are the chairmen in charge of this particular circle, the women of the church being divided into 12 similar circles. Although the women in these organizations are asked to earn money to help the upkeep of the church, it is hoped that the social interest and co-operation among its members may be promoted. Assistant hostesses on Thursday were: Mrs. Thad Trout, Mrs. Bessie Cope-land and Mrs. W. H. Robinson. After an afternoon of music and con- tests, a two course luncheon was served.

Mrs. H. F. Faylor, W. Elm-st., will entertain the women at their next meeting on July 6.

Mrs. Elizabeth Maurer, S. Main-st., will be hostess to the members of the Dorcas Circle of Zion Lutheran church at her home, Thursday af- ternoon.

Meeting of the Encore club, which was to have been held with Mrs. Walter Rowlands on Tuesday, has been postponed one week.

Mrs. Roy Gregg will entertain the members of the Art Study club at her home on S. Cole-st., Tuesday evening. The meeting was original- ly scheduled to have been held with Mrs. H. H. Starrett, June 12.

The Young People's Missionary Society of Bethany Lutheran church will meet with Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Wise, 805 College-av., Tuesday evening at 7:45 o'clock. Miss Helen Sellers, Miss Ruth Plinke and Mrs. Milton Bloom will be the assistant hostesses.

Mrs. A. O. Finch and Mrs. John Shanahan will preside at a bene- fit card party at the home of Mrs. Finch, 742 Brice-av., Tuesday afternoon and evening, for the bene- fit of St. Rita's Hospital. Tables for both bridge and euchre will be arranged.

Those desiring tables are asked to call either Mrs. Finch or Mrs. Shanahan.

SUSIE SMART'S ADVICE

Dear Miss Smart: I AM 18 years old and am a very unhappy girl. I go out with my girl friends and boy friends and they always make me feel blue by mentioning how thin I am. I weigh 28 pounds and look like a toothpick. I don't seem to improve. What can I do to gain weight?

PERHAPS there is some health condition at fault. Or, it may be that your diet is not suitable. Since your case seems to be an ex- treme one, a physician should be the one to prescribe a remedy. Pay no attention to what these inconsiderate young people say to you about your appearance. It is very rude of them to make remarks of this kind. Try to comfort your- self that if you were a little over- weight they probably would have just as much to say about that.

Dear Miss Smart: I am a reader of your column and I would like to know in what cities in Michigan a girl may be married at the age of 16. I read in your column that girls of that age could get married there.

A girl may be married in any city in Michigan at the age of 16, pro- viding she has her parents' con- sent.

Dear Miss Smart: We are two girls of 18 years of age and as we are daily readers of your column we would like for you to answer a few questions for us. (a) Do you think we are too young to go with fellows? (b) How many times a week do you think we should stay out at night? (c) How many nights a week do you think we should go to the company? (d) Are red sandals and stockings going to be worn much this summer? (e) Are we too old to wear knickers? (f) We go with two respect- able fellows, both 22 years old. Do you think we are too young to go out with them once in a while? (g) How is my writing? (h) May we write again? (i) Write me soon. (j) Write me soon. (k) Write me soon. (l) Write me soon. Household Suggestions

HOT DISHES
Have a supply of holders in your kitchen for handling hot dishes. Otherwise you will find yourself us- ing dishcloths which may burn over the flame.

WALL PAPER
In a south room use a light gray paper, with possibly a rough finish, which is an excellent background for almost any type of interior dec- orating. In a north room use yel- low, tan or some warm tint.

COOKING FAT
Save and clarify all fat from cooking.

MAKING ICE LAST
Wrap your ice in newspapers and it will last much longer than if you do not protect it in this way from the air.

SERVING SOUP
Never serve heavy cream soups for a first course unless the second one is a light one of vegetables or fish.

WATER IN CAKE
You can often use water in mix- ing a cake instead of milk, and find that the cake will be lighter in tex- ture and less liable to scorch.

The engagement of Miss Bernice Wallburg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Wallburg, E. Eureka-st., to J. H. Thompson, son of Mrs. Har- riet Thompson, Dana-av., was made known at an evening party given Friday evening by Miss Lucian Wallburg, sister of the bride-to-be. After an evening of games and con- tests, guests were invited into the dining room where a two course luncheon was served. Place-cards bore the initials of the engaged couple and the date of the coming marriage, June 20.

Guests present were: Misses Lulu Morkoetter, Grace Russell, Lucille Siferd, Alice Gregg, Veronika Finn, Hazel Wolfe, Margaret Helen Finn, Helen Ritenour, Beatrice Cira, Laura Smoot, Nettie Cira, Levia Massey, Gertrude Herlihy, Blanche Peth, Irene McNeft, Myrtle Massey, Freda Miller, Louise Mahler, Julia Dimond, Mary Margaret Bourk, Wil- fred Wilhelm, Maxine Wallburg, Mrs. Harold Shepherd, Mrs. Clair Simons and Mrs. R. W. Homan of Kalamazoo, Mich.

Mrs. Donald Mehafter, who is re- siding in Columbus will arrive in the city on Monday for a short stay.

At the meeting of the Apollo Bridge club to be held with Mrs. Leonard Walther, 719 N. Charles- st., Thursday evening, Mrs. Ernest DeVoe will be the assistant hostess. Three tables will be filled for the bridge games.

Mrs. G. E. Williams, Lincoln-av., will be hostess to the members of the St. John's club at her home, Tuesday afternoon.

Creamed Potatoes
Au Gratin

(BY BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH)
Have three cups finely chopped, cold boiled potatoes. Sprinkle with one teaspoon or more of salt, one-half teaspoon paprika and one-eighth teaspoon pepper, and cook in three tablespoons butter, stirring until the butter is melted. Then add two tablespoons flour and stir until it is thoroughly mixed in the po- tatoes. Add one cup of milk and one-half cup of cream and cook, stirring frequently for 15 minutes.

Turn into a baking dish which can be served at the table, cover with one-half cup grated cheese mixed with one-half cup fine bread crumbs. Bake 20 minutes, having the crumbs and cheese delicately brown when taken from the oven. Serve very hot.

SUMMER HEAT DRAWS MANY TO COOL THEATRE INTERIORS

MANAGERS OFFERING BEST FILMS

Early Summer Run of Movies Continues High Class—Releases for Coming Week

(By GERTRUDE GILLHAM)

WITH the arrival of the summer season, many new recruits are being drawn to the moving picture houses, for they are the coolest places in the city, and with this in mind, managers have provided a list of entertaining films for the week's showing.

The feature of the week comes to the Sigma theatre on Monday, when "Poor Men's Wives," starring Barbara La Marr, opens a five day run. It is one of the popular films of the season and is said to be superior to its predecessor, "Rich Men's Wives," which broke all records for attendance at the local theatre.

Ethel Clayton appears today at the Sigma in "The Remittance Woman," a tale of romance and adventure in the Far East. The story was written by Achmed, Abdullah and has every element of entertainment, each of which has been brought to the screen admirably under the direction of Wesley Ruggles. Rockliffe Fellowes plays opposite.

Ralph Lewis, Ella Hall and Johnny Harron head the cast in the thrilling melodrama, "Westbound Limited," appearing again today and until Wednesday at the Lyric. Altho it unfolds a mighty drama of thrilling races and onrushing trains, it is replete with human interest touches, which are every bit as powerful, as inspiring and human as the great spectacular features in the production.

Starting Wednesday and remaining for three days, Helen Jerome Eddy and Harrison Ford will be seen in "When Love Comes." This is Miss Eddy's first real starring vehicle. Not only does the production stand as a splendid contribution to the record of the photoplay but it reveals in Miss Eddy a star of purest ray serene.

The important feminine roles in "The Glances of the Moon," the Paramount picture appearing at the Quilna for the first half of the week are enacted by Bebe Daniels and Nita Naldi. The story deals with the trials and tribulations of several wedded couples in high life in England on the continent. David Powell and Maurice Costello are seen in the supporting cast.

Eileen Percy has the leading role in "The Flirt," the Majestic's offering for two days. It is a Booth Tarkington story and a vivid cross section of American home life. George Nichols, Helen Jerome Eddy and Buddy Messenger head the supporting cast.

Tom Mix's thriller of the Western plains is the Rialto picture for today. Tom, his stunt horse, is also seen to advantage.

'At the Lyric

THE beautiful and lyrical love story, the sheer potency of its drama, the exquisite tenderness of its pathos and the abounding thrills that permeate the production from beginning to end, make "Westbound Limited," the Lyric's attraction again today and until Wednesday one of the really interesting films of the year.

"Westbound Limited" seizes upon a railroad man, an engineer, often timid about advertising himself, always loyal to his superiors, and glorifies him in pictures. The story in brief has to do with the evil machinations of a jealous private secretary of a railroad president, whose daughter reveals a fondness for a humble train dispatcher who saves her life when her horse falls on her in the path of an oncoming express train. Facing the dilemma of throwing the semaphore against the train piloted by her father with a prospect of wrecking the speeding mass of steel and humanity or leaving the pinioned girl, whose identity is unknown to him, to her fate the dispatcher comes to a quick decision. What this decision is and its results form one of the big "kicks" of the production.

An entire countryside matted with woods and underbrush, is set ablaze in a concluding scene of the play to serve as a beacon of warning as two express trains career toward each other, with their hundreds of passengers ignorant of the fate seeming in store for them. It is a dramatically dynamic scene that ensues, literally bringing the play to an end in a blaze of glory.

Altho "Westbound Limited" unfolds a mighty drama of onrushing trains and a spectacular forest fire, it is replete with little human interest touches that grip the heart strings.

Ralph Lewis rises to superior heights in his depiction of the role of Engineer Bill Buckler. He is ably assisted by Ella Hall, Johnny Harron, brother of the late Robert Harron, Wedgewood Nowell, Claire McDowell and others.

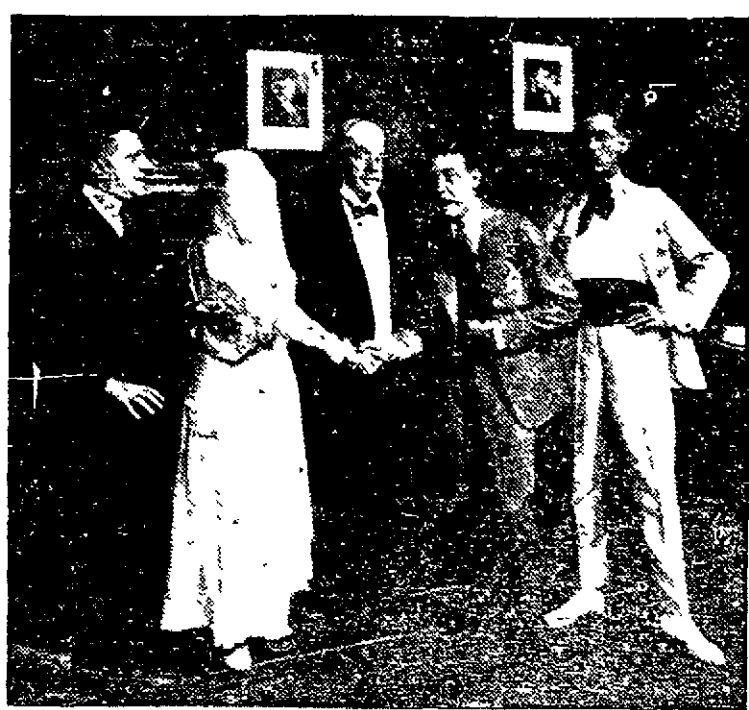

"When Love Comes," Helen Jerome Eddy's first real starring vehicle opens an engagement Wednesday at the Lyric. Harrison Ford as leading man, gives just the proper touch of sentiment and romance to the role of the young and timid lover.

The story concerns the love of a girl and a boy, the latter of whom is timid to confess his love. The years bring them disappointments but in the end they find the dawn of happiness. It is a straightforward and convincing romance without the mawkish sentimentality that mars many films of a romantic character. In the supporting cast are Fannie Midgley, Claire Dineen, Joseph Bell, Buddy Messenger and others.

'At the Quilna

PARAMOUNT rules at the Quilna theatre this week, two pictures bearing that brand composing the program.

"The Glances of the Moon," which opens this afternoon is a picturization of Edith Wharton's novel made under the direction of Allan Dwan, who produced "Robin Hood."

Scene from "Here Comes the Bride," the comedy offering this week at the Fautor.

Helen Jerome Eddy who plays opposite Harrison Ford in "When Love Comes," at the Lyric, starting Wednesday.

The cast is headed by Bebe Daniels and Nita Naldi, with Rubye de Remond and Charles Gerard in the principal supporting roles. This combination of authorship, direction and popular players should insure capital screen entertainment.

"The Glances of the Moon" is a society drama with a luxurious background. Palaces in Paris, villas in Venice and a bewildering array of gowns, furs, jewels and other feminine uphoistery make it a continually dazzling feast for the eye. It is a fitting frame for Mrs. Wharton's fascinating story. "The Quilna News" and Aesop's Fables complete the bill.

"The Tiger's Claw," which comes to the Quilna on Thursday, presents popular Jack Holt in the role of an American engineer who becomes involved in a series of engrossing adventures in India. The high lights of the picture are a tiger hunt, the bursting of a dam and Jack Holt's ride to the rescue of the natives. Besides the active Jack Holt the cast includes Eva Novak, Alleen Pringle, George Periolat, Bertram Grassby, George Field, Karl Stockdale and Frank Butler. On the same program you will find the Quilna News, Luman H. Howe's Hodge Podge and a new Our Gang comedy, "Saturday Morning."

The Majestic's Pictures

A great play from a great story is the logical result, but it is not always achieved. In "The Flirt," the attraction at the Majestic theatre for three days beginning today, playgoers will find an entirely satisfactory dramatization of Booth Tarkington's brilliant story of American life. It is about a typical American folks on the kind who dress up on Sunday and laugh with life thru years.

Enjoyable from start to finish, "The Flirt" carries a lesson to the modern young miss to beware her step and not become dissatisfied with life just because father can't give her everything that some of her friends have. But the lesson is so deftly handled that one doesn't realize it is there until the end of the story is reached.

The cast is notable. Eileen Percy has the title role. Helen Jerome Eddy does her best work and George Nichols as the father is heroic. The unfolding of the story finds him battling against Cora's selfish creed and brutal pride for enough money to keep his home together and his name clean.

Not yet a celebrity, but destined to be one, is Buddy Messenger, a boy who plays the small brother of the drama. The natural humor of the boy is perhaps the outstanding surprise of the production and adds to the spontaneous humor.

At the Rialto

TOM MIX is thrilling all his admirers at the Rialto theatre in his latest picture, "3 Jumps Ahead." Several new and daring stunts never before attempted for the screen are shown in this photoplay. Tom jumps a canyon ninety feet deep and twenty feet wide with "Tony," his stunt horse, and in addition rolls down a cliff while driving a stage coach. If you like to be thrilled by a swiftly moving story of the Western plains, "3 Jumps Ahead" will furnish splendid entertainment.

HAWKINS-BALL CO. OFFERS COMEDY

"Here Comes the Bride" which opens the fourth week at the Fautor Opera House today, is a breezy, snappy, full of pep farce comedy, written by Max Marra and Roy Alwell two of our foremost American farce writers. It had a years run at the George M. Cohan theatre where thousands witnessed and enjoyed this big laughing hit which is designed to be the biggest drawing card of the Hawkins Ball Stock Co. so far this summer.

It is ideal summer entertainment because it keeps the audience in a laughing mood, and is enjoyable through the two hours of acting. It also gives every member of the company splendid roles and greater opportunity to provide real fun. Florence Lewis and George Whitaker have the roles of the two lovers, whose happiness is dispelled by the father of the girl who objects to the marriage. Frederick Tyle, the pitted day engagement on Monday.

Here follows one continuous round of hearty laughs and humorous situations that keeps the audience guessing wrong. "Here Comes the Bride" will be continued on two special settings with beautiful selected lighting effects. The play opens with matinee today and continues all week with one performance each night at 8:15 and bargain matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

SIGMA PRODUCTIONS ARE MOST ELABORATE AND DESERVING

"POOR MEN'S WIVES" FINE PRODUCTION

Film Showings Extraordinary are Featured—"Remittance Woman" Ends Today

HERALDED as one of the best productions of the current season, "Poor Men's Wives" will be gladly welcomed by patrons in quest of splendid entertainment when it opens a five day engagement at the Sigma theatre, Monday.

A cast of stars, all of whom are favorites in this locality; a human and compelling story, an elaborate production are all combined to make it an unusually enjoyable photodrama. The story is the intimate account of two girls. One marries idle wealth and the other an honest but unromantic taxi driver.

Claribel, who is unhappy in spite of her money, takes up Laura to make her forget the inconsistency of her husband, and by showering attentions upon her less fortunate friend, makes her discontent with her husband and their humble home.

Laura is invited to an artists' revel and when her husband refuses her money for a suitable gown, she obtains one on credit, intending to wear and then return it.

The party is wild and, unknown to Laura, it is Claribel's own husband who tries to press his attentions upon her. Laura escapes to her home and sleeps late the next morning.

Waking, she finds that her children have cut up the costly gown. Frankly, she tries to make good, and finds that the only way out is to take the savings of her husband.

When Jim comes home and tells joyfully that life can now be easier as he about to buy a taxi of his own with the savings, she confesses what she has done.

The quarrel that follows drives Laura into the street and into the arms of Claribel's husband.

How the motherless babies really solve the muddle, and understanding bligs about happiness, form the remainder of the thrilling story that strikes home.

Barbara LaMarr has the role of Laura, while David Butler is seen as her husband. Others in the cast are Betty Francisco, Zazu Pitts and Richard Tucker.

As the offering for the final times today, the Sigma is presenting Ethel Clayton in "The Remittance Woman," a stirring tale of mystery in the Orient, based upon the story of the same title by Achmed Abdallah.

"The Remittance Woman" is a red blooded drama dealing with the adventures of an American girl in the Far East, of her love for the man who goes hand in hand with her thru a veritable chamber of horrors, in which their lives are more than once in the balance.

Magnificent settings depicting the picturesque city of Canton, afford a striking scenic background.

In the excellent supporting cast are Rockliffe Fellowes, Mario Carrillo, James B. Leong, Tom Wilson and others.

WILL APPEAR WITH LOCAL SINGERS

BLANCHE DA COSTA

The talented lyric soprano, who is a student of Mme. Schuman Heink, will appear at Memorial hall the evening of June 12, in conjunction with the first concert of the Kwanian Harmonic club.

She has appeared in leading grand opera roles and in concert work, both in this country and in Europe.

MILLION IN TAXES TO BE PAID

County Treasurer Harry Botkins is Ready to Receive Money.

More than $1,000,000 in cash and checks will pass over the counter in the office of Harry E. Botkins, county treasurer, within the next 20 days.

The money is the June tax payment, and is approximately one-half of the amount to be paid in the county for 1932.

Books are now open and the treasurer says that he and his assistants are ready to take the money. A few taxpayers are coming in and paying, Botkins says.

He urges that others come in within the next week while the office force is not rushed. Wednesday, June 29, is the final day for paying taxes, if the penalty is to be avoided.

Collection of delinquent personal taxes, in amounts ranging from 25 cents to $100, is still being pressed, Botkins says. Approximately $20,000 has been paid in by delinquents since the drive to bring

In the $100,000 due the county for five years past was started.

The collection is hard work, and requires patience and diplomacy on the part of the clerks to explain everything, and get the money, it was said.

Many persons have failed to pay the personal tax in the past because they understood it was included in their real estate tax. It has been the custom to figure the two taxes separately. Other persons have not real estate, but possess personal property. They say they are not trying to avoid payment, but having no money, never thought about a personal tax, explained Botkins.

EAGLES TO INITIATE
Members of the Eagles' lodge at Delphos will come to Lima Tuesday to initiate a class of 50 candidates for Lima lodge, No. 370. The visitors, numbering over 100, will be accompanied by their band. The lodge session will start at 7 p. m., after which a supper will be served. Local Eagles will meet the visitors at the depot and escort them to the lodge rooms.

EBERSOLE OPENS NEW STUDIO

Photographer Combines Many Improvements for Results

R. H. Ebersole, local photographer, announces he has opened his new studio at 130 N. Pierce St.

For over 30 years he operated a studio at 136 1/2 N. Main St.

The studio on N. Pierce St. is entirely new and is said to be one of the most complete establishments of its kind in this section of Ohio.

It embraces a spacious reception room in the front part of the building, operating room, dressing room and printing and finishing rooms.

Features of the operating room is the high-power studio light, which is said to be a great improvement over the sky light studio. The light not only produces better results, but is especially adaptable where quick work is necessary, such as taking pictures of babies and children.

Ebersole says he has installed the most modern equipment in picture taking, assuring the best possible results.

MOTHER IN PLEA FOR CHILDREN

Made Wards of County By Husband, She Declares.

Plea of a mother for her two children was incorporated in the allegation preferred in a divorce action filed in common pleas court Saturday by Mrs. Anne Shepherd against Harry Shepherd, who she charges deserted her on December 24, 1922.

Shepherd, the plaintiff charges, has caused her two kiddies, Robert aged two and William, one year, to be committed to the children's home in Shelby-co.

Mrs. Shepherd asserts she is denied the privilege of seeing them. Custody of the two boys was taken from her, she declares, because of her lack of education and knowledge of her rights. She is unable to read or write she adds.

The Shepherds were married at Chillicothe in 1918, and resided in Shelby-co for a short period of time. Shepherd refused to support her, and finally left her, she relates. The mother seeks a decree granting her custody of the children an order restraining the defendant from molesting or interfering with her.

Maytag Gyrfoam Washer

Introduces not only a new Maytag Washer but an entirely new and revolutionary principle—the first radical advance in the washing machine industry in ten years. It is not a vacuum type, it is not a dolly type, it is not a cylinder or oscillating type. It is an entirely new principle, one that washes clothes by water force alone.

Never before has a washing machine been developed to such a degree of perfection as the Maytag Gyrfoam Washer. The tub is cast aluminum, will not warp, leak, corrode or rust. It is beautiful and delicate in its appearance, simple, safe and economical in its operation. In construction it is strong and sturdy and will give a life time of service and satisfaction. It is equipped with the new Maytag all metal divided wringer, a wringer that is unexcelled in beauty, convenience and efficiency.

It is beyond our power to describe the Maytag Gyrfoam Washer. Come to our store and see it or if more convenient for you, call Main 2881 and we will bring one to your home for an inspection and trial. Be fair to yourself and see the Maytag before you buy any washer.

WOMAN SHIELDING BANDIT-LOVER

May Muhr of New Jersey Refuses to Divulge Information

FACES MURDER CHARGE

Frank Miller, Who Slew Two Policemen, is "Her Man"

JERSEY CITY, N. J.—(Special)

Determined to stand by the man she loves, even in the face of death, a comely young woman sits in the county jail awaiting trial for murder.

It's the first time she has been in trouble with the police. And it may be the last, for the wheels of Jersey justice grind quickly.

But May Muhr doesn't seem to care.

For she played the game with Frank Miller, "her man," and went down with him only after a hard battle with policemen in which two were killed, two badly injured and several others narrowly escaped with their lives.

Yet she scarcely knew what it was about, until it was all over.

"She loved unwisely and too well," says Chief of Police Richard Battersby, "and now she'll have to pay the price."

"It's just another tragedy of the country girl who comes to the city and goes wrong."

For years May Muhr had lived in a small village near Middletown, N. Y. She was a hard-working girl, who dreamed of breaking thru the confines of her little world. She wanted to get out and see things.

But the opportunity didn't seem to come.

She married when she was young. But soon after the birth of her baby, her husband and she separated.

GIRL MARRIES FUGITIVE

She went to New York. Jobs were scarce there, so she moved over to Jersey City. She became a waitress.

Her mother took care of her back and May Muhr was free to live her dream—dream of love, perhaps.

Four months ago a man who came to the restaurant caught her eye. He was tall, strong and not bad looking. The girl fell in love with Frank Miller.

Rather good looking himself, she attracted his attention. He soon turned her love. She was 27, ten years his junior.

He was a fugitive from justice with a long police record. It began when he was a boy gangster on the west side of New York many years ago.

He served time in Atlanta penitentiary for a federal offense. Shortly after he got out he committed a burglary in Paterson, was caught and sentenced to prison for seven years.

A few months ago he escaped. Police could find no trace of him.

Last December a daring daylight robbery occurred in West New York, a small suburb. A cashier of the Public Service Corporation was taking a $19,000 payroll to his office. He was guarded by a policeman. Five men drove up in an automobile, blackjacked the guard and escaped with the money.

The police suspected Miller as the leader and search for him was renewed.

POLICE LOCATE MILLER

Early one morning the police got a tip that Miller was living in a small house in Jersey City.

Detective Sergeant John Black, Patrolman Clarence Wolf, Patrolman Harry Otis, who once played ball on the Cleveland team, accompanied by several other officers, went out to make the arrest.

Miller was asleep when the police knocked. May Muhr answered the door. She told the men to wait while she dressed, then she warned Miller.

He was known as a gunman, and he lived up to his reputation. Barreled in his room, he blazed away at the men outside.

The police say the girl helped him. Before they gave in, Black and Wolf were dead. Otis was dying. Another policeman was wounded, and gas bombs had to be used to overcome Miller.

"It all happened so suddenly," says Chief Battersby, "that the girl must have acted mechanically. It was her code to stand by her man."

Disdainfully she called the police cowards when they finally made the arrest.

"It takes a hundred of you to get one guy," she screamed at them.

There was a defiant look in her eye as she stood under police guard and watched "her man" being handcuffed. She gazed at the bleeding cuts and the welts on his face, where he had been beaten in the struggle to subdue him, and the look in her eyes changed to sympathy. But there was no remorse.

TWO STATES SCOURED IN HUNT FOR MISSING WOMAN

TOLEDO — Police and relatives were scouring northwestern Ohio and Michigan Saturday night in an effort to find Mrs. Rosa Beaubien, 25, of Jackson, Mich., who mysteriously disappeared here Thursday night while visiting relatives. An abduction theory is strengthened by a telephone message received two hours after her disappearance when a strange man telephoned the woman's sister, stating she was going to stay with an aunt on Waverly-st. She did not reach that destination.

LLOYD GEORGE IS COMING BACK

Former British Prime Minister Shaping New Course.

POSITION NOW ISOLATED

Union of George and Asquith Liberals Urged.

BY J. W. T. MASON

NEW YORK (United Press)—Lloyd George is coming back in British politics. Since his loss of the premiership, he has been in a position of isolation; but events are shaping to make him the formal leader of the Liberal party, and thus put him in the running to be the head of the government again.

Ever since Herbert Asquith was forced to resign as prime minister and was succeeded by Lloyd George, in the midst of the war, the British Liberal party has been split into two rival camps. The Asquithians have in their control all the political machinery of the party and Lloyd George, even during the time he was the head of the Coalition ministry, was not leader of the Liberals.

That post is still held officially by Asquith.

But, the power of Asquith has waned. His prestige has been overshadowed by Lloyd George's and he has been accused of being a bad loser and of being under the control of his wife, who is personally very bitter against Lloyd George.

UNION DEMANDED

The only way the Liberal party can recover its lost ground is by a union of the two dissenting wings. Lloyd George is working toward this goal; but Asquith is opposing any truce with the Georgians.

The Asquith followers explain that there is no necessity for any reconciliation. If Lloyd George and his associates wish to rejoin the Liberal party, all they have to do is to enroll themselves in the organization and no more will be said.

This attitude is theoretically correct. When people leave a political party, that is the way they can come back. But, the Lloyd George argument is that Lloyd George didn't leave the Liberals; the rift him.

Furthermore, Lloyd George's followers claim Lloyd George is too important a personage and has done too much for his country to be humiliated by being treated simply as a casual member of the Liberal party's rank and file.

The true reason for the struggle is that Asquith is afraid any union with Lloyd George would mean Lloyd George's election to Asquith's present post as party leader. Therefore, every possible reason is advanced to explain why a reconciliation cannot be attempted, or why impossible conditions must be imposed.

Having the party machinery under his control, Asquith for the moment has the upper hand.

MAY FORCE UNION

But, the temperamental disputes of political leaders cannot long be endured by the subordinate and younger members, who consider they are being kept from office by the quarrels of their elders. There is a fast growing tendency among members of the Liberal party to take matters in their own hands and to call upon Asquith either to produce a victory or to consent to a formal reconciliation with the Lloyd George party.

By no possibility can the Liberals hope for a victory while the present rift continues. At the recent general election they ran third, and were forced to give way to the Labor party as the official opposition in the house of commons. There can be no change in this position while Lloyd George and his men are not offered terms to come back.

This fact is Lloyd George's principal argument and is winning the day for him. The spoils of office will be within the Liberals' reach under Lloyd George's leadership. That fact is bringing Lloyd George back.

QUAKE KILLS 2,500

Number of Upheaval Victims In Persia Reported

LONDON—(United Press)—Twenty-five hundred persons were killed in the recent earthquake in the Turbathaiden district of Persia, according to unofficial reports from Teheran Saturday.

First reports placed the deaths at "many thousands."

The quake devastated 30 villages.

Announcement of the marriage of Miss Pearl Rubart and R. R. Trubey, attorney, 310 N. Metcalf-st., at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Arthur Galtus, 1142 N. Main-st., was made Saturday. The ceremony was performed Friday night in the presence of immediate relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Trubey will be at home to their friends at No. 5 Kenilworth Terrace at a date in the near future.

FARM BUREAU IS REORGANIZED

Commodity Groups To Be Represented On Board of Directors

PLOT OBSERVATION FIELD

Many Meetings Scheduled This Week By Farm Organizations

Plans for the reorganization of the farm bureau to provide a closer knit marketing organization and to comply with provisions of the new marketing laws are officially adopted by directors of the Allen-Co. organization at a meeting Saturday.

The system of reorganization as adopted follows the plan of M. D. Lincoln, executive secretary of Ohio Farm Bureau federation, and provides for representation of the chairman of the commodity groups on the directorate.

At present the board of directors consists of each township chairman. Under operation of the new system the president of the livestock association, poultry producers, dairy product group, wheat group, wool growers and all other commodity groups, will be members of the board.

If the increase in membership causes it to become too widely to function efficiently, it is probable, Ridge said, that executive committees will be appointed to carry on the administrative work and the larger group will meet only quarterly.

Lincoln will be present at the July meeting of the board to assist further plans for reorganization. As reorganization, reorganization will probably not be effected until the beginning of 1934, Ridge said. The meeting will be held some time in December.

E. P. Reed, soils department of Ohio State University, with H. J. Ridge, will plot the second long-time observation field Tuesday on the farm of C. L. Miller, Findlay, Rd.

The first observation fields to be planted in the county were those of Arthur May and son, of Lafayette, Rd. Experiments are being conducted at that farm and soil tests were made by Reed some time ago.

It is planned to erect a huge bulletin board along the Findlay-Rd upon which will be tabulated the results of experiments being conducted.

County Agent Ridge and Carson F. Merz, secretary of the livestock association, will meet with members of the elevator board at Lafayette Monday evening.

A carload of wool will be shipped from Lafayette Monday evening as a part of the consignment of producers who entered the spring wool pool.

Blue Lick Farm bureau will meet Tuesday evening at Blue Lick school house for a discussion of coal, lime and fertilizer purchasing and to formulate plans for the coming bovine tubercular tests.

American-Farm bureau will meet Wednesday evening at Elida at the high school auditorium.

Spencerville Farm bureau will meet Friday at the K. P. hall to discuss plans for the tubercular drive. Entertainment will be in the form of a fish fry.

PRODUCE REVIEW
(By Swift & Co.)
Receipts of eggs are heavier than the same time last year and prices are ruling lower on all markets. Arrivals are beginning to show summer defects and the demand is principally for the finer grading lots for storage and cure.

Unexpected heavy arrivals of live poultry on Eastern markets caused the market to break 4 cents a pound on live fowl. Heavy movement is reported in the country this week and prices are generally lower on account of the conditions prevailing on the consuming markets.

Trade in fresh dressed poultry as well as frozen is generally satisfactory.

There has been a seasonable increase in the movement of 1923 live broilers and prices are generally lower, in line with market conditions.

The make of butter is reported a little lighter than last year, due to the lateness in the season, and it is expected within the next two or three weeks the bulk will be reached and the make will either equal or exceed that of a year ago. There is a good demand for current use, but the quality is not yet suitable for storage.

The market Friday on 50 score standards in Chicago was 28.4 cents, as compared with 28.4 cents a week ago and 28.3 cents a week ago.

There is a difference of 3.12 cents a pound between 88 and 90 score butter. Only a small portion of the current arrivals will score 90, which shows the importance of better care and attention to the marketing of cream in order that the manufacturer may produce more butter that will score 90 on the Chicago market.

Better butter will mean improved results to the producer.

AUTOMOBILE SECTION

RED BIRD IS WELCOMED CAR

The enthusiastic reception given the Overland Red Bird, the newest addition to the Overland family has been remarkable for the glowing comments on an achievement acknowledged by a critical public to be one of the most complete models of its kind introduced in motoring circles this year.

Everywhere this latest creation of engineering and designing departments of Willys-Overland organization has met with undisguisedly popular favor and reports from salesrooms spread across the continent indicate that this car singly has attracted greater crowds of interested motorists than any display put on the floors in some time.

According to L. G. Peed, General Manager of the Willys-Overland this Overland Red Bird will unquestionably span a gap in the line of Overland motor cars, which is now universally recognized as being complete. This new model is one of the outstanding, finest examples of automobile construction that has yet been shown to the American motorist.

Dealers are clamoring vociferously for large allotments to satisfy the demand already noticeable in every section of the country. This demand typifies the insistent call of the present day automobile purchaser for a car that leaves the factory sufficiently equipped to eliminate further buying of "extras," and in this respect the Overland Red Bird gratifies in every sense the ideal of the American family in looking for distinction without undue extravagance.

The Willys-Overland Company sensed this long felt want and in bringing out this new offering, answered a clear unmistakable call for just that comprehensive qualification in a car, and the factory in anticipation of the big demand to follow when this model was placed on the market is utilizing every available manufacturing resource to supply this demand.

ELCAR IS GREAT HAND TO FARMER

Clear Sales and Service distributor of Elcars in Lima, Ind., that the motor car has been the greatest help to the farmer. This is true. Out of 9,378,600 passenger cars registered in 1922 there were 2,365,949 of 204 percent owned by farmers. The great improvement in local communication facilities, brought about by the use in farming communities of this large number of automobiles has brought hundreds of thousands of farms nearer, in point of time, to trading centers, and has resulted in a readjustment of farm land values. This readjustment can perhaps be visualized.

During the decade from 1900 to 1910 farm land values rose from $13,058,077,995 to $28,475,647,169, an increase of $15,417,569,174. During the next decade from 1910 to 1920, farm land values increased $26,427,779,736, or nearly twice the increase noted during the previous 10 years. A part, at least, of this substantial leap in values was brought about by the marked betterment of highway transportation facilities.

This can be illustrated rather effectively. During the period from 1910 to 1920 all farm land increased 93 percent in value. In Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota, Kansas and Minnesota, the five states having the highest percentage of farm owned cars, the increase in land values was 140 percent. There is, therefore, a direct connection between farm land values and farm ownership of automobiles.

To the farmer, at least, the automobile has become an essential part of operating equipment.

MEXICO TAKING TO MOTOR RACES

The Chapultepec race course near Mexico City has been the scene of many Paige and Jewett victories this year, according to H. M. Jewett, president of the Paige-Detroit Motor Car company.

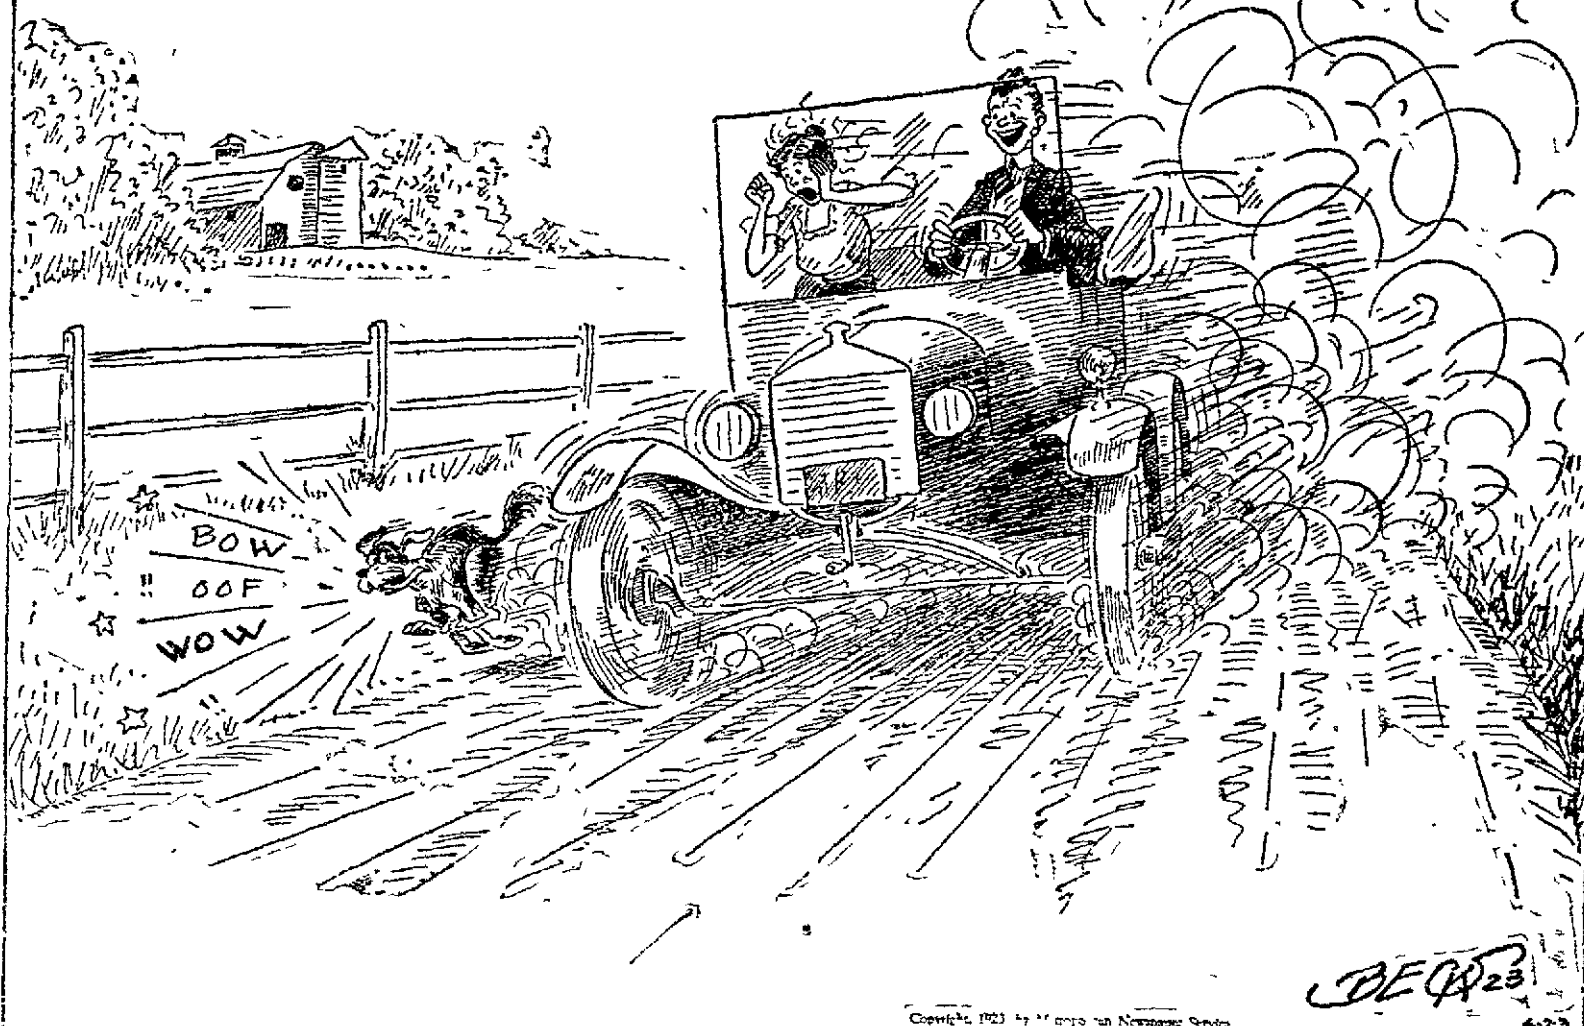

The track, of gravel construction has only been completed since the first of the year. It is slightly over a mile in length and the racing, while not held as regularly as bullfights—bids fair to supplant the latter pastime in the life of the Mexican.

The most recent victory, Jewett has informed Huber Auto Sales is that a Jewett car, on May 6th, which outdistanced all of its more expensive competitors and was first by a four-second margin over an American-built six of more than three times its price. The Jewett Special driven by N. C. Johnson was the same car which recently ran second in a road race on a route nearly 400 miles long.

The other Yankee car, driven by Hugo Pagliacci was a strong contender for the leading position during the entire race, says a report from a Mexican City Daily. "Pressing hard behind them was a Fiat driven by Luciano Spaggiari, a favorite Mexican driver. It was only with a burst of speed coming down the home stretch that the two American entries were able to pass this competitor.

DOWN THE ROAD—THE INNOCENT PRETENDER—

PRETENDING TO YOUR BEST GIRL, THAT YOU'RE GOING TO RUN OVER THE DOG THAT CHASES ALONG BARKING AT YOU —

ANCIENT AUTO STIRS FRISCO

Down Van Ness Ave. in San Francisco a contrivance that barely qualified as a four-wheeled horseless vehicle, possibly assembled from a junk heap and an old gas tank, chugged its laborious way. Two gentlemen of adventurous spirit occupied the seat.

The two gentlemen were quite as antiquated as the alleged car itself. They wore long linen dusters, elbow length gauntlets, caps with peaks and a rear-march, and over-sized clunker goggles.

The traffic cop, four blocks away, heard the snorts and victorious clanks that were emitted from the venerable vehicle, and finally saw it as it moved its way thru the crowds. He guessed it was probably old King Tut in his royal chariot starting out on a lecturing and publicity tour after beating Rip Van Winkle's record by 2,880 years.

We're not saying it wasn't King Tut and we're not saying it was. It might have been someone and his brother trying to out-Tut the whole Tut family. But rumors are rampant that the two gentlemen were Mr. George Campe and Mr. Lou H. Rose, President and Vice-President, respectively, of the Campe-Rose Company, Maxwell-Chalmers dealers in San Francisco and that the car was a Maxwell, vintage '03, which had long since lost its good.

The early ancestor of all the Maxwells in the world was built in Tarrytown, N. Y., and in the days of its birth, cars identical to it were sold by Lou H. Rose in Indianapolis, which may account for his now being a citizen of San Francisco.

GUARANTEE WITH OAKLAND CAR

Around the rim of the United States, across the continent and half way back again—that's the length of a tour that could be made in an Oakland car absolutely protected against excess oil in the combustion chamber. This is the conservative minimum written distance guarantee—15,000 miles—that is given by the Oakland Motor Car company on every car sold today. So far this guarantee has cost the Oakland company less than one cent per car to make good.

JEWETT BODY IS BUILT STURDY

"Long life in motor cars has always been the ambition of automobile producers," says Mr. Huber of the Huber Auto Sales, telling of the construction of sedan bodies.

"We might take the body of the Jewett for example," he said. "Tear the car down and the body apart, piece by piece.

"Just a wooden frame inside, you

sav. But let us look further. "In the first place the body has all metal paneling with close fitting joints. Then we see the frame. It is of the best hardwood, maple and ash. Each corner and joint is mortised, glued and reinforced with wood screws. Stout malleable iron brackets further stiffen the framing at the corners.

"Behind every seam where the outside paneling is joined, supporting and reinforcing the joint, is a post of sturdy dimensions, part of the body framing. Every opportunity for rattles, which develop into a destructive vibration, has been eliminated.

At Your Leisure

The road guide may lead you to chuck holes it doesn't mention. And there still are miles of cobbles from slower days. But you, in your Stutz Six, simply loll, whatever the road or the speed, with 100 inches of broad, thin-leaf, resilient vanadium between you and the bumps. For 83% of the wheelbase is springs.

The cushions are fit for a throne; the seats tilt just right! Pedals and levers fit you, and leap to command. And it costs no more to enjoy this luxury-type proficiency than to be goaded by indifferent performance. For the Stutz Six is by all odds America's most prudently priced quality car.

More Cars Shake Themselves to Pieces Than Ever Wear Out

Vibration causes cars to grow old prematurely by racking their chassis, destroying the "metal life" of vital parts, loosening up their bodies and causing squeaks and rattles. Frequent, costly repairs are the result.

The Studebaker Light-Six is freer from vibration than any car of its approximate size or weight yet produced.

This has been accomplished largely by a complete machining of the crankshaft and connecting rods on all surfaces—a practice used by Studebaker exclusively on cars at this price and found only on a very few other cars whose selling prices are from three to ten times as high as the Light-Six.

There are 61 precision operations in the manufacture of the crankshaft alone, 40 of which range in accuracy from one-quarter thousandth to one thousandth of an inch.

The Light-Six motor embodies the most advanced design known to automobile construction. And no chassis at any price is built to more exacting standards of materials and workmanship.

Aside from its mechanical excellence and its consequent long life, the Light-Six is handsome in design, extremely comfortable, sturdy, and we believe the most economical car to buy and operate ever offered at $975 or anywhere near this figure.

Its substantial all-steel body, one-piece, rain-proof windshield, ten-inch cushions upholstered in genuine leather, cowl lamps—these are among many features heretofore to be had only in higher-priced cars.

For 71 years the name Studebaker has stood for integrity, quality and value.

LINCOLN FIRST IN POLICE TEST

In a series of three tests for speed and quick getaway conducted by the Detroit department of police on Oakland boulevard at Dearborn Thursday afternoon, first place among the field of ten competitors was awarded to the Lincoln car.

The tests were made in an effort of the police department to secure a "Flying Squadron" of motor cars to assist in the campaign against robberies and other crimes of the road.

Quick startings from a dead stop, rapid acceleration over long and short distances and the ease with which the cars could be handled in any emergency demanding immediate ability to get going at race track speed were covered in quarter mile, half mile and two-mile tests; two of which were made from standing starts.

A large gathering of city officials, engineers from representative automobile plants and many spectators were present. Official clocking of the speed was made by stop watches, held by the official's referee and by judges in the cars, and cars were also timed and speedometer readings checked by members of the Detroit Motorcycle squad.

The tests called for stock touring cars, carrying six passengers each.

In the two-mile standing start quick acceleration test, the Lincoln finishing first, covered the distance in one minute, forty-nine and two-fifths seconds, attaining a speed of eighty miles an hour. The next nearest competitor covered the distance in one minute fifty-seven and two-fifths seconds, the slowest time recorded was two minutes, twenty-three seconds, finishing at a speed of sixty-two miles an hour.

In the half mile test the Lincoln again taking first honors, covered the distance in thirty-eight and two-fifths seconds and finished at a speed of seventy-three miles an hour. The nearest competitor covered the distance in thirty-nine and one-fifth seconds.

The quarter mile test was made from a running start of five miles an hour in an intermediate race. In this test the winner covered the distance in twenty-six and three-fifths seconds, while the Lincoln tied for second place with a time of twenty-six and four-fifths seconds. The slowest time in this test was thirty-four and two-fifths seconds.

CLEVELAND

Closed Model a Beauty

"Even the closed models of the Cleveland Six are predominating in sales volume right now, the new sport model recently announced to the motoring public has met with a market that is more than gratifying," says Mr. Johnson of the Johnson Auto Sales Co., local Cleveland Six distributor.

"Created in response to the public's insistent demands for newness in style, color and design, this new sport car is what might be termed a distinctive motor car. Built along low, racy lines, suggestive of power and speed, finished in beautiful beige brown, with trim fitting khaki top of graceful contour and upholstered in genuine Spanish leather to harmonize, this model appeals to the spirit of youth, also to the man or woman who refuses to grow old and admires beauty as well as distinction in a motor car.

"Gracing the rear of the body are aluminum trunk guards and substantial platform on which is mounted a snug fitting trunk. These, together with a double spring front bumper, further serve to accentuate the lowness of this sport car. Auxiliarily windshield wings, mounted by nickel fittings, cowl ventilator controlled from the dash, a beveled edge rear vision mirror, windshield cleaner, aluminum steps of distinctive design, nickel-plated radiator, winged cap and motorometer as well as a complete set of five disc wheels, are included as standard equipment.

"Unusual leg room is featured in both front and rear compartments. The seats appear to fairly hug the floor and are tilted at an angle for comfort.

"Like the other Cleveland Six models this sport car is mounted on the standard Cleveland Six chassis which features a number of new refinements such as a heavier frame, a large clutch, larger universal joints, roller bearing transmission, brakes of increased contact surface, a unique new high pressure oiling system, incorporated in the motor which tend to promote silence, greater power and economy are; a hot spot manifold which insures perfect vaporization of low grade fuels, double valve springs, roller valve

Henry Ford

He's a "Regular Guy"

One who really knows Henry Ford, cannot help but be impressed with the fact that he is extremely democratic. The following side lights on the great manufacturer are interesting in this connection.

Mr. Ford wears no gowns, not even a tuxedo. In his black necktie, he has no winter home in Florida, nor town home in Detroit. He lives the year round in a modest mansion at Dearborn. On Fridays, Mr. and Mrs. Ford usually let the servants go home over the week-end and they tramp like a couple of young lovers across the fields and thru the woods. They walk along the same road where, at a country dance, thirty-six years ago they first met.

Mr. Ford is one of the best cooks in the state of Michigan and frequently prepares her multi-millionaire husband's dinner. Mr. Ford still gets shaved at the village barber shop by Sam Marsh, and holds conversation in the street with a boyhood friend who delivers coal.

Mr. Ford is intensely moral, and neither drinks nor uses tobacco in any form.

END OF GASOLINE ENGINE NEARING

Engineers who have been predicting the end of the gasoline engine for motor travel look upon the recently announced invention of a "Baby Diesel" for automobiles as one of the most important advancements in the history of the industry.

The compressed air engine and the steam car are considered successors of the expensive gasoline vehicle. The "Baby Diesel," announced by J. J. Tynan, general manager of the San Francisco plant of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, confirms this prediction. After watching tests made with this compressed air engine, Tynan predicted automobiles going 50 miles to a gallon of fuel and with no gears to shift.

"The tests, conducted over a period of months with a 50-horsepower engine, have demonstrated beyond all doubt that it can be done," says Tynan.

Engines of 3000, 300 and 30 horsepower are now being constructed and following satisfactory tests with them, quantity production probably will be started in the near future.

The Diesel engines, hitherto only constructed in sizes adapted to the largest ocean vessels, will be operated for automotive purposes by the light and cheap oil such as is now used on naval submarines.

Gear shifting will be entirely eliminated as the engine itself is reversible and the transmission is so devised as to allow interlocking of parts to slide back and forth.

Greater stamina than any auto engine now in use also is claimed for the new invention.

While complete description of the invention is being withheld, it is stated that the engines are built to work on low compression and low fuel oil pressure. However, the full Diesel principle is retained.

LEAVES FOR CHINA

CLEVELAND—Miss J. C. Hammond, of Cleveland, said to be the first woman ever appointed as commercial agent by the United States government, has left for San Francisco, enroute to her post in Shanghai, China. Miss Hammond is a graduate of Oberlin College, and for the last five years has been secretary of the foreign relations committee of the Cleveland chamber of commerce.

DODGE BROTHERS TOURING CAR

If there is one word which will sum up the average owner's impression of Dodge Brothers Touring Car, that word is dependable.

If there is a word to express the quality which Dodge Brothers have striven, above all else, to build into the Touring Car, it is—again—dependable.

Indeed, it is not too much to say that the word dependable has come to be definitely associated, the nation over, with Dodge Brothers Touring Car—and the other vehicles bearing their name.

Nor have Dodge Brothers built this enviable reputation through advertising. They have built motor cars, so dependable in fact that the word has presented itself automatically to the public mind.

Thoroughbred Beauty-Performance-Stamina

Paige behavior bespeaks the engineering experience behind the car. Never will you find a car more delightful in handling ease than the Paige.

Paige 70 H.P. motor takes you smoothly over the open road at 70 miles an hour or through the traffic crush at 2. Gear shifting is rarely necessary. Then a bare 3-inch movement does it, and the docile Paige clutch engages without stalling or jerking. No clash or missing mar the driving of the veriest novice.

Paige bodies are substantial. Body squeaks and rattles are prevented by double strips of patent leather that keep metal from touching metal or wood. Richness of finish throughout—not a piece of imitation leather in the car. Ample foot room—and deeply cushioned seats, set comfortably low, make restful riding.

Rear springs more than 5 feet long, turn bad roads to good. Easy travel is further assured by 131-inch wheelbase.

Completely equipped—two extra cord tires, rims, tubes, covers, mounted forward on the running boards; stop light; front and rear bumpers; automatic windshield wiper; rear-view mirror; cigar lighter—are a few of the usual extras, that are standard equipment on the Paige.

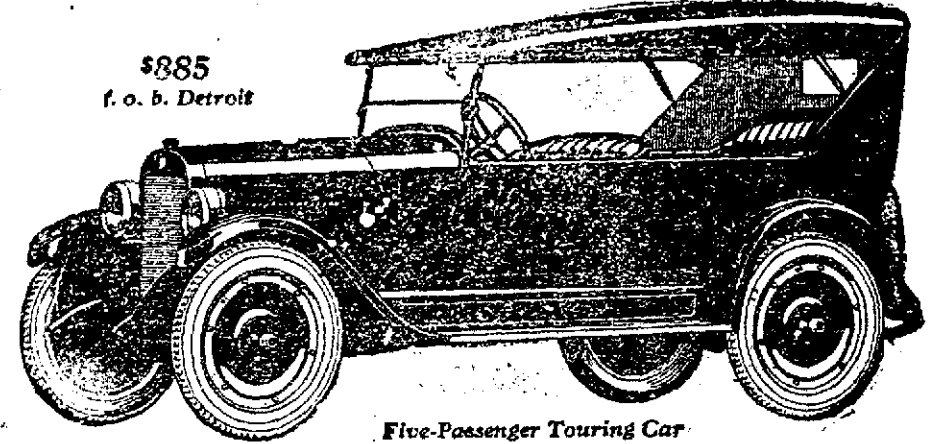

It is possible to offer this enduring Paige value because the tremendous volume on the Paige-built Jewett has reduced overhead on Paige by hundreds of dollars a car. And it is a value unexcelled. Test it for yourself by seeing and driving this car of fine workmanship. Phone us for a demonstration of unusual car performance.

SOME MORE MOTOR LAWS

More than a quarter century after the production of the first automobile, laws are still being considered to regulate it, tax it, curb it and—rarely—help it.

In California alone, the present session of the Legislature is considering 78 bills more or less directly concerned with the automobile. One bill out of every five presented to the Illinois Legislature is an auto measure. Ohio representatives are swamped with auto bills, and so it goes in practically every state in the union.

Most of the bills being considered in the various states may be listed under these five subjects:

1. Gasoline tax.
2. Truckweight limitation.
3. Compulsory insurance.
4. Laws governing accessories.
5. Speed regulation.

GAS TAX FAVORITE

The most popular class is the first. There is hardly a state which has not already passed, or is considering, a gasoline tax. And this in spite of the fact that a federal injunction has been drawn against collection of the tax in Arkansas and that the Supreme Court is considering its validity. California, in fact, has two bills that would level taxes on motor vehicles. One bill, bills to limit the weight of trucks are intended not so much for revenue purposes as for the maintenance of highways. Heavy trucks are proposed for overweight vehicles. In Texas, if one bill became law, a truck owner would have to pay duty based on the engine horsepower and weight of the truck, so that a 50-horsepower vehicle weighing five tons would be taxed $200.

Compulsory insurance is gaining headway through the country. The law proposed in Massachusetts seems fair and is favored by the motor clubs. By it, the state would charge every motorist $10 a year and insure him for $5,000. That would furnish more than $4,000,000 as an insurance fund to start with.

ACCESSORY BOOSTERS
Auto accessories are denouncing the various "checkers" bills proposed in the state Legislatures. Such, for instance, as requiring a mechanical signal to show which way the autoist intends to turn or one requiring a radiator cap attachment showing a green light to the left and a red light to the right of the driver. This is one of the freak bills proposed in Illinois.

Speed regulation is still the bugaboo of autoists. While, in some states, bills would raise the speed limit from 20 to 25 miles an hour on state highways, another would limit it to 25 miles and make a jail sentence mandatory if a driver is convicted of exceeding this limit. Another bill would require the installation of a governor on each engine to control the car's speed.

Besides, there are all sorts of unclassified bills. A California, for example, would make speed traps illegal. Another would require thumb prints on each operator's license. In Illinois, the license and engine numbers of every auto taken into a garage would have to be recorded. If one bill became law, these cars would be in the possession of the state before the state legislatures at present.

EARL SALES MOVE TO NEW HOME

J. W. Harrell, local dealer of the Earl car, is now ready to announce the change of location of his sales rooms to 211 S. Main St., from W. Wayne St.

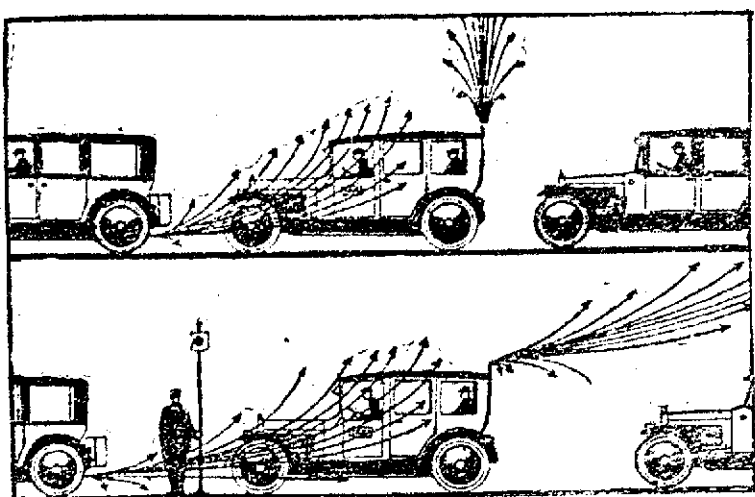

The new home of the Earl car will now be more conveniently located nearer the heart of the city. The sales room is undergoing considerable renovation and in a short time an installation will be extended to all the morning public to visit the new home of the Earl car.

Sales and service will be combined. At present only a few of the touring models are on the floor. Other models including sport cars will be on display as soon as shipment can be made.

VERTICAL EXHAUSTS

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Tests of the carbon monoxide fumes coming from automobile engines have brought two Yale professors to the conclusion that the exhaust should be extended to the top of every car, at the rear!

Thus, they say, will the danger of carbon-monoxide poisoning be greatly reduced and the lives of city dwellers considerably relieved.

The experimenters are Prof. Van-dyke, and Dr. Howard Haggard, of the department of applied physiology at Yale. Both have studied gas poisoning for years. It was thru them that the army gas mask was perfected and that an improvement on the pulmotor has been effected.

In their study of the effect produced by automobile exhaust gas, Henderson and Haggard found the fumes from a car running idle in a small closed garage for five minutes could paralyze a man, and in 10 minutes kill him. Street accidents, they also conclude, result from loss of nerve control and weakened judgment of drivers partially "doped" by the gases they have been inhaling from machines in front of them.

STUDIED TRAFFIC

Recently, they completed investigations of automobile traffic in New York for the New York Academy of Medicine. In this report, Henderson stated:

"The contamination of the air in the more congested streets of New York City for periods of several hours reaches the upper limit, and for short periods even exceeds the upper limit of a well founded health standard."

A passenger auto in motion, the investigators found, contaminates the air for 30 feet behind with from one to two parts carbon-monoxide gas to 10,000 of air. A bus sends its fumes 100 to 200 feet behind to a concentration of three to four parts of the gas to 10,000 of air.

The result, they say, is shattered nerves and dizziness on the part of drivers and pedestrians, causing many otherwise avoidable accidents. THEIR SOLUTION

As a solution, the experimenters suggest the extension of the exhaust to the top of the car. According to engineers, this form of exhaust will cause little if any appreciable loss of power, and the expense for the adjustment would be small.

The vertical exhaust is already in use on some bakery trucks in New Haven. It keeps the odor of the gasoline vapor from the bread, pie and cakes in the wagons. At the same time the gases go up and over the heads of drivers behind and thus relieve them of breathing in poisoned air.

In private garages, a ventilator would be required in the roof. A ventilating system in public garages would make this problem easy. This would rise to the ceiling and be drawn out before it had a chance to contaminate the air below.

EARL BOOSTER WRITES RHYME

"I never was a poker shark nor spun the roulette wheel,
I never cared to take a chance on any sort of deal,
I wouldn't strike one red cent on any blooming girl,
But I'd gamble my last dime on my old Earl, THE EARL."

You can talk about your limousines, your millionaire "twain-six,"
I'll guarantee that my old Earl can show them all some tricks.
And when it comes to country roads and pulling up the grades,
I'll put my money on the Earl and give 'em Cards and Spades.

It's got Economy of Upkeep, Road Efficiency and Ease,
The style is Smart and Snappy and she sure can Cut the Breakers.
She's always easy on the Gas, her lines are Easy, Low,
No matter where or when I drive, she's full of Pep and Go.

No, Boys, if I had a million "bucks" cash to throw away,
I wouldn't want a better car no matter what you say.
This Cabriolet style of mine strikes me as being neat,
Open when it's Fine and Sunny,
Closed in case of Snow or Sleet.

When my time comes to go aloft and make the last steep grade,
If they'll start me out in my old Earl, I'll never be afraid,
I should worry about St. Peter and if he'll pass me by,
I'll throw the dice in my old Earl and enter Heaven "On High."

Tire & Rubber Co. Resigns as Member of Rubber Association of America

WASHINGTON — Announcement was made today at the Washington office of Harvey S. Firestone, president of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, of the company's resignation as a member of the Rubber Association of America.

The letter of resignation, signed by Mr. Firestone and addressed to Mr. A. L. Viles, general manager of the Rubber Association of America, very plainly states Mr. Firestone's reasons for the company's withdrawal from the national organization. Mr. Firestone's letter follows:

"In behalf of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company I hereby tender, for the attention of your board of directors, my resignation as a member of the Rubber Association of America. This action is taken only after mature consideration and with the greatest reluctance. The failure of your organization to cope with the major problems of the association, especially the crisis created by the rubber restriction act, has impelled this action."

Since the beginning this company called your attention to the laws and has ever since urged you to action. You appointed a committee to confer with the rubber growers. We pointed out that this would be a waste of time. Months have elapsed—the rubber growers have reported nothing more than enforcement of the laws. Nothing has been accomplished.

Feeling this would be the result we have been doing everything in our power to bring about a protest to the British government thru the proper channels available. We have not had your co-operation. We have had only your continued opposition.

Immediately after the failure of your negotiations with the rubber growers, the writer advised before your board and asked their co-operation with the work outlined by the Washington conference. You unannouncedly refused and circularized your membership to that effect. You withheld from your membership notice of the fact that at the same meeting in my absence, you were unanimously of the opinion that Secretary Hoover's suggestion of a rubber buying organization to control the foreign movement of rubber production "should be unwise and ineffective." Nor did you advise your membership that at the same meeting you appropriated $5,000 of the association's funds to employ a publicity agency to use the trade papers and general press to "build any misapprehension" that existed as to the Rubber Association's viewpoint on the restriction laws.

The United States government has recognized this problem as vital, affecting both our peace prosperity and war security, and has appropriated a substantial fund for the investigation of a safe and adequate source of supply.

"It is with great regret that the writer notifies you of this decision. Especially in view of the fact that he had the honor of being president of association during the reorganization period and has always had in mind the high purpose for the good of the industry and the American public it might serve."

HOW CARBON MONOXIDE FUMES FROM HORIZONTAL EXHAUST AFFECT THE DRIVER BEHIND AND HOW THE VERTICAL EXHAUST AVOIDS THIS ABOVE AT A STANDSTILL BELOW IN MOTION.

DO THIS BEFORE YOU GO TOURING

"The touring season will soon be here, and the great joy of motorists will be to travel far and wide. In case you are about to embark upon an auto trip of any length be sure that you are 'all set' before you go."

"First of all be sure your car is mechanically right. We do not mean that your car should have a general overhauling before starting, but if there have been any little noticeable (not imaginary) irregularities existing, consult a good mechanic. Your car by the time it has covered the number 100 miles registered on the speedometer of some cars may be near the five hundred century mark, yet the car may be in far better mechanical condition than some showing fifty or seventy per cent less."

Careful and systematic lubrication is always necessary, but be sure your car is well lubricated before starting on your trip. Be guided in the lubrication of your car by the lubricating chart in your instruction book. Don't overlook a single point of lubrication shown on the chart. It appears to be common practice to lubricate what seems to be the most important places, ignoring the balance. You might get by with this during town or short distance driving, but by no means take chances when touring. You cannot foretell what might happen if a brake shaft should stick or a steering connecting rod run dry.

"The old saying, 'If the job is worth doing, it is worth doing well,' surely applies in the lubrication of your car."

Tires are usually the hubcap of an extended auto trip. Your car should be equipped with the best tires in your possession, the poorer tires to be used as spares. Keep your tires inflated, according to the recommendations of the manufacturers. Don't run on partly inflated tires. This breaks the casing and the increased friction generates heat. For proof of this, place your hand on a properly inflated tire and on one under-inflated after a drive of fifteen miles or more and note the difference. "It would not be possible even to attempt to suggest what should be taken, other than to be sure your tool and tire repair kits are complete, also including tire chains, mud or sand hooks that can be easily applied, since the average auto jack is made small and compact for ease in storage and the base is too small to be of much use in sand or soft roads. We recommend including a hardwood block, one and a half inches thick and six or eight inches square, to prevent the jack from sinking when attempting to raise the car. It may be found necessary to dig down into the soft road a little for placing the block, if the jack does not go under the axle as would happen with a flat tire."

MURDERER OF 3, COMMITTED HERE, NOT RECEIVED

Glenn Mell, 20, Wooster, whose confession solved the mystery surrounding the strange deaths of three persons, was found insane by a Wayne-co jury. He was committed to Lima state hospital for treatment until a cure is effected.

Nell's actions and confessions caused the authorities at Wooster to question his mental capacity. For this reason he was tried to determine his sanity, rather than for the crime.

Hospital authorities stated Saturday night Nell has not been received at the institution.

HARDING IS SLIPPING, POLITICAL ANALYSISISTS FORCED TO ADMIT

SEE DEFEAT FOR W. G. IN 1924

Survey Made of Situation Not Rosgate for Marion Man

CABLE IS AWAITING ECHOES

Political Gossip for Week in State and Nation

(BY J. W. FISHER)

As time whizzes along, indications are becoming more and more pronounced that President Warren G. Harding is facing the greatest battle of his career in seeking re-nomination and reelection.

Practical politicians and leading officials of the Republican organization are ranging themselves against him. His defeat for re-nomination in 1924—if he doesn't withdraw his candidacy before the next Republican national convention opens—is well within the range of possibility. In fact, it is becoming inevitable, in the opinion of those whose business it is to read the political signs and portents.

This new and powerful combination opposed to the president re-enforces the opposition of the progressives and radicals, who are resolved that he shall not continue in the presidency. Will R. Wood, chairman of the Republican congressional committee, visited the White house and boldly told the president his proposal for American representation in the International Court of Justice marred Republican solidarity.

His warning carried assurance that it was merely echoing the sentiment and words of Senators Moses, McCormick, Brandegee, Watson, Lodge and Curtis, the latter the Republican whip of the senate. The fact is that a large faction of the Republican party is convinced of President Harding's "unavailability" and want to substitute some one else to make the race in 1924.

Opposition to the Marion man for a second term is going so far as to suggest an excuse and an occasion for him to eliminate himself, but they appear to be resolved that if he will not step aside, they will bow him over. Indiana is one of the states in which the "regular" reactionary element, which sought to support Mr. Harding, is either indifferent or hostile to his re-nomination. It is asserted that the "organization" in Illinois is so much opposed to his candidacy that he would be badly beaten were he to enter a primary contest with Senator Hiram Johnson. Antagonism to the president has also been growing in Pennsylvania. Speaker Gillett is hitting his voice in favor of Mr. Harding's plan for American participation in the International court, but he is not the spokesman of Senator Lodge or of other Republican leaders. With Lodge against the proposal and the Boston Transcript and other lesser Republican organs opposing it, official Republicanism of Massachusetts is not likely to give the president any considerable assistance in the task of getting a second nomination.

Senator Moses will see to it that New Hampshire is not counted for Harding and Senator Brandegee, who is talking of "a betrayal" will answer for Connecticut. Leading members of the C. O. P. in New York still hold Mr. Harding responsible for the overthrow of Governor Miller and the loss of a senator last fall. They fear his re-nomination would foreclose success in 1924. In New Jersey the whole strategy of state "organization" is to disassociate itself, its candidates and its issues from President Harding and his administration.

Conditions are even more unfavorable for Mr. Harding if one surveys the situation in Wisconsin. Followers of Shipstead in Minnesota and Brookhart in Iowa are as firmly against the president as are the retainers of LaFollette. Regular Republicans of North Dakota, Idaho and Montana could no more deliver the delegates from those states to Mr. Harding than they could assure them for Senator Lodge.

This is only a cursory glance over the situation. A more careful scrutiny of the political map would show there is scarcely a western state in which Mr. Harding hasn't opposition and not more than two in which he is the first choice of his party's official organization.

President Harding's position resembles that of President Chester A. Arthur. The Republican "organization" foresaw Arthur's weakness as a candidate in 1884, just as the successors of those politicians foresaw Mr. Harding's weakness in 1924. The Republican bosses picked a quarrel with Arthur over patronage and then used this as an excuse for relegating him. President Harding's vulnerability is a mercantile to the politicians of his party. They believe that if he is re-nominated his defeat is inevitable and they think there is a shadow of hope for a victor in making pretexts to break with him and discredit him.

If President Harding is not re-nominated—and his chances appear to be waiting rapidly—he will have the cold comfort that Chester A. Arthur had 40 years ago; that is, witnessing the defeat of his substitute.

Reaction to the position of Congressman John L. Cable, of the Fourth Ohio district in declaring against President Harding's proposal for the entry of America into the International Court of Justice, is not of the character or volume anticipated by the Lima man, altho it must be said John's mail is getting heavier.

In fact, Cable's defection of the president brought scarcely a ripple on the surface when it was heralded over the country. Ample time has been afforded for the echoes to come back, but so far as a great amount of comment in the public prints is concerned, reflective of chatter among the politicians, there is dense silence. Any prospects that Cable may have had as a possible candidate for the Republican nomination of governor in 1924, so far as aid of the "regulars" is concerned, have probably gone glimmering.

However, Cable isn't worrying about it. Not he, John L. canvassed the situation thoroughly before he decided to join former Congressman Charles L. Knight and others who are "agin" the president and his plan. While he admits that perhaps President Harding will be able to whip many of the leaders into line and altho women's organizations and the churches may be favorable to it, Cable believes the rank and file of the people generally are opposed to America mixing up with Europe in any fashion contemplated by court or league.

What the harvest will be for him, Congressman Cable must wait to see, either patiently or impatiently. And since he is quiet and unperturbable, it isn't likely he's worrying.

Lima is one of the cities in Ohio in which the Democratic National committee will shortly organize a "National Democratic Victory Club to Win in 1924," as part of a campaign to elect a Democratic president. Chairman Cordell Hull of the National committee has announced. Forming of clubs in Ohio by the Democrats is part of a nation-wide campaign being launched in which they will establish a Democratic Victory club in each of the more than 8,000 towns of the country. Eight eastern and southern states have a number of these clubs.

Pennsylvania is first with 73 clubs. North Carolina is second with 61 and West Virginia third with 44. The main object of the clubs is to assist the Democratic party in winning the presidential election in 1924, to give the Democrats a stronger political organization than they have ever had in the past, and also aid in financing the party during the coming campaign, according to Chairman Hull.

It is expected that the National committee thru these clubs will raise more than a million dollars, to be used in bringing about the election of a Democratic president in 1924. A chairman is being appointed in each town by the National committee. Each local chairman is asked to enroll 20 members. Judging from the enthusiasm already manifested, the work of organization will be completed by fall.

"The Republicans, with their unlimited means," Hull declares, "are flooding the country with propaganda in a desperate struggle to overcome the lead taken by the Democrats."

Very naturally, altho with this is the explanation that those who join a club are expected to pay a fee intended to aid in creating a million dollar fund. Getting money is a different task that confronts party leaders in these latter days. Folks are not so liberal generally as in former days when asked to shell out to aid the party of their choice. Of vice seekers are the folks who are generally expected to foot the bills, and quite often many of them dodge.

Speaking of gubernatorial possibilities for 1924, another Lima man has stepped out into the limelight. In the person of Harry O. Bentley, attorney and for many years prominent in the councils of the Republican party.

Bentley was the principal speaker at the annual reception of the alumni of Bluffton high school Thursday night, with about 250 present for the annual reunion. A political note crept into the assembly when a boom of no small proportions was given impetus for the Lima man for governor in 1924.

Quite naturally, Bentley was non-committal on political subjects in his address before the alumni, but he doubtless appreciates the honor his fellow graduates of Bluffton high school would thrust upon him. Coming to the fore thru the medium of his alma mater, the boom for Bentley for governor on the Republican ticket is a tribute to the Lima man of high character.

This is not the first time Harry Bentley has been suggested for governor. Two years ago, for a time there was good reason to believe that he would get into the political swirl, but for some reason he declined to make the race. With Congressman John L. Cable and Harry O. Bentley actively campaigning for the Republican nomination for governor in 1924, Lima would be drawn into the limelight in an unusual manner.

Maybe it doesn't mean a whole lot, but it is nevertheless worthy of mention that in Collin's Weekly free-for-all presidential test in a house to house canvass, the second week's results only tend to add still further mystery to the political situation. In the first week's canvass, Henry Ford was the favorite for president over all others, but President Harding has jumped into the lead in the second round. Among over 53,000 voters President Harding is slightly ahead of Ford. The vote is: Harding, 12,050; Ford, 12,379. Next in order comes McAdoo, 3,002; Cox, 4,233; Johnson, 3,753; Hughes, 2,453; Smith, 2,375; Hoover, 2,229; LaFollette, 1,716; Wood, 1,185; Foran, 928; Underwood, 765. One thousand four hundred and thirty-two votes were divided among 24 other candidates. Three were cast for Judge Florence Allen, the only woman voted for thus far in the test.

Harding's lead over Ford came mostly from New England, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania and he also won back Ohio. Ford's biggest vote comes from the southern states. He continues the favorite in Indiana, Maryland, Missouri, Michigan and Kentucky and is giving politicians something to worry about.

Former Governor James M. Cox has taken the lead over Johnson and there are other surprises in the second count.

Whether Republican voters opposed to Harding are declaring for Ford rather than a radical Republican of the type of LaFollette, Borah or Johnson, cannot be stated. Likewise, Democrats in the north may be dividing their strength between Cox and McAdoo rather than going to Ford, while the south favors the flivver maker. A more general canvass must be made before anything of a decisive character will be seen in sentiment.

A rift in the Republican National committee which may have disastrous results for the party in the 1924 campaign in Ohio is seen in incidents in Washington.

Chairman John T. Adams, for many years National committeeman from Iowa before he became the head of the Republican organization, is the storm center in a controversy over foreign policy which has brought him out in the open in opposition to Secretary Hughes, Secretary Hoover and other close advisors of President Harding.

Adams is an "irreconcilable" against the League of Nations and is known to be opposed to the world court plan. He is determined to oppose league advocates at the risk of being ousted as titular chief of the party organization.

Democratic "scouts" returning from a canvass of Ohio, report in Washington that President Harding is without sufficient strength in his home state to carry it again next year. The Democratic National committee is already at work on plans to organize every precinct in the state for concentrated work.

The Ohio Legislative Correspondents' association, at Columbus, has started a movement to perpetuate the memory of James W. Paulkner, Columbus correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer whose death occurred a few weeks ago. It is planned to give newspapermen everywhere an opportunity to aid in the memorial plan.

More postoffice trouble for Congressman John L. Cable is assured in the Fourth Ohio district. The scramble for preferment as a successor to Postmaster Val Lee at Sidney is assuming the proportions of a land rush in the west—almost. It is stated that Fred J. Russell and Harry Oldham are the leaders in the contest in the matter of obtaining votes of the county Republican committee for endorsement. Cable is expected to prefer the candidate getting the endorsement of the committee.

Looks like Governor A. V. Don-ahy is about to get sweet revenge upon the Republican leaders, who have been heading him off all along the line in carrying out his platform promises, even to the extent of ousting members of boards who are in bad grace with the people. It is likely the hand of the governor has been in the disclosures concerning alleged fraud and corruption in the state highway department, believed in some quarters to have proceeded to the point of incendiarism to cover up evidence of crime. However, the charges along that line remain to be proven.

conquer, your brain-power, your ambition, your health, your back-fighting strength? Or do you care? Are you looking for a way up and out? Do you know that the nerve-power that conquers everything was born in a blood-cell? Do you know that an increase in the number of red-cells in your blood brings a tremendous increase in your health and strength? You don't have to have pimples to prove that your blood is weak. If you are exhausted after exertion, if you feel overworked, if your brain is cloudy, if your "pep" is about gone, if your muscles are growing flabby, if your speech lacks force and memory plays tricks on you, if your skin is pale and silent, if your prefer to be alone and silent, if your sight is hazy, your eyes dull, if hollows show in your cheeks,—there is one thing that always lifts you up and out into a new world of force, energy and success. That is blood-power! Blood-power builds nerve-power! S. S. S. is a tremendous builder of blood-power. It helps to build blood-cells by the million. It means more nerve-power. It means a stronger body, a clearer brain, firmer muscles, richer blood. A clearer skin, brighter eyes, more energy behind everything you do! After all, it is a simple, yet a wonderful thing. S. S. TWO American mountain climbers, bound for the little village of La Plaine, Switzerland, on a matter of provisions, interrupted their journey to gaze skyward at a greyish speck that was dotting the dazzling ether. It was an airplane headed, full speed, for Geneva. "A military aviator," opined one of the pair.

"Or an exhibition flyer winning a bet," hazarded the other.

But had they known the truth they would have dropped their knapsacks and gaped with amazement. For the 'plane, faintly humming a mechanical tune that kept time to the cheery whistle of its operator's lips, was bearing a baffled, but not beaten, lover to the side of his sweetheart, whom he had already pursued over the Atlantic and half of Europe!

Regardless of peril to life and limb, young William E. Doeller, of Columbus, Indiana, was literally flying to Miss Catharine Louise Littauer—across the Alps, at times 5,000 miles above sea level—buffeted by harsh winds, though not so harsh as her parents' objection to Doeller; pelted with snowflakes no colder than their refusal of him as her suitor, and warmed with the thought that he would soon hold the girl he adored in his arms.

It was a lover's flight, without parallel in story, song, drama or dream. Who had ever heard of such an impulsive person?

Certainly not the astonished residents of fashionable Geneva, who saw the 'plane coolly descend in a field on the city's outskirts. And certainly not Miss Littauer's parents—wealthy Colonel and Mrs. William A. Littauer, of 2846 Massachusetts avenue, Washington, D. C.—who thought they had "buried" their infatuated daughter as securely beyond the Alps as if they had piled towering Mont Blanc upon her pretty, defiant head.

But "flying Bill's" trans-Alpine flight was only one scenic climax in the panoramic melodrama of his international wooing. To-day, friends say, he shrugs away the idea that it was difficult to soar over the snowy peaks which, like frigid fingers, stretch between the French border and Geneva. He had learned how to fly in the army—knew airplanes inside out, as well as he knew his own heart and mind.

"And, furthermore, my daughter, Catharine Louise, is seventeen years of age, and in the United States; she is under the age when she can by law marry without the consent of her parents."

Acquaintances of Doeller, just back from abroad, are telling how he arrived post-haste in Lyon from the Riviera, where he had tracked the fleeing and obdurate Littauers, only to find them gone. He was surprised and pleased, they add, to run into an old service "buddy" stationed there in line of duty—French governmental duty. Then came the mad inspiration to borrow the friend's perfectly good and equally idle 'plane: to over-rule frantic objections, to yank the machine from its shed, and, with a mocking wave of the hand, to start his pursuit of his fiancée all over again—Alps or no Alps.

blooded—and headstrong; the hero, thirty, ex-army officer, dancing partner par excellence, motor car salesman—and play the part of the proverbial needle, safe from Doeller's penetrating eye.

But they underrated his persistency. He went to New York, got a job as an automobile salesman, and laid plans—deep, wily, far-sighted plans.

Meanwhile his betrothed was living in luxurious, but sulky, retirement at the Hotel Vendome, Paris. Her parents wore subdued smiles. Louise had forgotten. Or Louise would forget. Little did they dream that Doeller was even then on the ocean, in a cheap cabin procured with his salesman's wages.

The chase that followed is history—richly detailed, authentic love history. The next thing the Littauers knew, Doeller had been seen dining with Louise at Ciro's. The Littauers promptly hit the trail for St. Moritz. Then, still pursued, they struck out for the Riviera, Doeller—dogged, determined, still deeply devoted to Louise—following them. Next came their withdrawal into Switzerland, Doeller's Alpine flight, and his rapturous encounter with Miss Littauer under her parents' very noses.

This was TOO much. The Littauers returned to Paris. There (for, oddly enough, Doeller was still at their heels) the young people got a marriage license. The Colonel couldn't lock Louise in her room or spank her or order a bread-and-water diet for her. But he could ask the French courts for an injunction preventing the wedding—and he did. But the French are sentimental, and perhaps the bearded judge had heard of the Alpine flight. At any rate, he told Colonel Littauer "No" just as brusquely as the latter had told Doeller "No" months before. The license would stand.

Mrs. Littauer brought Louise back to America, while the Colonel stayed behind, temporarily, on business. But he first exacted a promise from the lovers that they wouldn't elope. And at that point the drama hung, suspended, awaiting a final outcome, much as Doeller's airplane had hovered over Geneva just before he swooped down on the Littauer stronghold.

In the meantime, all of Washington that is not dyspeptic or gouty is waiting for the final "curtain"—and hoping the hero gets the heroine. "For any man" who says the Alps in an airplane to reach the girl he loved deserves a happy ending—and a trunkful of medals, for endurance in wooing and flying!

Just how Doeller overcame the scruples of the French aviation officer; just how the 'plane which he borrowed was mysteriously and quietly returned to its home hangar in Lyon; just how the friend—or someone "higher up," but sympathetic toward soaring romance—stifled the first whispers of rigid investigations into such irregular borrowings—these are tales which the Alps themselves might tell if they could—and would.

The facts preceding Doeller's excursion through the bitter, uncharted air are dramatic—and, not without humor.

There were four principals in the little serio-comedy—the heroine, seventeen years old, heiress to the Littauer fortune; beautiful, blue-

Littauers:

"Louise and I love each other. We want to get married. How about it?"

Panic—refined panic—seized the parents. Their Louise, their "baby," sought by a perfectly "possible" but practically penniless young man, who might carry her off to his native Indiana! They said distinctly, "No"—not with such crude brevity, perhaps, but emphatically.

The Littauers also took to flight—though not in the Doeller airplane manner. They booked passage, packed, and were whisked away to Europe—that haystack of identities where they hoped to of Major Ellis, commander of the Kohat post on the Indian frontier, was raided by bandits from across the Afghan border. Major Ellis was absent. There were military guards less than a hundred feet away, but they heard nothing.

Mollie Ellis was awakened to see her room crowded with cruel-faced Afriidi tribesmen, dressed in sheepskin coats and caps and armed with knives and rifles. Before she could scream, a hairy hand clasped her shoulder. As she was dragged to her feet, she saw her mother being stabbed to death in a bed nearby. A moment later the marauders left, carrying the fainting girl as a captive.

Unpursued, they fled afoot into the mountains. When she recovered consciousness they made her walk, driving her, barefooted, along the rocky path until dawn, when she fell from exhaustion.

The next four days, after they resumed their flight, were for her a nightmare of alternate traveling and hiding, with ever-growing exhaustion and agony from bleeding feet added to the hopeless feeling of being taken further into the unknown, with no gleam of hope visible.

Miss Ellis' only protection against the icy mountain climate was the sheepskin coat given her by the savage leader of the band, an Afriidi chief named Shahazada, who, with strange inconsistency, after murdering her mother, preferred to be cold himself rather than see the girl endure unnecessary suffering.

On the second night of the journey, looking down from a mountain path, Miss Ellis saw the lights from motor cars, in which were her father's soldiers in pursuit, on the valley road directly below. But she could give them no sign, and soon, following bypaths into the mountains, the rescue party was lost to sight.

Shahazada, who, in addition to being a bandit, was a tribal chief of considerable importance, had learned to speak broken English during previous contact with the British, and on the journey Miss Ellis heard, in his boasting, the reason for the raid.

It was a story as weird as anything in "The Arabian Nights." Some time before, Shahazada and his band had stolen a number of British rifles. Soldiers had searched one of his huts and made him give the weapons up. To a man of his fancied importance this was a terrific "insult." It was unbearable "humiliation." It became even more so when his mother and other women of the tribe taunted him about it. The upshot was that Shahazada, being a devout Mohammedan, swore a "Koran oath" with his hands on the sacred Moslem book. To wipe out the insult he "would do a deed the like of which had never been seen."

Such a motive may seem more like a movie plot than real life. But Captain Achmed Abdullah, himself born in Afghanistan—soldier of fortune and famous writer, now living in New York, but fully familiar with that far-off land—says it is characteristic of the proud Afriidi tribes. "They would risk their lives on such a raid, solely to avenge a fancied insult. They would murder a woman in cold blood to prevent being caught. They would drive a girl along until her bleeding feet were torn to shreds to make safe their desperate flight. And then they would take the coats from their own backs to keep her from being cold and treat her with kindness while holding her for ransom, once they had attained their fortress and were safe from pursuit."

However, an element which Shahazada had not counted on made his position less safe. A certain powerful Kuli Khan, a native official and leader of tribes friendly to the British, sought out the bandit and demanded the return of the girl.

While negotiations were going on, still another rescue party was afoot—consisting of one intrepid woman, accompanied only by her native servants—a Mrs. Harold Starr, a mission surgeon's wife and trained nurse, highly regarded by all the tribes because of the work she had done among them.

Mrs. Starr happened to be traveling near the Karki Bazaar, a settlement in which dwelt the famous Mullah or Mohammedan religious ruler, Mahmoud Akound. Hearing that Miss Ellis was held captive, Mrs. Starr went to the Mullah and requested the girl's release. The Mullah, sending messengers to the bandit's fortress, demanded that the girl be brought immediately to his house for a conference.

Dutifully, Shahazada came, bringing the girl with him, and a dozen of his bloodthirsty followers as an escort. He had little to fear, as the British soldiers were nowhere near. When the girl arrived, the meeting in the Mullah's house with Mrs. Starr was a joyful one, but Miss Ellis' troubles were not over. As the negotiations progressed, the bandit chief and his men stood beside the girl, pointing out that they had come there only for parley and that the girl was still their captive.

Mrs. Starr denounced the bandits and demanded the immediate and unconditional surrender of the girl. This angered Shahazada, who seized Mrs. Starr and shook her roughly.

At this, the venerable Mullah became enraged at the bandit—not for hurting Mrs. Starr, but for profaning the Mullah's holy house with physical violence.

Shaking with fury, he arose, extended his hands toward Shahazada, and began to pour out upon his head the terrible "Koran curse."

The bandit, more afraid of this than of the whole British army, turned and fled, taking his men with him and leaving Miss Ellis.

According to advices just received, she has been safely returned to her father, after undergoing one of the most dramatic and soul-racking experiences that a girl has ever suffered.

SUPPOSE you were a tenderly-reared girl of fifteen, captured by savage bandits, dragged barefoot along cold and rocky mountain passes toward their hiding place among the icy crags—

Suppose your feet were cut and bleeding, you were hungry, exhausted and terribly cold, shivering in the bitter wind, protected only by the filmy nightgown you wore when you were dragged from your bed—

And suppose you were suddenly offered the warm fur coat from his own back by the man who had killed your mother a few hours earlier, before your very eyes!

Would you refuse it? Or would you accept it?

The girl who faced this dilemma is Mollie Ellis, daughter of a British army officer, who was captured by tribesmen on the frontier of Afghanistan, and who finally has been returned, safe to her father, after a series of terrible experiences.

She accepted the coat, because to have refused would have meant her own death. A refusal would not have brought back her mother, who was already dead. The girl was too exhausted to indulge in false heroics. Her father and friends think she did the sensible thing.

It was early one Spring morning, according to detailed dispatches which have just reached America, that the bungalow shadows in the object are densest and vice versa.

Whose Diamond Did the X-Ray Find in Pretty Mrs. Clem?

X-Ray Disclosing the Diamond Ring in Mrs. Clem's Stomach, Exactly as Revealed on the Radio-graph Plate.

A person looking through the "seeing" end of the fluoroscope, with his eyes shaded from outside light, can readily detect shadows in the object under examination.

Mrs. Clem was placed between the fluoroscope and the Roentgen rays. The light was turned on and the X-ray operator took a long look.

"Yes," he said, "there is a shadow—a spot—some foreign substance that appears to be lodged in the upper part of the stomach."

Mr. Elliott nodded emphatically. The policemen wagged their heads wisely. Mrs. Clem herself smiled.

"We had better make X-ray photographs," said the doctors. "They will show us whether we will have to operate or not."

The officers saw the X-ray photographs first, after the plates were developed. There, sure enough, was the diamond. In the photograph it appeared to be lodged against one of the vertebrae of the backbone, but the doctors explained that this was deceptive. The X-ray, of course, indicates no perspective. All shadow objects in a negative seem to be on the same plane, flat, like so much printing on a piece of paper, whereas, in fact, one object may be an inch or more closer to the eyes than another. Thus the diamond, apparently on the same plane with the backbone, really was inside Mrs. Clem, some distance from the backbone, in her stomach.

"Well, here's your diamond!" announced the officers, walking into the jewelry store of Hirsch & Elliott. "All we have to do now is to get the lady to the hospital. The doctors say they may have to operate."

Mr. Elliott seized the X-ray photographs. He stared at them. He held them at this angle, and he held them at that. He turned them upside down. He sent for a magnifying glass, and he held the glass over them.

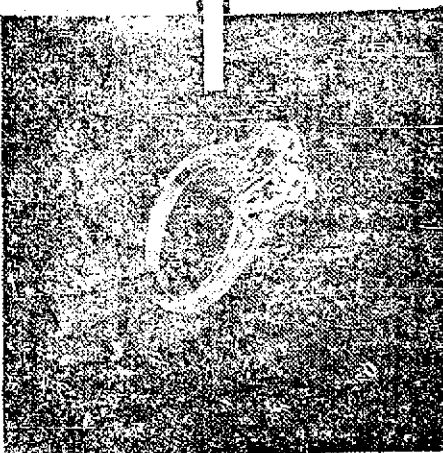

"That," announced Mr. Elliott finally, "is not my diamond."

When the officers expressed their amazement, Mr. Elliott reiterated his assertion. He pointed to the X-ray photographs.

"You can see very plainly that the object in Mrs. Clem's stomach is a diamond ring," he declared. "I haven't missed any diamond rings. The diamond Mrs. Clem took was an uncut stone. I don't think it; I know it! It was like one of these stones here. Quite a lot of difference, isn't there?"

There WAS a lot of difference. The diamond Mr. Elliott held in his hand lacked any ring or setting. The diamond outlined by the X-ray, though dimly perceived, undoubtedly was in a ring.

Was the jeweler mistaken and had Mrs. Clem swallowed a diamond ring instead of the uncut diamond he said she fished?

Photograph of the Mysterious "Whose Is It?" Ring, Recovered Only After Mrs. Clem Had Spent Three Days in the Hospital.

Was Mrs. Clem mistaken when she said she swallowed Mr. Elliott's diamond, and had she said it merely because, weeks before, she had swallowed another diamond—in a ring?

Surely, the theory was not tenable that Mrs. Clem swallowed an uncut diamond which then managed to get itself "set" in her stomach?

Bewildered to the point where they found themselves considering even such wild and foolish suppositions, the policemen went to Mrs. Clem. Could she explain this mystery?

Mrs. Clem, they say, couldn't. She wasn't altogether sure what she had swallowed. The business was so hasty—one minute strolling out of the shop, the next hearing Mr. Elliott in pursuit and hurriedly transferring the object in her hand to her mouth. She, too, had been under the impression that it was an uncut diamond. She couldn't explain how it had turned into a ring.

However, remarked Mrs. Clem, if the jeweler didn't claim the diamond ring inside her, she didn't see how she could be proved guilty of stealing. And if the X-ray showed no other diamond, the ring became hers as much as anybody's, didn't it? Possession was nine points of the law and nobody could deny that Mrs. Clem possessed that ring.

When the hospital authorities, after treating Mrs. Clem for three days, finally recovered the ring, they had a second shock. It was not only a ring, but a ring with two diamonds! The judge dismissed the case. If neither the police nor the jeweler nor Mrs. Clem could vouch for the ownership of the ring, neither could the court. And so the mystery remained as great as ever.

A JEWELER accused Mrs. Olive Clem, pretty young Chicago matron, of stealing a diamond. She denied it. Policemen took her to the county hospital. A doctor, looking through the fluoroscope, said he saw a foreign object in Mrs. Clem's stomach. He made an X-ray photograph. But when the plate was developed everybody gasped. Instead of the jeweler's uncut diamond, the X-ray showed what appeared to be a diamond ring.

Did Mrs. Clem swallow the jeweler's diamond or did she swallow her own diamond? Did the jeweler's diamond, after being swallowed, inexplicably take on the appearance of another diamond? If the jeweler denied the X-ray diamond was his diamond, and if Mrs. Clem also denied it, whose was the diamond in Mrs. Clem's stomach?

These were some of the questions the Chicago police wanted answered, in a mystery as amusing as it was baffling.

Mrs. Clem left her home, at 7235 Cottage Grove avenue, on a bright afternoon to go shopping. She stopped at Hirsch & Elliott's jewelry store, at 7507 Cottage Grove avenue. Mr. Elliott waited on her.

"I want to see some diamonds," announced Mrs. Clem.

Mr. Elliott took a tray out of the showcase and placed it on top of the counter. It contained uncut diamonds. He was sure of that. There was no other tray in the counter or anywhere near at hand.

Mr. Elliott said Mrs. Clem picked up a diamond after diamond, examining them and putting them back in the tray. She did not seem able to make up her mind which diamond she wanted. Finally she said she would not make a decision that day. She would consult her husband first.

Mrs. Clem was about to replace the tray in the showcase when, with a jeweler's intuition, he stopped to count the diamonds. His "hunch" had been right. There had been fourteen uncut stones in the tray. Upon Mrs. Clem's departure, declared Mr. Elliott, there were only thirteen stones in the tray.

Mr. Elliott dashed out the front door. He was in time to catch Mrs. Clem strolling casually along half a block away. He stopped her. He called a policeman. He had her arrested.

The pretty young woman denied the theft vigorously. She was taken to police headquarters and searched. The diamond could not be found on her person. But Mr. Elliott was positive the diamond could not have left his store except in Mrs. Clem's possession.

Mrs. Clem was questioned for hours. Finally, declared the police, she confessed she had swallowed the diamond when she heard footsteps behind her and Mr. Elliott's shouts.

"I took it just on impulse when he wasn't looking," admitted Mrs. Clem, say the police. "And on impulse I swallowed it!"

The police were suspicious. Mrs. Clem might be telling the truth. On the other hand, she might have passed the diamond to a confederate or hidden it in the cranny of some wall, or even flung it away. There was only one way to find out.

Off to the county hospital went Mrs. Clem, Mr. Elliott and two police officers. They explained their extraordinary mission to the hospital authorities. The woman said she had swallowed a diamond. Could the doctors verify or disprove her story without cutting her open?

"That's easy," said the doctors. "We'll try the fluoroscope!"

The fluoroscope is a machine invented after the discovery of the Roentgen rays. It is used to observe with the naked eye what is photographed by the X-ray.

The fluoroscope consists of a box, shaped at one end to fit around the eyes and exclude light, like a camera covered with a dark cloth, while the opposite end is closed with a screen, which is covered on the outside with highly fluorescent chemicals, capable of giving off, when illuminated, a light of a color differing both from their own and the light cast upon them.

The object to be examined by the fluoroscope is placed between the Roentgen rays and the fluorescent screen. The rays penetrate the object and fall on the screen, causing a fluorescent light, which is least where the

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

Calvin Gray comes to Dallas and rents the most expensive hotel suite in the city. He is the enemy of "Colonel" Henry Nelson, son of Bill Nelson, banker. Gray falls in love with Barbara Parker, who buys land for Nelson, and he suggests that she also purchase land for him. Gus Briskow, friend of Gray, takes Ma Briskow and Althea, the daughter to the mountains. Gray visits them there. A message comes saying that Bud Briskow, the son, has run away from school and Gray offers to follow him and bring him home. Gray returns to Dallas to see Barbara Parker.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

During the early dusk Gray returned to the lease, only to find even the greasy caretaker gone. By this time he was decidedly uncomfortable, and to add to his discomfort he conceived the notion that he was being followed. On second thought, he dismissed this idea, nevertheless he took a roundabout course back toward the main street.

Before long Gray found himself in a superheated, overcrowded back room with a stack of silver dollars which he scattered carelessly upon the numbers of a roulette table. Roulette was much like the oil game. This was a good way in which to kill an hour.

Absorbed in his own thoughts, Gray paid little heed to those about him, until a large hand picked up one of his bets. Then he raked his eyes. The hand was attached to a muscular arm, which in turn was attached to a burly stranger of unpleasant mien. Gray voiced a good-natured protest, but the fellow scowled and refused to acknowledge his mistake. Noting that the man allowed the incident to pass, this hostile, whisky-faded across Red River was of a quality to scatter a person's eyesight.

For some time the game continued before Gray won again, and the dealer deposited thirty-five silver dollars beside his bet. Again that sun-browned hand reached forth, but this time Gray seized it by the wrist.

With a wrench the man undertook to free his hand; he uttered a threatening oath. The next instant he was treated to a surprise, for Gray jerked him forward and simultaneously his empty palm struck the fellow a blinding, a resounding smack. Again he offed the fellow's face, this time from the other side. When he finally desisted the stranger rocked in his tracks; he shook his head; he blinked and he cursed; it was a moment before he could focus his whirling sight upon his assailant. When he succeeded it was to behold the latter staring at him with a mocking, threatening smile.

The drunken man hesitated, he cast a slow glance around the room then muttering hoarsely, he turned and made for the door. He was followed by a burst of derisive laughter that grew louder as he went.

Gray was in a better mood now than for several hours; he had vented his irritation; the air had cleared. After a while he discovered that he was hungry; no longer was he too resentful to heed the healthy warning of his stomach, so he left the place.

CHAPTER XIX.

A Bold, Bad Man

Newton's eating places were not appetizing at least but a meal could be endured with less discomfort by night than by day for at such times most of the flies were on the ceilings. The restaurant Gray entered was about what he had expected; along one side ran a quick-order counter at which were seated several customers; across from it was an oilcloth-covered table, perfectly bare except for a revolving centerpiece—one of those silver-plated whirligigs fitted with a glass salt.

and-pepper shaker, a toothpick holder, an unpleasant oil bottle, and a cruet intended for vinegar. Here, facing an elderly man in a wide gray felt hat, Gray seated himself.

When a departing customer left the door open, the elderly diner grumbled bitterly at the draught and draped his overcoat over his bent shoulders.

Most of the counter customers had drifted out when, without warning, the screen door banged loudly open and Gray looked up from his plate to see his recent acquaintance.

"HANDS OFF, STRANGER! I WON'T HAVE YOU BUTTIN' IN."

quaintance of the gambling table approaching. He lurched directly up to the table and stared across at Gray.

"Slapped my face, didn't you?" he cried, after a menacing moment.

"I did, indeed," the speaker nodded, pleasantly.

"You ain't going to slap it again. You ain't going to slap anybody's."

"What makes you think I won't?" Gray became aware as he spoke that his elderly neighbor had raised to the intruder, a countenance stamped with a peculiar expression of incredulity almost of anger, at the interruption.

That which occurred next came unexpectedly. The stranger whipped out from under his coat a revolver, at the same time voicing a profane answer to the challenge.

As Calvin Gray rose to his feet it was with a flash of mingled anger and impudence. This quarrel was so utterly senseless, it served so little purpose.

"My friend," he cried, sharply, "if you don't put up that gun, one of us will go to a hospital."

By way of rousing his savagery, the fellow uttered a bellow, then, like a warrior smiting his shield with his spear before the charge, he swung his heavy weapon, smashing at one blow that silver-plated merry-go-round with his cluster of bottles.

A shower of toothpicks, fragments of glass, a spatter of oil and vinegar covered the old man in the end chair, and he rose with a cry that drew a swift glance from the desperado.

Gray was upon the point of launching himself over the table when he witnessed a peculiar transformation in his assailant. The man's expression altered with almost comic suddenness, he lowered his weapon and took a backward step. Gray, too, had cause for astonishment, for the elderly man was moving slowly toward the disturber, his overcoat, meanwhile, hanging loosely from his left shoulder, like a mantle.

That he had been recognized was plain, for the armed man cried, agitatedly: "Look out, Tom! I don't want any truck with you."

The deliberate advance continued; in a harsh voice Tom answered: "I don't allow anybody to interfere with me when I'm eating." For every step he shuffled forward the man before him fell back a corresponding distance.

Again the newcomer rasped out a warning, and Gray, too, added his voice, saying: "Leave him to me, old man. This is my quarrel." As he spoke he moved around the end of the table, but the mantled figure halted him with an imperious jerk of the head. Without in the slightest diverting his steady gaze, Tom snapped:

"Hands off, stranger! I won't!"

TO RELIEVE PAIN AND BACKACHE Women May Depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I had heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that when I realized I needed to take something to relieve my pains and backache, and to help build me up, I began to take it. I had been sick off and on for years and barely weighed a hundred pounds, but now I have had such good results that I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to every one."—Mrs. J. J. BIEBER, 3939 18th Ave. South, Minneapolis, Minn.

Finds a True Friend. "Every woman who values her health should be proud to have a true friend like the Vegetable Compound," says Mrs. W. E. Shaw, 3227 Walnut Street, Chicago, Illinois. "I had female weakness so badly that I could not stand on my feet. Half of my time was spent in bed and I had pains in my back which were unbearable. I tried everything I could think of to help myself, and when a friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began taking it at once. I recommend it without hesitation."

have you buttin' in, either. I don't allow anybody to interfere with me when I'm eating."

Brief as had been the whole episode, already passersby had halted, staring faces were glued to the front windows of the cafe. Well they might stare at those two tense figures, one advancing, the other retreating, as if to the measures of some slow dance.

But the tempo changed abruptly. The desperado's back brought up against the swinging kitchen door; it gave to his weight and decision was born of that instant. With a cry he flung himself backward, the spring door snapped to and swallowed him up with the speed of a camera shutter; then followed the sound of his heavy rushing footsteps.

"Hell!" exclaimed the old man. "I had his buttons counted!" With the words he let fall his overcoat, and there, beneath it, Gray beheld what he had more than half suspected, what indeed was ample cause for the quarrelsome stranger's apprehension. Held close to the owner's body was what in the inelegant jargon of the west is known as a "dog leg." The weapon a frontier Colt's of heavy caliber, was full cocked under the old man's thumb; the hand holding it was as steady as the blazing eyes above.

The street door burst open, a noisy crowd poured into the room, a volley of excited questions was raised. Amid the confusion Gray heard his own name shouted, and found himself set upon by two agitated friends, Mallow and Stoner.

Mallow dragged him toward the door.

"Gee Governor! You gave us a run. We've been coming since noon."

"It was only by the grace of God," Stoner declared, "that we heard you were out here and why you'd come. We managed to get a phone call through to Jackson, but it was—"

"Jackson didn't get to you, did he?" Mallow inquired anxiously.

"Get to me? No. Nor I to him." Gray spoke impatiently. "What is this all about?"

"Simply this Governor: Jackson's well is a 'set-up!' For Nelson! We nearly dropped dead when we found out that Parker kid had laid you against it. Why didn't you tell us?"

"What are you saying? I don't—"

"The well's phony. Dry as a pretzel."

"In what way? I saw the oil—"

"I'll say you did." Mallow chuckled. "Live oil too; right out of old Mamma Earth. Cheap lease at seventy-five thousand, eh? It's like this—" gaining of their married lives. Why should that knit their affections so closely together?

I don't believe I shall need that explanation so much as I would have, had I not received Sally's letter. Sometimes I almost find it in my heart to envy Sally. She has made herself so indispensable to her husband.

I do not know what I would do if I were placed in a similar position. You probably will not understand this, you "gay little Marguise," for, if I read your letters aright, you were always just a care-free bit of thistle-down that was content to be the secret sweetheart of a king.

Today, my dear, no woman wants to be dependent on any man's whim even tho he thinks the whim a love impulse. I shall teach my daughters something stable by which they will be able to support themselves if necessary.

Mother will have to tell me something, however, when she comes. She will have to tell me how I can make myself a greater help to Jack.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT, CARE OF THE SECRET DRAWER.

I am going to deposit this letter from Sally Atherton in this little secret drawer and when I am inclined to think my lot is hard and when I find myself rebelling against my little annoyances, I am going to take it out and read it.

Strange, isn't it, that most women will face a great calamity when it comes into their lives just as bravely as Sally? I also believe that most of them will worry and fret about the little nagging pin-pricks of life as I do.

Most of us rebel daily against the little encroachments which the sordid business of living makes upon husband and wife and their love. These little everyday martyrdoms should be glided by love with the shining gold of forbearance.

Lovers, as you know dear little Marguise, are never partners in the true sense of the word and most young people are greatly surprised and shocked when they find that marriage is a business pure and simple.

I am going tomorrow to see Alice off and mother and dad are coming back with me.

I am going to make mother explain what she said in her last letter to me. Why should young married people have worries at the best of times?

SHORT SHAVINGS

Miss Gertrude Miller, clerk in Justice of the Peace Botkin's office reports the sad experience of a friend who owns a bowl of pet goldfish.

"She mistook some soap chips for fish food and fed them to the fish," says Miss Miller.

She realized the mistake later, however.

"That was when all the fish died."

Fred Gillham, meat market manager, was carrying home a bag of eggs from the grocery. A large and able dog, attached to a leather string, held by a small boy, ran between his legs.

His feet shot out from under him and he sat down with a bump.

The bag of eggs flew from his hand as he fell and landed three yards behind him on the pavement.

"Turn around and look at your eggs," laughed a bystander. "I don't like to," said Gillham. "I'm afraid they broke!"

Dr. Frank Smith thinks it is a mistake for a woman to cross a country road wearing a sunbonnet. It so limits her view and hearing.

One crossed the road unexpectedly, in front of his auto. He turned into the ditch to avoid her and swerved back onto the road, "and so far as we could see," he says, "she didn't even notice that he passed."

Seth Calvin tells about a flivver driver who had exhausted his credit at the garage at Hillsdale.

He couldn't get trusted for any more gas. But his credit at the grocery was still good. So he bought six dozen eggs and charged them, sold the eggs at another grocery and used the money to buy gas for his automobile.

Mayor W. A. Butler of Ottawa, tells about a family that moved into a new neighborhood. A few days later their neighbors, an elderly couple whose son was a clergyman, called in the evening. This was on Sunday.

The had scarcely removed their wraps and were comfortably seated when the small boy of the family, anxious to be helpful, and hospitable, said, "Shall I get out the poker, chips, daddy?"

Rare Values In Baby Carriages

The Lloyd Loom Carriages which we are now showing offer exceptional values in fine baby carriages. They are flawlessly woven of finest wicker. The remarkable loom which weaves them, around and around, in a graceful bowl shape, is so swift in its operation that the work is done in one-thirtieth of the time a man would require for the same work.

Naturally, this economy of labor cuts the cost of the carriage materially, and enables us to offer a carriage with every desirable feature, for a very modest price.

Pat. Process LLOYD Products
Baby Carriages & Furniture

The Lloyd Loom Carriages in our stock have a number of unusual refinements, such as resilient, oil-tempered springs, fifth-wheel reversible gear, automatic hood adjustment, special wheels and continuous pusher. They are handsomely finished in one-or-two-tone enamel, with harmonizing upholstery of corduroy. The price range, as well as the style range, is very considerable.

REVIVED AFTER MINUTES' WORK

Officer William Houtz Hero Sunday Incident

NEAR DEATH IN DROWN

Hadsell Bundy Owe Life to Resuscitation Plan

Value of the Shaffer method resuscitation of persons apparently drowned was effectively demonstrated Sunday morning at Haver's I by Officer William Houtz of the police force, when by heroic method he succeeded in saving the life of Hadsell Bundy, 18, of 752 Weat av. Bundy was taken from the water in an unconscious condition, a having been submerged more than 15 minutes, according to a report filed at police station, Chief T. Lanker stated Monday.

Officer Houtz was at the lake the time, and aided D. C. Cunliff, 340 Robb-av., Tom Housh, Weadock-av., and Lester Black, Ontario-av., in getting Bundy out of the water. The condition of the boy was such that considerable effort was experienced in getting Bundy to level ground, where the Shaffer method of resuscitation, taught policemen, firemen and others could be applied.

EFFORT REWARDED
Fifteen minutes of persistent effort on the part of Officer Houtz, rewarded when Bundy gasped breath and was finally fully revived. Houtz was about to give up, believing that the young man was beyond aid.

William. Kleb, Columbus, fi representative of the American I Cross, who came to Lima follow the drowning of Samuel Baxter I than a week ago, for the purpose endeavoring to have life guards stationed at local lakes, imparted firemen, policemen and Y. M. C. men a knowledge of the Shaffer method of reviving unconscious persons after being removed from water. Houtz was among the number who received the instruction.

Bundy was laid flat on the ground face down and by persistent kneeling of the body just over and to side of the kidneys, Houtz succeeded in restoring respiration, reviving the spark of life.

When Bundy was removed from the water his lips and finger nails were blue black and there was no sign of life.

WINS MERIT MARKS
For his heroic work in saving the life of Bundy which is simple but effective, Houtz will probably receive merit marks in his police department record.

Swaney, one of the members of the merit board, Monday stated such action will likely be taken.

W. A. Carey, 1000 W. Kibby, notified police headquarters of a supposed drowning of Bundy. Captain George Strick, Officer M. Laughlin and Fire Chief John M. Hurried to Haver's lake and found that Houtz had succeeded in reviving Bundy.

New York Wedding Party Stricken After Eating Salad

NEW YORK (Associated Press) — A bridegroom and five of his wedding guests are in a hospital today suffering from ptomaine poisoning, which last night struck down thirty-two members of a wedding party of 75 in a Bronx home.

The bride, Miss Mary O'Conne and various members of her family were among those stricken but were attended by physicians hastily summoned to the home.

Conrad Kissell, the 24-year-old bridegroom and the five taken to the hospital with him were said to be in a serious condition.

All were victims of chicken salad, the authorities said.

CATTLE BREEDERS OPEN MEETING AT CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND—The thirty-eighth annual convention of the Holstein Friesian Association of America opened here today with a meeting of the board of directors. The first business session will be held Wednesday when delegates representing 12,200 Holstein cattle breeders in 26 states and more than 500 individual breeders are expected to attend.

Standards of the so-called perfect type of Holstein cow and bull will be formulated by the "true type" committee, composed of noted cattle judges and breeders tomorrow. This is the first time members of the committee say, that an association of breeders has attempted to chat definitely the "perfect type" as guide and inspiration to breeders and students.
